He was a native of the Island of Antigua and related to several families of distinction in this kingdom. Some years since he went out Chaplain to the British Settlement of Sierra Leone, and on his return to this country was presented, by Mr. Whitbread, to the vicarage of Bledlow, where both by precept and example he approved himself a faithful pastor over the flock committed to his charge, as well as a learned, eloquent, diligent, and successful Minister of the Gospel, which was his own support through various trials which he had to conflict with in life, and happily in his experience afforded a source of unfailing consolation under the last struggles of dissolving nature. Extract from "Personal and professional recollections" by Sir Gilbert Scott, sent to me by Mr. J. Oldrid Scott, F.R.I.B.A.:—

"My mother's family were West Indians. Of the family of her father, Dr. Lynch of the island of Antigua, I know but little, but her maternal grandfather was the possessor at that time of a valuable estate known as 'Gilbert's Estate.' This family settled at a very early date in Antigua, previous to which they had resided in Devonshire, one of their representatives being Sir Humphrey Gilbert, half-brother and companion in arms of Sir Walter Raleigh. My great-grandfather, Nathaniel Gilbert, appears to have been a most excellent man. Living in a century of extreme deadness in religious matters, he was roused to a sense of the shortcomings of his age in this respect, either by the preaching or by the writings of Wesley. He consequently joined the Wesleyans at a time when they were not considered as severed from the Church of England. At his request Wesley sent over to Antigua some ministers of his Society to instruct the negroes and others, but though the whole family joined the new Society, it is clear that Mr. Gilbert did not consider himself otherwise than a member of the Church of England, for he brought up his eldest son as a clergyman. Nor do I recollect even a hint of those members of the family who were living during my childhood (including my grandmother and a great-aunt, Miss Elizabeth Gilbert) being other than Church people, although the last-named treasured up most affectionately her personal recollections of John Wesley himself, and retained through life a strong sympathy with his followers. This family was indirectly connected with several good families in England, among others with that of Lord Northampton, and with the Abdys, and with the Gordons of Stocks. Sir Edward Colebrooke once told me that he was connected with the Gilberts, and Sir Denis le Marchant also through his marriage, as also Lady Seymour, wife of Canon Sir John Seymour, and Sir George Grey."

WILLIAM GILBERT.

"A son of Mr. Gilbert" (Nathaniel Gilbert, Speaker of the House of Assembly in Antigua, who introduced Methodism into the West Indies, and died in 1774) "published in the year 1796 'The Hurricane, a Theosophical and Western Eclogue' . . . I knew him well, and look back with a melancholy pleasure to the hours which I have passed in his society, when his mind was in ruins. His madness was of the most incomprehensible kind, as may be seen in the notes to the 'Hurricane'; but the poem contains passages of exquisite beauty. I have among my papers some curious memorials of this interesting man. They who remember him will not be displeased at seeing him thus mentioned with the respect and regret which are due to the wreck of a noble mind." (Southey's 'Life of Wesley,' edition 1885, vol. ii., c. xxviii., p. 230, note.)

In a note on the 'Excursion,' book iii., Wordsworth quotes a passage from one of William Gilbert's notes to the 'Hurricane,' adding, "The reader, I am sure, will thank me for the above quotation, which, though from a strange book, is one of the finest passages of modern English prose."

In an essay on Poetry in 'Essays on some of the Forms of Literature,' by Thomas T. Lynch (London, 1853), Gilbert is quoted as "a mystic writer; one of those in whose dark pages shine many clearest gems of truth." "He wrote little, but was a man of genius, though of a genius shadowed by insanity."

(These notes of William Gilbert were contributed by Mr. E. Melville Lynch.)

Notes by Mr. Charles Hole of 58 Kimberley Road, Clapham Rise, in 1887:—

I find that Nathaniel Gilbert was curate of Aveley in Essex in 1789.

In 1791 Nathaniel Gilbert was curate of Great Budworth in Cheshire, the vicar of which was W. H. Warren.

Euphemia Lynch married Thomas Scott on March 25, 1806, at Bledlow.

Mrs. Lynch died Nov. 17, 1835, aged 80.

Ormond Street, where the widowed Mrs. Lynch seemed to have lived with her sister Elizabeth and her daughter Euphemia (afterwards Mrs. Scott) when she left Antigua.

Sir—My G.mother Ann Gilbert was the 4th dau. of Nathl Gilbert, some time Speaker of the House of Assembly in Antigua, by Elizabeth his 2nd wife, a dau. of W^m Lavington, Esq., Judge of the Island. Her brother Nathl Gilbert, who married a Miss Ford of this parish, was Mr. Fletcher's last Curate. He afterwards was Curate to Mr. Cecil at St. John's, Bedford Row, afterwards he became vicar of Bledlow, Bucks, & died 1807. Mr. Cecil preached his funeral sermon. His son by Miss Ford, the Rev. Nathl Gilbert, married his cousin Grace Horne, whose father Melville Horne married my G.Mother's sister. The Rev. Nathl Gilbert lived for some time at Broseley Hall in the adjoining parish to this. I knew him well. He often used to come & stay at my father's—George Lavington Yate, the Vicar of Wrockwardine; & after residing for some years, & in more than one place, he went back to Antigua and died at his estate there. I have a letter to my G^t Aunt Miss Elizabeth Gilbert from Mrs. Fletcher, addressed to her when she was living at Bloomsbury in 1796. I have also a short acct of the death of my G^t Aunt Alice Gilbert, also many letters from their mother, my g^t g^t G.mother, to her children in England, sent from Antigua. I have heard Mr. Nathl Gilbert my cousin and my father say that Sir Walter Raleigh was an ancestor of the family. I enclose three letters from the Rev. Charles Hole, who wrote to me abt the family. Will you please to return to me the letters. I believe Euphemia Gilbert, who married Mr. Lynch, was the eldest daughter, & Alice, who died in 1772, was the 2nd. I enclose order form, &—

I remain, Yours truly,

GEO. E. YATE.

Dear Sir—Mr. Nat. Gilbert, who died at Bledlow in 1807, married Miss Sarah Maria Ford, daughter of Darby Ford, Esq., of Coalbrookdale, on May 13th/84; they were married by licence by the Rev. John Fletcher. The Darby family were a well-known Quaker family in Coalbrookdale; they were iron masters. Mr. Gilbert was Curate at St. Andrew's, Holborn, at the time of his marriage. Mr. Melville Horne, who was Mr. Fletcher's immediate successor in the charge of this parish, & the 1st missionary to Sierra Leone, married Mary Gilbert I believe. I wrote to a neighbouring clergyman, the Rev. T. Owen,* Xt Church, Wellington, Salop, to ask when the last Mr. Nat. Gilbert died, whom I knew, Mr. Owen was in the Island at the time. Mr. Nat. Gilbert who married his cousin Grace Horne had no issue. My father c^d have answered all yr queries abt him. Archdeacon Melville Horne Scott, vicar of St. Mary's, Lichfield, c^d perhaps give you information.

Yrs truly,

GEO. E. YATE.

No. 4.

Indenture made the 25th June 1789 between the above. Whereas by Indentures made the 17th and 18th Sep. 1746 the release being tripartite between William Gunthorpe, deceased, of the one part, and William Mackinen, Robert Christian, Stephen Blizard, and John Watkins of Antigua, Esquires, of the other part, after reciting that a marriage was intended shortly to be solemnized between William Gunthorpe, since deceased, and Elizabeth Watkins, also deceased, it is witnessed that in consideration of the premises, and especially of the intended marriage, William Gunthorpe did convey to William Mackinen, Robert Christian, Stephen Blizard, and John Hawkins all that plantation, etc., therein and hereinafter mentioned . . . in trust for 99 years after the death of William Gunthorpe, that Elizabeth Watkins might receive an annuity of £200 for life for her jointure, and subject to the annuity to preserve the contingent remainders to their first and other sons successively and their heirs male . . . and for default to their daughters as tenants in common, in tail general with cross remainders . . . and for default to the right heirs of William Gunthorpe . . . and whereas the marriage took effect and William Gunthorpe and Elizabeth departed this life many years ago, leaving William Gunthorpe, party hereto, their eldest son and heir-at-law, and whereas William Gunthorpe being seized of the plantation, etc., is desirous to bar and destroy the estate tail, etc., yet so as not to prejudice the said term of 99 years . . . Now this Indenture witnesseth that in conformity with an Act of the Leeward Islands . . . and for barring and destroying all estates tail and remainders . . . and in consideration of 10s. . . . William Gunthorpe grants and conveys to James Gordon in his actual possession being all that plantation . . . (as in No. 5) to the use of William Gunthorpe and his heirs for ever . . . and he constitutes Thomas Fairbairn of Antigua, Doctor of Physic, and Philip Hicks, and Thomas Norbury Kerby of Antigua, Esquires, his Attorneys.

1678, Sep. 17. William Mussenden, Gent., for 26,000 lbs., sells to John Gunthorpe, Gent., 500 acres at North Sound.

1681. John Gunthrop has 500 acres at New North Sound confirmed 10 Jan. by Sir W. Stapleton.

Petition of Charles Henderson, infant nephew and heir of Captain Archibald Henderson of Antigua, deceased, stating that the petitioner has been deprived of his estate by one John Gunthrop and others. Order thereon dated 19 March 1685, said John Gunthrop is Deputy Provost-Marshal. ('Colonial Entry Book,' No. 47.)

The following copies of title-deeds are from a communication from Council and Assembly of 1686 re Gunthorpe and Henderson: 1. By warrant from Colonel William Byam and Samuel Winthrop, Deputy-Governors, 6 Jan. 1669, 500 acres at New North Sound, formerly called Buck's Plantation, have been measnred out for Captain Archibald Henderson, David Arnuttt, and Lient. Christopher White 16 Jan. 1669 by Archibald Cockran, Surveyor-General. 2. A patent for these 500 acres was granted by Sir W. Stapleton to John Gunthorpe on 10 Jan. 1681-2 at the rent of an ear of Indian corn payable every Christmas Day. 3. Warrant for granting land to Major William Mussendine to make his former lands up to 500 acres, and certificate of Archibald Cockran that by order of Colonel Philip Warner he had on 7 Aug. 1677 surveyed 500 acres formerly granted to Henderson, White, and Arnuttt. Also, 4. Deed by which Major William Mussendin for a valuable consideration (of which four negros have been already received) sells to Mr. John Gunthorpe of London, goldsmith, a moiety of 500 acres 17 Sep. 1678, John Gunthorpe being now a partner with Mussendin. (3 white servants and nine negros still apparently to be handed over.) The above Captain Archibald Henderson was banished from the Island in 1674 and his lands confiscated or sold. (Colonial Leeward Islands, vol. 50.)

A Letter from the Governor, Council, and Assembly of Antigua was read on 30 April 1687 at a meeting of the Board of Trade which was in answer to a petition of 1685. They state that in 1669 Captain Archibald Henderson obtained a warrant for himself, David Arnett, and Christopher White to lay out 500 acres in New North Sound, which Archibald Cochran, the Surveyor-General, accordingly did doe. He continued there till 1671, when he was accused of certain crimes, and sent prisoner to England. He left his wife in possession and returned in 1672. He was subsequently banished in 1674. The estate was afterwards put up for sale, but nobody would buy it, so it continued waste till 1677, when Major Mussenden petitioned Colonel Philip Warner, then Deputy-Governor, and it was granted to him. Later John Gunthrop purchased it from the said Mussenden, and improved it at a great charge and expense, so Sir William Stapleton gave him a patent for it. Margaret Henderson on 12 May 1685, as guardian of her son, commenced but withdrew an action in the Court of Common Pleas. Gunthrop has gone to New England, but is dayly expected to return. ('Colonial Entry Book,' No. 47, pp. 259 and 280.)

1687, Dec. 1. Reply of Mrs. Margaret Henderson to their Lordships that Captain Archibald Henderson was in 1670 acquitted of all charges and received 20,000 lbs. of sugar as damages. He was unjustly banished, never having been heard in defence, and went to Jamaica, and there died in 1676. The lands then descended to petitioner's husband James Henderson, then in his Majesty's service in Scotland, and it was three years before he heard of his brother's death. He started for Antegoa, but died on the voyage out, when the premises descended to her son, and she says: "That since Captain Henderson last Banishment, the then Deputy-Marshall one John Gunthrop Son in Law to that Egregious Traytor John Cook Solicitor to the pretended high Court of Justice against King Charles the Martyr . . . hath, by the favor or Commission of Colonel Warner, got into possession of the said Plantation and being grown powerfull and rich by the Profits thereof," etc. She went to Antigua in 1684, but left off action at law because everybody was against her. Her said brother was banished "when Gunthrop's Father in Law Cook was a lawgiver." Order for both parties to appear in eight months with title deeds.

1738. Governor William Mathew writes that he has appointed to a seat in the Council "John Gunthorpe, Esq., a Gentleman of first distinction in the Island by his affection to his Majesty & Government by his Capacity, and by his Estate." (B. T. Leeward Islands, vol. 26.)

1766, June 11. Mr. Gunthorpe of Antigua, in his passage to London. ('Gentleman's Magazine,' p. 342.)

1774, Sep. George Hesse, Esq., to Miss Eliza Gunthorpe of the Adelphi. (Ibid., p. 446.)

1788, June 1. At his house in the Adelphi, much lamented, George Hesse, esq. From the lengthy obituary notice which follows it appears that he committed suicide on account of his gambling debts. His father was in the Paymaster General's Office. He married the dau. of Mr. Gunthorp, a West India merchant in the city, and died aged about 40 without issue. ('Gentleman's Magazine,' p. 563.)

1822, July 25. At Hampton-court, Miss Gunthorpe, youngest daughter of the late William Gunthorpe, esq., of the island of Antigua. ('Annual Register,' p. 287.)

1843, Feb. 28. In Edward-str., Portman-sq., Alicia, relict of the Rev. William Gunthorpe of Antigua. ('Gentleman's Magazine,' p. 442.)

From thence he found Means to discharge himself, and embark'd on Inson's privateering Expedition to the West Indies; where, at Barbadoes, he was commanded on Shore, to take Care of some Sailors. Happen'd to kill one of them in a Scuffle, was try'd, and by the Interest of some Scots Gentlemen, to whom he pretended a national Relation, was acquitted; yet, as this Accident made him doubtful of his future Safety on Board, it put a Stop to his farther Prosecution of this Voyage. He had not been long at Barbadoes, before the Island of St Christophers and Nevis were attack'd, or threaten'd with an Invasion from the French; and some Gentlemen of that Island, offering their Service as Volunteers, for the Assistance or Relief of their Neighbours in Distress, Sir Timothy Thornhill was appointed their Commander, form'd them into a Regiment, and took M^r Hamilton with him as an Adjutant, who I think was 1803. Memorial of Isabella, Countess of Glencairn, received 13 April and read 18 April reciting that her former husband, William Leslie Hamilton, was appointed Solicitor-General of St. Kitts at the time of the rebellion of the North American Colonies, when a great trade in arms was carried on between that island and St. Eustatius for the rebels, which he was very zealous in repressing. He was later made Attorney-General, and received twelve months' leave of absence for the recovery of his health, but died, however, and all his papers and effects, which went in another ship, were lost. He had spent large sums for Government, but she cannot make out accurate accounts from the loss of papers. She petitions for repayment. She again wrote Oct. 1803 from Updown House near Margate.

Memorial of Isabella, Dowager Countess of Glencairn, reciting that her former husband, William Leslie Hamilton, spent in the service of Government £15,000, and died at London four days after his arrival there from the West Indies. The ship with his papers foundered. Her late husband John, late Earl of Glencairn, not surviving his mother, her fortune has passed to another branch of the family. Her friend the late Lord Nelson could have confirmed her statements. Viscount Castlereagh, to whom she addressed her application, returned it and said that it should be made to the Secretary of State for War. From various letters annexed it seems that W. L. Hamilton resided at "Olivees,"* which was a magnificent house one mile from Basseterre, the property of his sister, where he lived rent-free. He supplied Governor Burt with large sums for obtaining information and suppressing the trade with the rebels. Letter from Joseph Foster Barham,

* Basseterre, St. Christopher's. Either in going or in returning a visit might be made to the Monkey Hill Estate and the Olives (indeed, the hill is part of the former). The estate-houses belonging to them both, pleasantly and coolly situated, standing high, two or three hundred feet above the level of the sea, are favourable instances of the dwellings of the planters, especially that of the Olives. It stands on a well-raised stone terrace, paved with marble, and when in its best days (it is now out of repair) had spacious open galleries and verandahs. One large finely-proportioned room extends the whole length of the front, with a handsome deep cornice, and ample doors, both of dark mahogany, and if I recollect rightly a half wainscot of the same wood. It was in the bygone and convivial times the great reception and dining room. The estate comprising 283 acres, viz. 151 of cane-land, 132 of pasture, was spoken of in proof of the depreciated value of landed property; the gentleman then residing there said that the whole might be purchased for £3000, a less sum than the original cost of the house. (Davy's 'West Indies,' p. 463.)

nephew of Governor Burt, who said that the latter was much indebted to the writer's father. William L. Hamilton's practice for three years preceding his acceptance of office averaged £13,000 currency a year or £9000 sterling, all which he relinquished on his appointment. (Undated. 'Colonial Correspondence,' vol. 49.)

1807, Sep. 5. Vaughan Hamilton writes from St. Kitts stating that he is a member of the bar of that island, that his uncle William Leslie was Attorney-General, and applies for the post of Solicitor-General. He was also high up in the 1st Tripos at Cambridge, and spent seven years at the Inner Temple. (Ibid., vol. 45.)

1815, Oct. 29. In Berners-street, aged 73, Mrs. Mary Hamilton, relict of the late Robert Hamilton, M.D., of the island of Grenada. ('Gentleman's Magazine,' p. 636.)

1824, May 17. At Boulogne-sur-Mer, Isabella, Countess of Glencairn. She was daughter of Henry David, 10th Earl of Buchan, by Agnes, 2nd daughter of Sir James Stewart of Colness and Goodtress, Bart. (who died Dec. 11, 1778); was married Jan. 21, 1770, to William Leslie Hamilton, Esq. (who died Oct. 1780, Attorney-General of the Leeward Islands, without issue); and her Ladyship was married, 2dly, to the Right Hon. and Rev. John, 18th and last Earl of Glencairn, who died Sep. 24, 1796, leaving his Countess without issue. (Ibid., p. 177.)

1835, Dec. 8. At Hallowell (Maine), United States, Benjamin Vaughan, esq., formerly of London, in his 85th year. (Ibid., p. 415, A° 1836.)

1840, Oct. 11. At Streatham Common, Arabella, wife of Alexander Hamilton, esq. (Ibid., p. 554.)

Less than a mile below Irvington, and about half-way between that village and Dobb's Ferry, is the beautiful estate of Nevis, the home and property of the Honourable James A. Hamilton, eldest surviving son of the celebrated General Alexander Hamilton, one of the founders of the Republic of the United States. (Nevis is the name of one of a group of the Antilles where General Hamilton was born.) It stands on the brow of the river slope, in the midst of a charming lawn, that extends from the highway to the Hudson, a distance of half a mile, and commands some of the finest and most extensive views of that portion of the river. The mansion is large, and its interior elegant. It presents many attractions to the lover of literature and art, aside from the delightful social atmosphere with which it is filled. There may be seen the library of General Hamilton, one of the choicest and most extensive in the country at the time of his death. There, too, may be seen a portrait of Washington, by Stuart, painted for General Hamilton, in 1798, when, in expectation of a war with France, the United States organised a provisional government, and appointed him acting commanding general under the ex-president (Washington) who consented to be the chief.

On the river bank of the Nevis estate is a charming little cottage, completely embowered, where Mr. Irving was a frequent and delighted visitor. It is the summer residence of Mr. Schuyler (a grandson of General Schuyler), Mr. Hamilton's son-in-law. ('The Hudson,' Art Journal, A° 1861, p. 241.)

According to the most reliable authority on the subject, Alexander Hamilton was born on the 11th day of January 1757, of Scottish parentage, on the island of Nevis. His father died while he was yet a child; his mother did not long survive her husband, leaving her boy an orphan in indigent circumstances. . . . He sailed for Boston in 1774. (Paton's 'Down the Islands,' p. 291.)

The Life and Times of ALEXANDER HAMILTON, Aide-de-Camp, Secretary, and Minister to General Washington, by C. J. Riethmuller. Thick sm. 8°. 1864.

Extract from a letter written 28 March 1892 by the Rev. G. H. M. Hamilton, Vicar of Tandridge near Godstone, Surrey: "I cannot find the connecting link between the West Indies & Scotland. I feel sure that my family came from Scotland originally. I have the crest & coat of arms which belonged to my Grandfather. The coat of arms has four quarterings, 2 with Hamilton roses, and 2 with Arran ships—Arran was the second title. William Leslie Hamilton was my Great Grandfather's brother. He was married in 1770 and called to the Bar before that. The Mid. Temple records have William Hamilton son of William H. of St Christopher Esq. admitted 24 Nov. 1761 called to the bar 1767. There can be no doubt I think, that the Leslie was left out by mistake because there are several proofs that William Leslie H. was called to the bar, and at the same time my friend who searched the records could find no trace of a Will^m Leslie H. being enrolled. Henry Douglas H. my Great Grandfather owned as I understand large estates in Nevis called the Hamilton Estates. Andrew Hamilton my Grandfather was a clergyman in the W. Indies for some time. I have been told that he held a living on the Hamilton Estate called Fig Tree. He died at Knippton. Many years ago a connection of my family on being asked as to our pedigree by my uncle, sent him a very complete one of the Hamiltons of Monkland saying that that was our family tree—but I cannot connect it with the West Indian H.'s."

And on 15 Nov. following: "Captain Hill and his lady have taken their passage in Captain Helmes' ship, by which I sende this. I writt you in my last, that he was going over governour, as he is; but he has no commission for it or the companie from his Majestie, only the King's and duke's letters to Sir William Stapleton, which, as I understand, are not recomendatory to either government or company, but in general termes; so that his dependence is wholly upon Sir William Stapleton's kindness, and promise, made by letter, of both those places . . . By that acquaintance I have with him, I believe him to be a very honest, just, trew-hearted man, altogether a souldier." And on 2 Dec.: The Captain (Hill) has seen service in France and Flanders, as well as in England, "where he bears the commission of eldest lieutenant of horse, as well as of Brigadier of the Duke's Guards." His rank in the army, therefore, is higher than that of any other officer serving under General Stapleton. The gentleman's "courage is undoubted, and yet he is free from pride; he is affable, courteous, and of a very good disposition." He will be found in the West Indies, as he has been found at home, "a trew and loyall Protestant, a stout soldier, and an honest trew heart," "very well beloved and having a great number of good as well as great friends about court."

Antigua. In Chancery. 12 Oct. 1782. Petition of Edward Horne of Antigua, Esq., reciting that John Sawcolt, Esq., died seised of the Road estate, and by his will dated 31 Dec. 1748 gave all his estate real and personal to his six daughters, Henrietta, Elizabeth, Anne, Rachel, Frances, and Barbara equally. Anne Sawcolt died shortly after her father, and her share went to her five sisters. Rachel married petitioner's father Samuel Horne, by whom she had petitioner and a daughter Lydia, who is yet living. On 17 July 1766 an Indenture was made between Samuel Horne and Rachel his wife of the one part, Valentine M. Horne, Esq., of the other, and they granted to the latter one-fifth of Sawcolts (then in the occupation of Mrs. Mary Trant, widow) on trust for their two selves for their lives, and then to their children equally after their death. Samuel Horne died in 1766, and your orator became 21 in Dec. 1771, squandered his fortune, and sold his reversion of half of one-fifth to his near relative John Horsford. Elias Ferris valued it. Sawcolts and the Body plantations rented together for £900 a year, and the Body was underlet at £120 a year. John Horsford only offered him £300 c. for his one-tenth. The estate consists of 120 acres, worth £60 per acre. His mother was 59 and very infirm when he sold his reversion, and petitioner was then at Grenada and a minor. His mother died May 1776, and left him nothing by her will. His father died in North America. His sister Lydia is wife of Dr. Robert Reid of Antigua. Petitions the Court for a decree in his favour. (B. T. Leeward Islands, 43.)

Letter dated 15 July 1783 from Edward Horne, Esq., with his petition to Lord North reciting that he attained the age of 21 on 4 Dec. 1771, and soon after from extravagance dissipated his property, and in Aug. 1772 had to sell his reversion of one-tenth of Sawcolts, to which he was to succeed after his mother's death. John Horsford was the lessee of that estate, and his lease would expire in 1783, he being petitioner's first-cousin, who offered £300 for his one-tenth share. Petitioner's mother was aged above 50 and in bad health in 1773. Her husband had lately died and the estate had fallen into debt. She died in May 1776, much offended with him for having sold his reversion. Petitioner having lived some years with Thomas Warner, the Attorney-General, was admitted in 1778 to practise law, and brought a chancery suit v. Horsford in 1782. The estate was worth £15,000, and his one-tenth was worth at least £1500. Petitioner lost his case and now appeals against Horsford, who took advantage of his youth and inexperience to defraud him. ('Colonial Correspondence,' vol. 18.)

In a Close Roll of Ashton Warner of Antigua, dated 1787, reference is made to a deed of 1 May 1771 by which he granted to a trustee all that his plantation lately purchased from Valentine Morris Horne, late of Antigua, but then of Grenada, Esq., in St. John's Parish and Division, containing 247 acres.

Henry Jefferson of Whitehaven, who traded to Antigua, married in Antigua about the year 1760* Ann Tweedie, daughter of Robert and Jane Tweedie, and sister to Mrs. Farquhar, wife of Robert Farquhar of Cades Bay, Antigua; she was fourteen years old, and had fifteen children before she died in Whitehaven.

Mrs. Farquhar had one daughter, who married Sir Michael Shaw-Stewart, Bart., of Ardgowan, N.B., and inherited Cades Bay estate, leaving two sons and three daughters on her death when a widow in 1850. Mrs. Farquhar was a widow—Mrs. Chillicombe—when she married Mr. Farquhar, and had one daughter, who married Dr. Apreece, and afterwards the celebrated Sir Humphrey Davy, but had no family. She was a very talented woman, and became one of the leaders of society in London.

Lady Davy and Lady Shaw-Stewart were thus cousins to Robert Jefferson of Whitehaven.

The Kirwans of Antigua came with several other allied families from the city of Galway, whose inhabitants in the seventeenth century carried on a considerable trade with the West Indies. The Dalys acquired great influence in Galway during the eighteenth century, most of the mayors having been elected from that family. Sir John Kirwan Fitz-Stephen, who purchased Castle Hackett, amassed a large fortune in the West Indies and was mayor of his native city in 1686 and 1687. He was the first to introduce modern glass windows there in 1689. (See Hardiman's 'History of Galway'.)

1712-13, March 24. Petition of Elizabeth, wife of Mark Kirwan, stating that he is a Papist and beats her ; order made for a judicial separation and separate maintenance.

John Kirwan, merchant, of Galway, petitions that his ship the "Good Intention" had been condemned by Captain George St. Loe, Commander of the Dartmouth frigate, at Antigua. It was appraised at £37 and sold to the Captain for £24 less the captor's share ; £60 was spent in refitting it. The capture is confirmed by their Lordships. (Colonial Entry Book, No. 47.)

Extract from a letter written 22 Nov. 1889 by Mrs. Ellen Kirwan of the Waterwork estate, Montserrat :

My father the late John F. Kirwan of this island was eldest son of Clement Kirwan of Kendal Lodge, Epping, who was eldest son of John Kirwan, who was a younger son of the then Kirwan of Castle Hackett, Galway, and came over to England to seek a fortune. He started as West India merchant and amassed £150,000. I often heard my father speak of Pat. Kirwan and — Kirwan of Antigua. He never knew them as both died before 1839 when my father came out, but as family connections he was interested in Antigua on dits. Pat. Kirwan was in my great-grandfather's counting house, Lime Street (the John Kirwan from Galway), but ran away when a boy, concealing himself on board one of the ships bound for Antigua and trading for my great-grandfather ; thus he started in Antigua, and I think died worth £40,000—described as a rough Irishman noted for his blunders. The other Antigua Kirwan, whose christian name escapes my memory, was said to be a very polished gentleman and noted for his singing ; were they brothers or cousins ? I think Pat. Kirwan died single ; but a Miss Kirwan, daughter of the other, married a Mr. Wethered, Commissariat Officer in Antigua. My father knew Mrs. Wethered and her sister Miss Kirwan intimately in Paris at the beginning of the century, and her grand-daughter Miss Duffy of 51 Via del Senagli, Florence, is intimately known to me, and the only descendant of the Antigua Kirwans known of by me.

Pat. and — Kirwan were doubtless nephews from Galway of my great-grandfather's.

My aunt Mrs. Russell of Swanscourte, Kent, has a Genealogical Tree. I saw it as a child and am trying to get it, but my aunt, now near ninety, is past attending to anything of the sort.

My mother's sister, a Miss Hamilton, married Shirley Warner of Antigua; he died in Trinidad.

1891, Dec. 5. Extract from a letter written by Lady Knightley in reference to Richard Knightley, Esq., of Surinam:

The only Richard Knightley who will answer as to dates is Richard, son of Sir Seymour Knightley, the eldest son of Sir Richard Knightley by his second wife Lady Elizabeth Seymour, daughter of the Protector Duke of Somerset. Sir Seymour married Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Bedell of Hammerton, Hunts, and his eldest son Richard was born Oct. 3, 1603, died 1667. Baker says he died unmarried, but the MSS. family history does not say this ; both agree that he was a Captain in Holland.

A Richard Knightley, one of the original patentees of the Providence Company in 1630, Lady Knightley thinks was the then possessor of Fawsley, son of Sir Seymour's elder half-brother Edward, but of course he may have been Sir Seymour's son. Richard, son of Edward, died 1639, leaving the property away from his half-uncles to a cousin.

Indenture made the 22nd June 1749 between James Langford, heretofore of Antigua, but now of London, Esq. (a younger son of Jonas Langford, late of Antigua, Gentleman, deceased), of the one part, and Jonas Langford, heretofore of Antigua, but now also of London, Esq. (eldest son and heir-at-law of the said Jonas Langford, deceased), of the other part, witnesseth that in consideration of 5s. James Langford sells unto Jonas Langford . . . all that plantation in Antigua which was in the possession of Jonas Langford the father at the execution of his last will . . . and all slaves . . . and cattle, horses, etc., etc. . . . and all negroes named in a schedule . . . which were on the plantation on the 1st June 1748 . . . and all sugars, rums, molasses . . . and also all the undivided moiety of James Langford in the said plantation . . . except and always reserved out of the present sale to James Langford all lawful right to a certain house in the town of St. John, which on the 14th Jan. 1726 was in the last will of Jonas Langford the father mentioned to be joyning upon Mr. West, and which by the said will was bequeathed by Jonas Langford to his son John and the heirs of his body at 21, and in the meantime to be rented out by executrix for the benefit of John, was then bequeathed to testator's 2 sons Ebenezer and James Langford and the heirs of their bodies and for default to testator's son Jonas Langford and his heirs for ever . . . and James Langford party hereto doth further sell to Jonas Langford . . . a certain Indenture of demise dated the 14th April 1744 made between Elizabeth Langford, then of Antigua, widow (mother of Jonas and James), of the one part, and Jonas Langford and James Langford, parties hereto, of the other part, whereby Elizabeth Langford did demise lease to Jonas and James Langford all that one

No. 9.

Indenture made the 23rd June 1749 as above. Whereas Jonas Langford the father in his lifetime was seised in his demesne as of fee in a plantation in Antigua, with slaves, horses, horned neat cattle, etc., which or some part of which was on the 7th March 1742 described as follows, that is to say, all that plantation in the parish of St. John containing 284 acres . . . bounded E. with the land of Walter Nugent, Esq., W. with the lands of Colonel Jacob Morgan, Mr. William Lindsey, and the Hon. Charles Dunbar, Esq., N. with the lands of Samuel Watkins, Esq., and S. with the lands of the said Charles Dunbar . . . and all those negroes (names given), 23 men, 25 women, 9 boys and girls . . . and 20 horses and 100 head of horned neat cattle . . . and being so seised he made his last will dated the 14th Jan. 1726 and departed this life in Dec. 1730 so seised . . . leaving issue the said Jonas, party hereto, his eldest son and heir-at-law, and 3 younger sons Ebenezer, James, party hereto, and John . . . and the will was duly proved and recorded in Antigua, and whereas immediately upon the death of Jonas Langford the father, Ebenezer and James Langford entered upon the whole lands . . . and afterwards on the 15th March 1734 Ebenezer dyed, an infant under 21, without issue, and the undivided moiety did descend to John Langford in tail general, but being then an infant, the guardians of James Langford, also then an infant, entered upon the whole lands . . . in right of James . . . and whereas John Langford on the 15th Oct. 1742 dyed an infant under 21, and without issue, whereby the said moiety which belonged to Ebenezer, and afterwards to John, descended to Jonas Langford, party hereto, in fee simple, and whereas Jonas Langford on the 7th March 1742 did in the name of William Simpson, Gentleman, his feigned lessee, file his declaration in ejectment in H.M.'s Court of Common Pleas in Antigua, at the Court House of St. John's for recovery of the possession of the one undivided moiety of the plantation, which Jonas Langford had demised to William Simpson on the 1st Dec. then last past for a term of years, as in the declaration of ejectment mentioned, to which ejectment James Langford, party hereto, appeared by his attorney and prayed that his name might be inserted as a defendant, which was granted . . . and then he confessed lease, entry, and ouster, and afterwards pleaded the general issue, not guilty . . . and issue being duly joyned the ejectment was tryed and a special verdict was found by the jury, and on arguing the said verdict before the Court of Common Pleas, by council on both sides, on the 23rd Aug. 1743 it was considered by the Court that William Simpson should recover his term then to come in the said moiety from James Langford, as also such costs as the Court should think fitt to allow . . . and that James Langford should be in mercy, and so forth, as by the records . . . may appear . . . and whereas James Langford afterwards sued on a writ of error returnable before his Excellency William Mathew . . . and H.M.'s Council . . . in order to reverse the judgment in ejectment, and afterwards assigned the common error, and William Simpson by his attorney replied to the said error, and the writ of error came to be argued at a Court of Errors at the said Court House on the 10th Oct. 1743, at which time it was considered by the Court the judgment should be affirmed, and it was affirmed and the Court considered the defendant in error should receive his costs to be taxed by the Secretary of the Island and whereas James Langford by his attorneys did appeal to His Majesty in Council from the judgment of the Court of Errors which appeal was granted upon giving security as by H.M.'s instructions in such case is directed as by the records may appear and whereas James Langford did on the 9th May 1744 present his petition of appeal praying that the judgments might be both sett aside, and judgment given for him with costs, but by His Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 20th March 1745, made on a report from the Lords of the Committee of Council for hearing appeals from the plantations, to whom His Majesty in Council had referred the petition, and who reported they had fully heard the parties His Majesty was pleased by the advice of his Privy Council to order the judgments to be affirmed and the petition dismissed and whereas by an Indenture of demise dated the 14th April 1744 (as in No. 10) and whereas during the time the ejectment was so brought and before the same was finally determined James Langford, having occasion for £4000 sterling, did apply to his brother Jonas to lend it to him and did receive the same, and by deeds made in Antigua where both then were, James Langford on the 14th April 1744 did mortgage, etc., the whole plantation and all his estate therein, or the moiety to Jonas Langford and his heirs for ever subject to the repayment of the £4000 with interest, at times now passed and gone and whereas there remains due the whole principal and £1344 sterling of interest to the 14th April last past, besides the further interest accrued since, but neither the original deeds of mortgage, or any copy are in Great Britain, where both do now reside, nor can at present be come at in Great Britain so as to recite the same and whereas James Langford having occasion for further money did at sundry other times borrow from Jonas Langford amounting to the further sum of £2387 7s. 11d. sterling to the 17th July last past besides interest accrued since and whereas Jonas Langford has advanced and paid to James Langford, or by his order and on his account sundry other small sums in Antigua, amounting on the 1st June 1748 to £301 11s. 3¼d. current, and whereas since the determination of the appeal Jonas and James Langford have been jointly seised and in possession of the plantation and some part of the crops and produce have been shipt to Great Britain and of late times consigned to Richard Oliver of London, merchant, for their joynt account, and part of the same has been lately sold by him, but the account of the sales is not yet rendered and other parts remain in his hands unsold and further parts will in all probability be now on the passage at sea consigned to Richard Oliver and other parts may continue to be shipped off from Antigua and be consigned as their joynt account and whereas the clear fee simple and inheritance of the undivided moiety (subject to the dower of Elizabeth, and to the lease, etc.) if sold is not worth nor will it fetch the said several sums and James Langford being entirely satisfied of the truth thereof has requested that his brother Jonas would accept of a good title and complete conveyance of the said moiety, subject to the dower of Elizabeth and covenants of the lease, in full satisfaction of all money owing and in satisfaction of the additional sum of £525 sterling hereinafter mentioned and Jonas Langford has consented. Now, therefore, this Indenture witnesseth that in consideration of all and singular the premises, and particularly of the said several sums of £4000, £1344, £2387 7s. 11d. sterling, and £301 11s. 3¼d. current, and of all interest and of £525 sterling to be paid at the execution of these presents James Langford grants and confirms to Jonas Langford in his actual possession being all that plantation, etc., etc., and all the slaves, etc., thereon, in the possession of Jonas Langford the father at the execution of his will and all the interest, etc., of James Langford therein to the only proper use and behoof of Jonas Langford and his heirs and assigns for ever and Jonas Langford agrees to pay all money laid out by Stephen Blizard, Esq., or any other agent for the purchase of negros since the 6th Oct. last past and will at all times pay the dower of Elizabeth Langford and perform the covenants of the lease and James Langford appoints Thomas Warner, Stephen Blizard, and Michael Lovell, all of Antigua, Esquires, his Attorneys Tobias Lisle, Thomas Gladman, James King, witnesses.

James Langford grants, etc., to Stephen Blizard all that house in the parish and town of St. John in Antigua, which was intailed by the will of Jonas Langford his father upon him and Ebenezer Langford his brother, since deceased, and the heirs of their bodies, and failing, on Jonas Langford his brother and his heirs for ever for one whole year Mansell Bransby, William Holmes, witnesses.

said premises in trust and after giving directions respecting the payment of the residue of the purchase-money, he did direct that after the purchase was completed they should stand seised of the premises in trust to pay to Thomas Langford Brooke his son £1000 annually as a suitable provision for him till he should become seised of the said hereditaments and in further trust to pay the remainder to Peter Langford Brooke his son, until a sum not exceeding £4000, which it might become expedient to advance to Thomas Langford Brooke, together with interest, should be wholly repaid, and after such repayment that they should stand seised of the plantations and slaves and the several articles of personalty comprised in the agreement of purchase in trust to the use of his said son Thomas Langford Brooke and his heirs lawful, and in default to the use of his son William Henry Langford Brooke and his heirs lawful, and in default to the use of Jonas Langford Brooke and his heirs lawful, and in default to testator's own right heirs for ever and testator appointed Maria Brooke his wife and Peter Langford Brooke his son, together with Meyrick Bankes and Peter Heron, his Ex'ors, and whereas testator by a codicil dated the 16th Dec. 1815 directed that if his eldest son Peter Langford Brooke should die in his lifetime or afterwards without having levied any fine or suffered any recovery of certain estates and hereditaments in Cheshire, to which he would be entitled as eldest son, under testator's marriage settlement or by his will, in which event the estates would go to his son Thomas Langford Brooke, who would then become eldest son, then in such case trustees should from the decease of Peter Langford Brooke stand seised of the plantations, etc., to the use of William Henry Langford Brooke and his heirs lawful, and for default to the use of Jonas Langford Brooke and his heirs lawful, and for default to testator's own right heirs for ever and testator departed this life without revoking, and the will and codicil were duly proved in the P.C.C. the 10th June 1816; and whereas by Indentures made the 10th and 11th June 1816 between Susannah Laroche and Charles Berners, of the 1st part, Henry Laroche and Alexander Lanotte, of the 2nd part, James Adair, of the 3rd part, William Crawford, of the 4th part, Robert Harrison, Robert Prickett, and Thomas Nicholls, of the 5th part, Anna Burland, of the 6th part, William Manning and Justinian Casamayor, of the 7th part, Dame Elizabeth Laroche, of the 8th part, James Laroche, of the 9th part, Elizabeth Thursby, of the 10th part, Justinian Casamayor aforesaid, of the 11th part, Henry Broughton and Peter Heron, of the 12th part, William Manning aforesaid and Benjamin Vaughan, of the 13th part, John Proctor Anderdon, of the 14th part, William Graves, of the 15th part, William Manning aforesaid, of the 16th part, and the Hon. In 1852 Thomas Langford Brooke of Mere Hall, Cheshire, was in possession of the following plantations in Antigua:—

Langford's	404 acres	St. John's Parish.
Langford's Wood	280 "	St. John's "
Jonas's	325 "	St. Peter's "
Laroche's	231 "	St. Paul's "

One or two other estates were probably purchased, for about 10 years ago the trustees sold the whole of the Antiguan property of about 1700 acres for £10,000 to Mr. Comache, a Portuguese merchant of St. John's.

At Langford's there is an old family burial-ground enclosed by a wall containing a vault formerly used by the Hodge family.

From the Parliamentary Return of 1873 it appears that the Mere Hall estate was of 4692 acres and £9707 gross rental.

EXTRACTS FROM BESSE'S 'SUFFERINGS OF THE QUAKERS.'

Jonas Langford, a Quaker, was the first of that persuasion who settled at Antigua. He arrived on the 14th of the 5th month 1660. Governor Kaynell treated him kindly so he purchased a piece of land and sent for his family. Shortly afterwards Governor Carden committed him to prison for speaking to a priest after his preaching. In Sep. 1660 his wife arrived. In 1664 he was imprisoned for holding a religious meeting in his house. In 1666 at the French capture of the island he was one of the four quaker masters of families who refused to take the oath of allegiance to the French King. While Colonel Philip Warner was Deputy-Governor he was again imprisoned for letting his people work on a fast day. In 1676 Job Langford was imprisoned for refusing to go on guard, and Jonas was fined 3500 lb. for not providing arms for himself and servants. In 1679 the latter sent the following letter to the Deputy-Governor Paul Lee:—

"Friend, Capt. Paul Lea!

I am at this Time, being pressed in Spirit, constrained to write to thee, and to lay before thee the unchristian-like Carriage and rude Deportment of some of those Members which go under the Name of Christians, but are by their Fruits found to be the Synagogue of Satan; and though such may be upheld, impowered, and strengthened to wrong and abuse the Innocent, who desire in this World nothing more than the pure Exercise of their Consciences towards God, yet I say the Rod of the Wicked shall not always rest upon the Backs of the Righteous, for though Hand join in Hand the Wicked shall not go unpunished, notwithstanding all their large Profession of Christianity which in the Day of Account will no more escape the Curse than did the Figtree that made a fair Show of Fruit but brought forth only Leaves: Now I cannot but lay these Things briefly before thee, thou being the principal Person, by whose Order those Persons acted, as they said, for upon the 30th Day of the first Month last, we, the People and Servants of the Most High God, were at the House of our Friend Anthony Cade, and sitting still, waiting upon the Lord to know his holy Will and to receive of his spiritual Blessings, even the heavenly Bread and living Water of Life for the refreshing and nourishing of our immortal Souls, without which we cannot live nor subsist comfortably: I say, as we were in this innocent harmless Posture, came in John Austin with his Sword, and Stephen Harper Constable, and having sat a while amongst us, rose up and went forth, and took Counsel together (as did the Jews against our Lord and Master Jesus Christ and his Followers) and came in again, and said unto us, You must depart every Man Home, for here must be no Meeting, and that he had Order from the higher Powers; but we having a more weighty Matter upon our Spirits, even to wait upon the Lord, and mind his operating, holy, quickning Power in our Hearts, gave no Answer, whether we would depart or not, for if we would not, he said, it should be worse for us, still threatening us with his Order from the higher Power; but we minded that Power that is higher than the highest, to whom every Soul is to be subjected: Now, after some Time I answered, We are not careful to answer thee in this Matter, even as the Servants of the Lord said to Nebuchadnezzar, for, said I, our Religion stands not, nor is upheld by any Earthly Power or Mortal Man, but in the Power of God; neither shall any be ever able to hinder the great Work which God hath begun, and is carrying on in the Hearts of his People. Then he said, I must go along with him before Capt. Lea. I demanded his Warrant, he said, If I would go forth with him I should see it; but I refused to go till I saw his Power; then he pulled out a Paper and gave it me to read, and having read it over and considered the Matter contained in it, and saw it signed

Paul Lea, my Soul was grieved, and a Pity rose in my Heart towards thee, and as I was pondering the Warrant and the several Matters contained in it, and the several false Accusations therein, and the many grievous Things laid to our Charge, it came into my Heart, the Scriptures are fulfilled, for the Proud are called happy, and they that work Wickedness are set up, and he that departeth from Iniquity maketh himself a Prey, and thus it was in that Day, when the Lord's People met together often, and spake one to another, and a Book of Remembrance was written for them that feared the Lord, and thought upon his Name. And now having fully considered this Thing, and taken a full View in my Spirit of the Design that was laid, it came into my Heart from the Lord, What will Dust and Ashes do? Will this Man contend with his Maker? Will he go about to hinder the Work of God? Surely he shall not be able to accomplish his Design, for, said I, in my Heart, if he could stop the Wind from blowing, or the Sun from shining, or the Sea from ebbing and flowing, then may he bring to pass these Things, but as he cannot do the one, so he shall never be able to accomplish the other, for it's a Work God himself hath begun in the Hearts of the Sons and Daughters of Men, and is carrying it on by his mighty Power, and by his outstretched Arm, and it prospers among his faithful ones, who are willing to take up his Cross, and despise the Shame, and follow him, who is leading out of all barren Professions, and lifeless empty Forms, into the Power and Life of Godliness; and of a certain Truth we know, and that from the Lord God, that no Weapon formed against us shall prosper, and every Tongue that rises up against us will the Lord condemn; for the Tongue of the Egyptian Sea is drying up apace, for the Ransomed of the Lord to pass safely on their Way to the promised Land. And now, Friend, I cannot but in God's Fear warn thee to take Heed what thou dost in this Matter, for it's safer for thee to take the Counsel of wise Gamaliel to the persecuting Jews, than to be forward and hasty in a Matter of so great a Moment as this is. Now consider seriously, whether the Carriage of these Men towards us were not rather Heathenish than becoming true Christians, for Men to lie in wait in the Woods with Guns and Swords, and then being called, to come rushing in upon us, more like Beasts of Prey than meer mortal Men. Surely these Actions will be a Disparagement to your Priests and Profession, rather than a Credit; for I am sure the Devil had much more Work done that Day, for many Oaths were sworn, and much filthy Communication, to the Dishonour of God, and the Grief of us his People, while we were still and quiet. The rude Hanlings, Threatnings to be beaten, and false Accusations laid to our Charge, would take up more Time to particularize than I intend at present, my Purpose being only to put thee in mind of the Danger that will follow all that seek to hinder us from worshipping our God in the Spirit and in the Truth, for God is not worshipped in Temples made with Men's Hands, though it were as Jerusalem and Samaria, for the Lord's People are a spiritual People, and in his Spirit they worship him, and the natural Man discerns not the Things of God, therefore we cannot beg or intreat any Man's Liberty to worship God, for it is not Man's Work to prescribe a Way of Worship for any, but it is the Work of the Spirit of the Lord alone that leads to the Spiritual Worship, and is acceptable in the Sight of God; therefore in true Love I warn and exhort thee to take heed of abusing the Power, and turn not the Edge of the Sword, that is put into thy Hand for punishing the Evil-doer, against him that put it there, lest thou be laid by as not fit for the Service of God, for it is a sad Thing to see the Innocent afflicted, and open Prophaneness and Ungodliness so abound in the Streets and publick Places, so that a great Crop of Uncleanness may be gathered. And now, Friend, I have heard that there hath been some Discourse between my Friend Edmund Hull and thee, and that thou has promised to appoint a Meeting to discourse of the Principles of Religion, which if thou be as good as thy Word, will be a very fair Way of Dealing, but I hope thou wilt be more punctual than Priest William Jones, who writ me a Paper, and promised a Meeting, but performed it not, neither answered my Paper sent him, though some Months past, which seems to reflect upon him. Much might be said to thy Warrant, and the many hard Things contained therein, but shall refer that till the Meeting, for indeed it is not strange to me to be hated of all Men; yea, they that have killed our Bodies, and plundered our Estates, have thought that they have done God good Service, but it is safe for thee, and for all, to mind the Light of Christ Jesus in the Conscience, with which all Men coming into the World are enlightened, and then thou wilt take the good Husbandman's Advice, to let the Tares and Wheat grow together until the great Harvest, at which Time each shall have its Portion, the Tares for the Fire, the Wheat gathered into the Barn. Thus I have, in the Innocency of my Heart, cleared my Conscience of what hath for some Time laid upon my Spirit, and am a Friend and Lover of thy immortal Soul.

ANTEGOA.

The solemn Declaration of Anne Langford, Wife of Jonas Langford the Elder of the Island aforesaid, Planter ; made and taken before the Honourable John Yeamans, Esq., Lieutenant-Governor of this Island, by holding up her Hand, in Testimony of the Truth of what she doth herein after declare, being one of those call'd Quakers.

The said Anne Langford doth hereby declare and say, that she hath been acquainted with the General, Colonel Daniel Parke, Governor in Chief of the Queen's Carribbee Leeward Islands, for the Space of three Years and upwards, and that during that Time the said General, Colonel Parke, frequently visited her Husband, and came to his House once in a Week or ten Days for the most Part of the Time that he resided upon this Island, until about the Space of seven Months last past ; and the said Anne Langford doth also declare and say, that he the said Colonel Parke hath not been but once, during the said seven Months last past, to visit her said Husband, or came to his House in that Time ; and according to what the said Colonel Parke told her, she verily believes that the said Colonel Parke, during that Time, did refrain coming thither so often as he used to do, by Reason that one Catharine Chester, wife of Edward Chester, the Elder, of this Island, Merchant, hath resided and lived at her, the said Anne Langford's, Husband's House, for about the said Space of seven Months last past ; and for Fear of giving any Occasion of Jealousy to the said Edward Chester, who, about the said Space of seven Months ago, had turn'd his said Wife out of Doors : And the said Anne Langford doth also declare and say, that the said Catharine Chester hath not gone abroad from her, the said Anne Langford's, Husband's House but twice during the said Time that she resided and lived there, and that was only to another Plantation of the said Jonas Langford's, when she, the said Anne Langford, and a Daughter in Law of her's, called Mary Langford, went both Times with the said Catharine Chester to the said other Plantation ; and that the said Colonel Parke was not at all in her Company, during either of the said Times that she was at the said other Plantation : and the said Anne Langford doth also declare and say, that the said Catharine Chester doth still reside and live at her, the said Anne Langford's Husband's House ; and that during the said Time that she hath lived there, the said Colonel Parke hath been but once there, which was about a Fortnight ago, and that he was not then at all alone with the said Catharine Chester ; but that she, the said Anne Langford, and one Mary Draper, were all the while in the Room then with the said Colonel Parke and Catharine Chester, when he, the said Colonel Parke, was last at her, the said Anne Langford's, Husband's House, as aforesaid : And the said Anne Langford doth also farther declare and say, that when the said Colonel Parke came to her said Husband's House, about a Fortnight ago, as aforesaid, he told her said Husband, that he came to take his leave of him, because he intended to go to Leeward in a short Time, or to that Effect : And the said Anne Langford doth farther declare and say, that she having understood, by a Note from the said Katharine Chester, that her Husband had used her ill, and turned her out of Doors, but that he was willing to pay for her Board somewhere in the Country, she, the said Anne Langford, thereupon sent for the said Catharine Chester to come and reside with her : And the said Anne Langford doth farther declare and say, she hath been credibly inform'd that when the said Edward Chester turn'd his Wife out of Doors, she went directly to the House of John Hows, Merchant, in the Town of St. John's, and that she continu'd there until the very Day that she came to reside at her, the said Anne Langford's, House, as aforesaid, which was two Days after ; and in some short Time after that, the said Edward Chester came to her, the said Anne Langford's, House, and asked if he might see his Wife ; whereupon she, the said Anne Langford, told him that if his wife pleas'd he might, or to that Effect ; and thereupon she, the said Anne Langford, went up to his wife, and told her that her Husband was below Stairs and desir'd to see her ; but his said Wife desir'd her not to press her, or use any Arguments with her to see him ; for that she had before desir'd and entreated him not to turn her out of Doors ; and that the next Morning after he had turn'd her out of Doors, she had sent the said John Hows's Wife to her Husband Chester to desire him to let her come Home ; but that the said Hows's Wife brought her Word again that she should never live with him and never see him again, or to that Effect : And thereupon she, the said Anne Langford, went down to the said Edward Chester, and told him what his Wife had said to the Effect last before-mention'd, which the said Edward Chester then own'd to be true, in the Presence of her said Daughter-in-Law Mary Langford ; and farther the said Anne Langford saith not.

ANNE LANGFORD.

The Affirmation of the within-nam'd Anne Langford, a Quaker, was taken before me, in Council, this fifteenth Day of March, 1709-10.

other sister, or either of them . . . and for default of issue of James Brebner, subject to the said charge, to James Brebner and his heirs . . . and Stephen Lavington hath also agreed to assign to James Brebner all sugars and rum . . . made in this present year 1755, for his own use and benefit . . . and Jane Lavington in consideration of the provision hath agreed to join in order to bar such right of dower as she might claim, but not to prejudice her right to the said £1000 currency . . . and the debts owing by Stephen Lavington in this kingdom, amounting to £2990 15s. 10d. sterling, James Brebner hath agreed immediately to pay to him £845 9s. 5d., part of the £4000, to enable him immediately to discharge a part . . . Stephen Lavington and Jane his wife convey to James Gordon, Nathaniel Gilbert, and Patrick Grant in their actual possession being . . . all those plantations, etc. (as in No. 4), in trust . . . to the use of James Brebner during the lives of Stephen Lavington and Jane, and after the death of the survivor in trust for 500 years to secure to James Brebner repayment . . . and to preserve the contingent remainders to the sons of Stephen Lavington and Jane in tail male, and for default to their daughters as tenants in common . . . and to their respective heirs . . . and for default that estate to determine, and to the use of Henry Wilnot of Gray's Inn, Gentleman, and James Doig of Antigua, Esq., during the life of James Brebner and Ann his wife to preserve the contingent remainders to their sons in tail male and for default to their daughters as tenants in common . . . and for default to James Brebner and his heirs and assigns for ever . . . and further witnesseth that for the considerations aforesaid, and in further performance of the agreement, Stephen Lavington grants to James Gordon, Nathaniel Gilbert, and Patrick Grant all that parcel of land containing 20 acres called Joe Lee's land in the parish of St. Philip . . . and also all that one other undivided 3rd part of Monk's Hill and Roundhill plantations . . . which now are or late were in the possession of Stephen Lavington by virtue of a demise thereof made to him by Eleanor Cope, late of Antigua, widow, deceased . . . during the residue of the terms of years . . . subject to the payment of the rents and performance of the covenants . . . in trust during the lives of Stephen Lavington and Jane to pay the rents to the person hereinafter expressed, and immediately after the death of the survivor to James Brebner and Ann his wife . . . and Stephen Lavington constitutes James Brebner his attorney to receive the rents . . . and assigns to him all sugars and rum . . . and James Brebner agrees to pay £1300 on or before the 1st Feb. next ensuing to the sole and absolute use of Stephen Lavington and his Ex'ors . . . and before the said date to pay to Samuel Fry of London, Esq., £2145 6s. 8d. now owing to him, and all other debts of Stephen Lavington not exceeding £4000, etc., etc. . . . £2000 for younger children, or to one if only one . . . and £40 a year till 12, and £60 till 21 . . . and Stephen Lavington and Jane his wife constitute Harry Webb, Thomas Warner, James Doig, and Nathaniel Gilbert, junior, all of Antigua, Esquires, their Attorneys . . .

Family of Lingham.

Petition of John Earle and Sarah his wife, Thomas Elliot and Elizabeth his wife, and Mary Lingham, spinster, all three sisters and heirs of Captain John Lingham, deceased, reciting that your petitioners' brother Captain John Lingham died 11 Dec. 1685 seised of a plantation called Blubber Valley in Antigua, and Catharine his widow kept possession wrongfully till her death on 22 March past, and hath by her will given it and all slaves and stock to some of the sons and daus. of Colonel Williams of Old Road, Antigua.

Dated 18 June 1691. Certificate follows that Captain John Lingham was born in Middlewich, co. Chester, and had only three sisters, who were all born and baptized there, and are Sarah, æt. 34, married 17 June 1677 John Earle of Middlewich, cooper, her now husband; Elizabeth, æt. 38, now wife of Thomas Elliot of London, gardiner; Mary, æt. 41, is a spinster. Dated 23 Dec. 1689, and signed by the Vicar, churchwardens, and Mayor of Middlewich. (America and the West Indies, vol. 551, fo. 72.)

Pedigree of Lingham.

. . . . LINGHAM of Middlewich, co. Chester . . .

Petition of Elianor Corbett, widow, on behalf of her son John Corbet, infant. Her late husband John Corbett purchased two plantations of the coheirs of Mr. John Lingham after the said Lingham's death. Colonel Henry Pearne got possession and still keeps them. She states that John Lingham, Gent., was owner in fee of Blubber Valley and Musketo Cove and died s.p. there, and his estate descended to his three sisters and coheirs, viz. Mary Lingham, Elizabeth Elliott, and Sarah Earle, in England, who conveyed their title to John Corbett of London, merchant, for a valuable consideration. After the death of Mr. John Lingham, Colonel Henry Pearne got possession. Mr. John Corbett, her husband, died at Nevis on his way to Antigua. She hears Colonel Pearne is about to apply for an Act to sell, and she opposes it. Received 5 Aug. 1701.

A letter in answer to the above is recorded, but it is not signed (the handwriting is like Governor Codrington's). The writer says that John Lingham was not a Gent., but a broken factor in Barbados, and has been a footman to a merchant, who sent him to Antigua in an open boat. He never had the estate in his own right, but in that of his wife, an old woman, whom he beat and starved and forced to convey the estate to him. He then sent her to England, hoping the hardships of the voyage would kill her, but she outlived him and returned to Antigua. Mrs. Warner as heir-at-law succeeds and enjoys the estate quietly. She settled it on her dau. whom Colonel Pearne married. Warner died from the breaking of an imposthume before the estate was settled. Corbet was not worth a farthing. Read circa 1701.

1680. Patent for 1200 acres to Katharine Watts at the yearly rent of an ear of Indian corn.

In the Book of Patents at St. John's is one dated 10 Nov. 1681 confirming to John Lingham, Gent., 1200 acres, formerly K. Watts', her now husband the said Lingham. Sold to Colonel Rowland Williams 10 Aug. 1681, and by him sold back 13 Aug. 1681.

On 1 March 1681 a patent was granted to Captain John Lingham for 50 acres.

Mrs. Katharine Lingham was rated on 850 acres and 73 negros in 1688. (St. Mary's Vestry Book.)

Horatio Nelson Mason, born Nov. 1831; died 21 Aug. 1832. M.I. at Amersham.

The following legal document was lent me by the Rev. W. O'Brien Hodge :—

Michael Lovell of Philadelphia in the province of Pennsylvania died in 1758 intestate, leaving seven children, viz^t, Michael, Langford, Ebenezer, Isabella, Elizabeth, William, and Mary, upon whom his freehold estate in that province descended in equal shares, except that according to the then law of Pennsylvania Michael as the eldest son took a double portion. Dividing the property (for the sake of more convenient division) into 5000 shares the proportions would at Michael the father's death stand as follows :—

Michael	1250 shares.
Langford	625
Ebenezer	625
Isabella	625
Elizabeth	625
William	625
Mary	625

23 Sep. 1784. Michael died having by will (dated 6th September 1784, attested by three witnesses, and proved by Thomas Oliver, Esquire, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury 30th September 1784) bequeathed his property to his Executors in trust to sell, and after his mother's death to divide the produce as follows, viz^t, One-fourth to go to his brothers Langford, Ebenezer, and William, and his sister Isabella, and the remaining three-fourths to his sisters Elizabeth and Mary.

At his death therefore the shares would stand as follows :—

	Original.	Additional under Michael's Will.	Total.
Langford . . .	625	78	703
Ebenezer . . .	625	78	703
Isabella . . .	625	78	703
Elizabeth . . .	625	469	1094
William . . .	625	78	703
Mary . . .	625	469	1094

Note : In these calculations fractional parts of shares are avoided, but any difference thereby made is too trifling to be regarded.

1795. Langford Lovell died intestate, leaving two children, Langford and Eliza, who inherited their Father's share in equal portions.

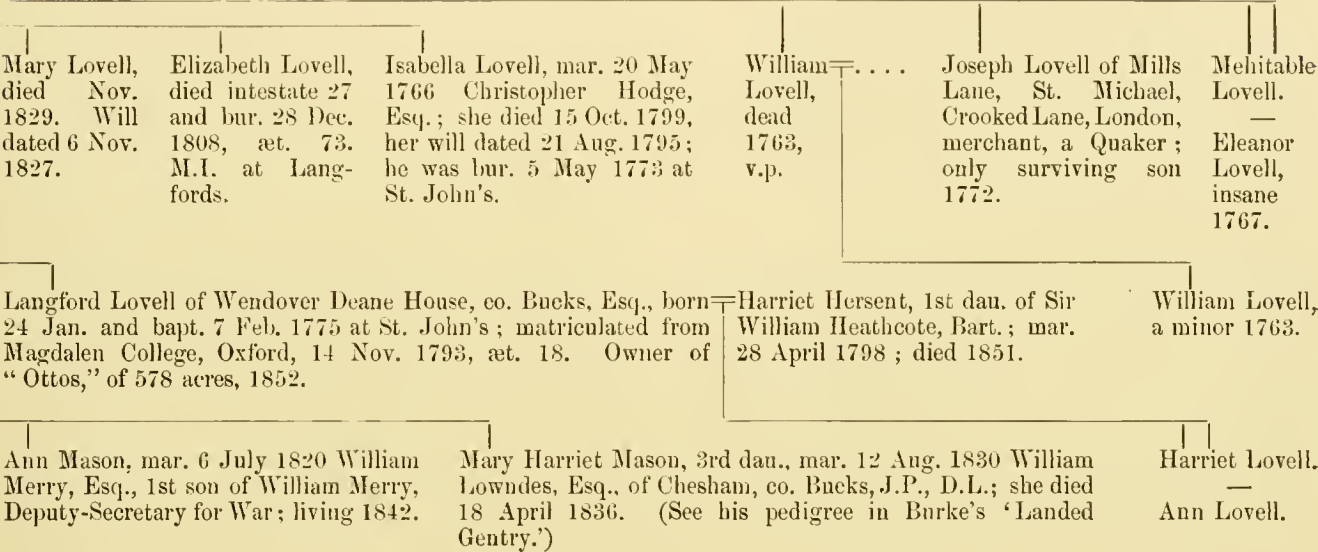

1798. Ebenezer Lovell died intestate and unmarried, whereupon his shares became divisible amongst his surviving Brothers and sisters, and the children of his deceased Brother Langford, they taking the share which their Father would have taken if living.

15th October 1799. Isabella (who had intermarried with Christopher Hodge, Esquire) died having survived her husband, and having by Will made in Antigua dated 21st August 1795, and attested by one witness, devised the residue of her estate, both real and personal, unto her daughters Isabella and Grace absolutely. As the heirs of Isabella Hodge the testatrix will confirm the Will the want of a second witness is immaterial, but being dated prior to the death of Ebenezer Lovell the Will did not operate upon that portion of Ebenezer's original 625 shares which by Ebenezer's death intestate had devolved upon Mrs. Hodge, and which consequently descended to all Mrs. Hodge's children as her heirs. It is otherwise with respect to Mrs. Hodge's portion of the 78 shares which Ebenezer took under Michael's will, because the direction for sale in Michael's will operated as a conversion of them into personalty, and Mrs. Hodge's will is sufficient to pass any personalty which she was possessed of at the time of her death.

1799. The state of shares immediately after Mrs. Hodge's death would therefore be as follows :—

Langford Lovell . . .	{ children of L. Lovell, }	422
Eliza wife of K. Mason {	deceased	422
Isabella Hodge (the daughter)—
Under her Mother's will . . .	359	} 384
As one of the heirs . . .	25
Grace Hodge, the same as Isabella . . .		384
Langford Lovell Hodge, as one of the heirs of his mother . . .		25
Michael Hodge . . .		25
Henry Hodge . . .		25
Elizabeth Lovell . . .		1235
William Lovell . . .		843
Mary Lovell . . .		1235
		5000

1808. Michael Hodge died without issue and without a will, but having verbally signified his wish that the whole of his property should go to his widow absolutely, and the present Mr. L. L. Hodge, and his sister Mrs. Watts and her husband, who are the only persons interested in taking advantage of Michael Hodge's intestacy, give up their claim in the widow's favour.

26th Decemb. 1808. Elizabeth Lovell died intestate and unmarried, whereupon her shares became divisible amongst her surviving brother and sister and the surviving children of her deceased Brother and sister, viz^t, $\frac{1}{4}$ th to William and $\frac{1}{4}$ th to Mary, $\frac{1}{4}$ th between Langford Lovell and Eliza Mason, and $\frac{1}{4}$ th amongst the four surviving children of Mrs. Hodge.

19 December 1815. William Lovell died. By his will made in Antigua dated 22^d December 1807 (but not attested by witnesses) he appointed his sister Mary Lovell residuary legatee and devisee, and the will is proved and recorded in Antigua. The intentions of William Lovell being clear, it is understood that the heirs at law will give effect to the will in the same manner as if it had been attested by two witnesses, but of course the will, if duly attested, could only operate upon the shares which W. Lovell had at the date of it, leaving the shares which devolved upon him subsequently by the death of his sister Elizabeth (that is, the portion of them which is to be treated as real estate) to descend to his heirs at law.

After the death of W. Lovell the shares would stand as follows :—

1815. Langford Lovell . . .	422 + 154 + 31 =	607
Eliza Mason . . .	422 + 154 + 31 =	607
Isabella Hodge . . .	384 + 77 + 16 =	477
Grace Hodge . . .	384 + 77 + 16 =	477
Langford Lovell Hodge	25 + 77 + 16 =	118
Sarah, widow of
Michael Hodge . . .		25
Henry Hodge . . .	25 + 77 + 16 =	118
Mary Lovell . . .	1235 + 310 + 1026 =	2571
		5000

1817. Langford Lovell Hodge died in 1817, having by his will dated in 1812 devised the residue of his estate unto or in trust for his son Langford Lovell Hodge, and leaving two children, viz^t, the said Langford Lovell Hodge the son and Rebecca now the wife of the Rev^d J. W. Watts.

1824. Henry Hodge died. By his will made in Antigua dated in 1811 (and which was attested by 3 witnesses, and proved and recorded in Antigua 22^d January 1824), failing children by his wife Elizabeth, he devises all his property to her, with a gift over to his brother L. Lovell Hodge and his sister Grace Hodge in the event of his wife failing to make any disposition of the property.

November 1829. Mary Lovell died. By her will made in Antigua dated 6th November 1827, and attested by three witnesses, she devises the residue of her property, both real and personal, unto her niece Grace Hodge.

State of Shares after Mary Lovell's death.
Langford Lovell	607
Eliza Mason	607
Isabella Hodge	477
Grace Hodge	3048
Langford Lovell Hodge the son—
Under his father's will	102
As one of his heirs	8
	— 110
Rebecca Watts, as heir	8
Sarah Hodge, widow of Michael Hodge	25
Elizabeth, widow & devisee of Henry Hodge	118

1831. Grace Hodge died, having by her will dated 20th May 1831, made in Antigua, and attested by three witnesses, and recorded in the said Island, devised and bequeathed the residue of her estate, both real and personal, unto her nephew Langford Lovell Hodge absolutely. This increased Mr. Langford Lovell Hodge's shares to 3158.

1837. Isabella Hodge, spinster, died intestate and unmarried, and her shares became divisible between her nephew and niece Langford Lovell Hodge and Rebecca Watts, increasing the number of shares possessed by Mr. Hodge to 3396, and the shares possessed by Mrs. Watts to 247.

1834. Eliza Mason died. She had intermarried with Kender Mason, Esquire, whom she survived, and by her will dated 5th August 1831, and attested by two witnesses, she bequeathed the residue of her personal estate unto her son Henry William Mason, Esquire. But the will does not dispose of any real estate as to which she has died intestate, such portion of her share in the Pennsylvanian property as is to be considered personal estate would pass to her son as residuary legatee, but the remainder descended upon all her children as her heirs by Pennsylvanian Law, viz^t, A. W. Mason, Eliza, then the wife and now the widow of Isaac Eeles, Esquire, Anne the wife of William Merry, Esquire, and Mary Harriet the wife of William Lowndes, Esquire, since deceased. Mrs. Lowndes left two infant children who have succeeded to her share.

The State of Shares is now (1842) as follows :—

Langford Lovell	607
Henry William Mason, as legatee	107
heir	125
	— 232
Eliza Eeles	125
Anne Merry	125
Mrs. Lowndes' children	125
Langford Lovell Hodge	3396
Mrs. Watts	247
Mrs. Sarah Hodge	25
Mrs. Elizabeth Hodge	118

Note : Two of the Wills mentioned in the preceding statement require some remark. The first is that of Mr. William Lovell, which (as particularly noticed in the statement of it) is defective in a point of form. But Mr. Lovell and the children of the late Mrs. Mason, considering that the intention of the testator was clear, came to the conclusion that they ought not to take advantage of such an informality to frustrate the intention of the testator, and desired the division to proceed as if the will was free from defect.

The other Will alluded to is that of Mrs. Mary Lovell. As mentioned in the statement she devises "the residue of her property, both real and personal, unto her niece Grace Hodge." and these words, if there had been nothing more, would have undoubtedly carried her share of the Pennsylvanian property, but after using the expression quoted the will goes on, "that is to say, All and singular my dwelling-house," etc., etc., and enumerates certain property ; and the question arises whether by such addition, "that is to say," etc., etc., the bequest of the residue, which but for that addition would have been a general one and included the Pennsylvanian property, is not cut down and limited to the property enumerated to the exclusion of the Pennsylvanian property. In the opinion of the legal advisers of Mr. Lovell and his sister's family the latter is the proper legal construction, and, if allowed to prevail, the consequence would be to lessen the share of Mr. Hodge and to add considerably to the shares of Mr. Lovell and of the Mason family. This point, like the preceding one, was communicated to Mr. Lovell, and he, being fully persuaded, not from the tenour of the will merely but from his knowledge of the family relations as well, that it was Mrs. Mary Lovell's intention that whatever she had to leave should go to the Hodge branch of the family, signified his intention to carry out, so far as depended upon him, what the family believed to have been the intention of the Testatrix ; and, the point being subsequently reported to the respective children of Mrs. Mason they all came to the same determination, the preceding statement has been framed in this respect.

Memorandum. We whose names are subscribed do hereby signify our approval of and acquiescence in the preceding statement, and do assent to the sale of the land in question to Mr. Snider at the price of five thousand dollars, and engage to execute the conveyance to him, the draft of which has been perused by Messrs. Law and Tindal. And we authorize and request Mr. Langford Lovell and Mr. Langford Lovell Hodge to make such arrangements as they in their discretion may think fit for the completion of the sale; the receipt of the purchase money, and the division of it amongst us (first deducting expences), according to our respective shares therein, as set forth or enumerated in the column opposite our respective signatures. With this further engagement in the case of Mr. Lowndes that as he is to receive the shares of his infant children, so he shall guarantee their concurrence and ratification of the arrangement, and indemnify the other parties to this division, and particularly Mr. Lovell and Mr. Hodge, from any further claims or demands of the said infant children relating to this estate or the intended division. Another letter was received from him 9 June 1698 in which he says the Jury gave a verdict for £2000 damages to General Codrington for libel. One of his children who was with him in the gaol has died. The proposals for an amicable arrangement were received 9 March 1698-9. Right Hon. George Lord Lucas acted as mediator, and the terms suggested were that John Lucas should apologise for any aspersions cast on the late General Codrington's character, and Colonel Codrington would give up all claim for damages, and mutual releases would be signed. To this Mr. Lucas answered refusing to retract or apologise. The termination of the dispute does not appear. (B. T. Leeward Islands, vol. 6.)

Mr. John Lucas used a seal which bears the coat of the Lucas family of Colchester, viz. A fess . . . between six annulets . . .

762. "ABERDEEN DOCTORS" IN 1769.—Did a Medical Society exist in Aberdeen twenty years before the Medical Society was founded? I can find no mention of such a body in Mrs. Rodger's interesting volume, but a diploma, dated 1769, which has recently come under my notice, points to conjoint action on the part of the practitioners of Aberdeen in certifying the qualifications of apprentices. The diploma was, very naturally, supposed by its present possessor (the great grandson of the grantee) to have emanated from one or other of the two Aberdeen Universities, but the five signatories do not include the Professors of Medicine in the University and King's College (Sir Alexander Gordon), or Marischal College and University (Dr. Alexander Donaldson). The terms of the diploma follow.

HENRY LYONS TO FITZ-JOHN WINTHROP.

Deare S^r,
This goes by my friend Blackliech, which is my seventh or eighth since I saw you. His hast gives me time to say little att present, onely to lett you know that all your relations here are well. I did expect almost by every New England man to have had a line or two from yon. Our kinsman Hodgskins is so kind as to write often to me, & complaines of y^e nott remembring him since you went from thence. M^r Blackliech can give yon a perticuler account of all friends here, therefore will trouble you noe further, onely tell you that I am in all sincerity, Dear S^r, HEN. LYONS.

August y^e 6th, 1700.
(Endorsed by F. J. W.—“Cap^t Lyons of Antegua, Aug. 6, 1700.”)

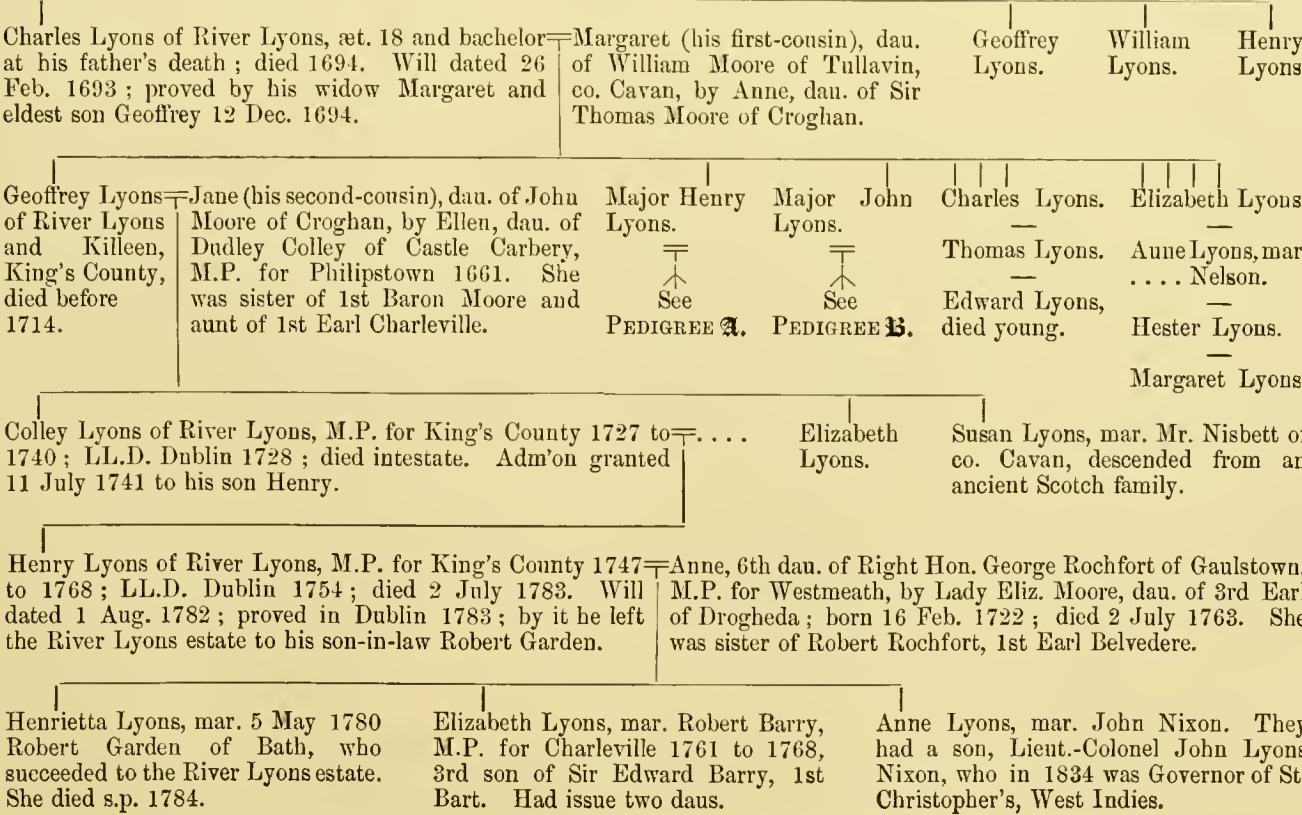

NOTE. The foregoing three letters are the only ones of Henry Lyons now preserved among the Winthrop family papers. The other letters of which he speaks perhaps miscarried, or were subsequently lost. He would seem to have visited New England and to have been well acquainted with his wife's family there. The brothers Fitz-John Winthrop, of New London, Conn. and Wait Winthrop, of Boston, were sons of John Winthrop the younger, Gov. of Conn., who was half-brother to the grandfather of Mrs. Lyons. The Mr. Blackleach mentioned was of a well-known Connecticut family, some of whom were concerned in trade with the West Indies. I have no idea who “our kinsman Hodgskins” was; no such person is referred to in the Winthrop Papers.

Close Roll, 30 Geo. II., Part 2, No. 16

Indenture of three parts made the 29th Sep. 1755 between Daniel Mathew, late of Antigua, but now of St. Anne's, Soho, Esq., and Mary his wife (late Mary Lyons, widow and relict of Joseph Lyons, late of Antigua, Esq., deceased, and one of the daughters of George Byam, late of the said island, Esq., deceased, and also granddaughter of John Frye the elder, heretofore of Antigua, Esq., deceased), of the 1st part, John Lyons of Antigua, Esq. (brother of the said Joseph, and one of the sons of Henry Lyons, late of Antigua, Esq., and also one of the grandsons of Henry Lyons, heretofore of the said island, Esq., deceased, and heir in tail male under the will of the said Henry Lyons his grandfather, and residuary devisee in tail male general under the will of the said Joseph Lyons his brother, deceased), of the 2nd part, and Robert Christian, Thomas Elmes, and Samuel Redhead, all of Antigua, Esquires (acting Ex'ors of the will of the said Joseph Lyons, deceased), of the 3rd part. Whereas Mary Mathew, party hereto, did on the 21st June 1748 intermarry with Joseph Lyons, being before and at the time of such her intermarriage entitled to a considerable fortune as her distributive share of the personal estate of George Byam her late father, deceased, consisting of several sums of money and securities for money outstanding in the hands of Rowland Frye of London, merchant, her uncle, only surviving acting Ex'or of her late father, and being also entitled to £200 sterling, a legacy bequeathed to her by the will of John Frye her grandfather, deceased, likewise remaining in the hands of Rowland Frye, who is also sole Ex'or of her said late grandfather, besides other considerable sums of money . . . and whereas no provision by way of settlement was made for her by her said first husband Joseph Lyons . . . nor was any part of her said proper fortune, which, or the greatest part of which, was vested in the public funds in England in the name of Rowland Frye, at any time paid over or transferred to Joseph Lyons . . . or the legal property in any respect altered . . . and whereas Joseph Lyons was, during the marriage and at the time of his decease, seised in tail male general under the will of Henry Lyons his grandfather, or in some other better right, of and in all that plantation in the parish of St. Philip and division of Willoughby Bay in Antigua, containing 400 acres . . . bounded E. with the lands of Thomas Elmes, Isaac Swan, and the 12 acres hereinafter mentioned to be conveyed . . . and the lands of William Lyons, Robert Sutcliffe, Thomas Browne, and the land belonging to the parish of St. Philip, W. with the lands of Benjamin King and of Dr. Stephen Lavington and of Rowland Frye, N. with the lands of the said Benjamin King and Thomas Elmes, Esq., and S. with the sea and the lands of Rowland Frye . . . and also of and in the following slaves (names given 40) . . . and whereas Joseph Lyons was also seised, during the marriage and at the time of his decease, in fee of the following pieces of land, that is to say a piece in the division and parish aforesaid, containing 12½ acres . . . bounded E. with the lands of Anne Hornyhold, now in the possession of William Lyons, W. with the plantation first mentioned to be granted . . . N. with the lands of John Grant and Isaac Swan, and S. with the lands of the said William Lyons and Robert Sutcliffe . . . and also another piece of land in the same parish and division, containing 13½ acres . . . bounded E. with the lands of the said Thomas Brown, W. with the first-mentioned plantation, N. with the said plantation and the said lands belonging to the parish of St. Philip, and S. with the lands of the said Thomas Brown . . . and also of the following negro slaves (names given 166), and also of divers cattle, etc., used on the said plantation . . . and whereas Joseph Lyons . . . on the 9th Oct. 1748 departed this life, having made his will, dated the 2nd Oct. 1748, and died without any issue born . . . but Mary was afterwards on the 7th April 1749 delivered of a daughter named Henrietta Amelia, who upon her birth became entitled to the legacy of £10,000 . . . and John Lyons the brother of Joseph became entitled to the several estates charged with the legacies, etc. . . . and subject to the dower of Mary . . . and whereas Mary, at the time of her husband's death, was in her minority, and did not attain her age of 21; on the 13th July 1751, and on the death of her husband, she became entitled to her dower of all the estates of which he died seised . . . besides the £300 sterling for mourning . . . and interest at 6 per cent. . . . and she was entitled in her own right . . . (as before); and whereas after the death of Joseph Lyons, upon a petition, preferred in a summary way to the Court of Chancery of Antigua, in the name of Mary, then under 21, and of her then guardian, it was on the 15th Feb. 1749 ordered by the Court that the Ex'ors should pay for her maintenance £300 sterling per annum till she attained to 21, the first payment to be made the 1st April 1750, deducting thereout £300 before paid to her . . . and whereas Mary, being so entitled before she was 21, and before she had made, or was enabled to make, her election . . . did intermarry with Daniel Mathew, and thereupon and previous to the marriage an Indenture of Settlement of three parts was made on the 17th May 1750 between Daniel Mathew, of the 1st part, Rowland Frye, Samuel Frye, and William Byam (trustees approved both by Daniel Mathew and Mary Lyons), of the 2nd part, and Mary (by the name of Mary Lyons of Antigua, widow), of the 3rd part, by which, after reciting as hereinbefore recited, it was witnessed that Daniel Mathew did covenant with the said trustees that if the marriage took effect the £3000 . . . and all moneys due to Mary . . . (except the £10,000 to her daughter) should remain in their names . . . and whereas the marriage soon after took effect . . . and on the 13th July 1751 Mary Mathew attained to 21 . . . and some time about the Michaelmas Term following a Bill was exhibited to the High Court of Chancery in England (which was afterwards amended) in the names of Daniel Mathew and Mary his wife, Henrietta Amelia Lyons by Daniel Mathew and Mary her mother, her next friends, against Robert Christian, Thomas Elmes, and Richard Boddicot, as Ex'ors of Henry Lyons, father of

John Lyons, party hereto, and against Rowland Frye as surviving acting Ex'or of George Byam, father of Mary Mathew, and against Rowland Frye as one of the trustees of the Marriage Settlement, and against Samuel Lyons and Joseph Lyons, brothers of Henry Lyons the father, as two other of his Ex'ors, and also against John Lyons, party hereto, as residuary devisee of Joseph Lyons his brother, deceased, and also against William Byam and Samuel Frye as the other two trustees of the Marriage Settlement, and against Mary Mathew, daughter of Daniel Mathew and Mary, by which Bill Daniel Mathew and Mary his wife stated and insisted on the several claims and rights of Mary upon the estates real and personal of her deceased husband, and also to her proper fortune belonging to her from her father and grandfather . . . and it was prayed, among other things, that an account might be taken of the plantations and estates of Joseph Lyons, deceased, and that the defendants his Ex'ors might admit personal assets sufficient to answer the annuity of £300 . . . and the two legacies of £3000 and £300 . . . and also the legacy of £10,000 . . . and all other testator's debts and legacies . . . and till such account should be given Mary and Daniel Mathew might be at liberty to suspend the election of Mary as to the provisions of her late husband's will . . . and if they resorted to dower on the estates that the same might be set out and allotted to her, but if she accepted her husband's provisions she might have the full benefit thereof out of all the fee simple and other estates real and personal . . . with interest at 6 per cent. . . . and the same be forthwith raised and paid to her and the trustees of her Marriage Settlement . . . and she might also have the further benefit of the plate and furniture, and that what was not delivered might be forthwith delivered to her . . . and that an account might be taken of the principal and interest at 6 per cent. due to Henrietta Amelia Lyons . . . and that it might be forthwith raised, secured, and improved for her benefit as the Court should direct, and a proper allowance made for her maintenance and education, as well from time past as to come, during her minority . . . and particularly that Richard Boddicot should transfer such parts of Joseph Lyons' estates as are in Great Britain to the Accountant General . . . to which Bill Rowland Frye, Samuel Frye, Richard Boddicot, and John Lyons (the infant) put in their respective answers . . . and Richard Boddicot admitted to have in his hands the several pieces of plate, part of the personal estate of Henry Lyons the father, left in his hands by the desire of Joseph Lyons . . . and he offered to deliver the same as the Court should direct . . . and he submitted to the Court whether Daniel Mathew and Mary ought not to account to the estate of Joseph Lyons for the value of a negro boy and girl, by him alleged to have been given to Mary by Joseph Lyons as a present before their marriage, and to be still in the possession of Daniel Mathew and Mary . . . and John Lyons (being then an infant) submitted whether Daniel Mathew and Mary were entitled to any part of the proper fortune of Mary which remained outstanding at the death of Joseph Lyons, or whether it should not be considered part of his personal estate . . . and Rowland Frye admitted that there was standing in his name £520 Capital South Sea Annuities Stock belonging to Mary, purchased by him for her one fourth part of her father George Byam's estate . . . and that there was then standing in the name of John Frye, junior, who was a co-Ex'or to George Byam, and to whom Rowland Frye was also Ex'or, £1250 Capital South Sea Annuities Stock belonging to Mary, the produce of part of her father's estate . . . and he was ready to transfer the Stock and to pay the legacy of £200 . . . as the Court should direct . . . and whereas soon after the said answers, upon a petition in the names of Daniel Mathew and Mary his wife and Henrietta Amelia Lyons the infant, it was on the 29th March 1753 decreed it should be referred to Mr. Lane, one of the masters, to consider what was to be allowed for the maintenance of Henrietta Amelia Lyons for time past and to come of her minority, and whether such allowance should be paid by John Lyons to Daniel Mathew till further order . . . and it was further ordered that Rowland Frye should forthwith transfer the Stock . . . and pay the £200 legacy, and a further sum of £126 17s. 10d., received by Rowland Frye for dividends and interest of the £200 . . . into the bank, with the privity of the Accountant General . . . to be laid out in like Stock . . . and whereas in pursuance of the order . . . Rowland Frye did transfer the Stock and pay the £200 and the £126 17s. 10d., making together £326 17s. 10d., and the last sum was invested in the purchase of £305 17s. 4d. South Sea Annuities, making altogether £2075 17s. 4d. Capital Annuities Stock . . . and whereas since the proceedings John Lyons has attained to 21, and by an Indenture made the 15th Oct. 1753 . . . he docketed and discontinued all estates tail and remainders upon the plantations, etc., etc., which he claimed as heir in tail under the will of Henry Lyons his grandfather . . . and is now seised of . . . in his demesne as of fee . . . and also docketed and discontinued all estates tail and remainders in the pieces of land . . . and slaves which he claimed as residuary devisee in tail under the will of Joseph Lyons his brother . . . and is now seised of . . . and whereas there is now due for interest of the £300 given to Mary for mourning, from the 9th Oct. 1748 to the 15th Feb. last, at 6 per cent., £113 15s., making in all £413 15s., and by an order of the Court it has been paid by Richard Boddicot into the bank with the privity of the Accountant General . . . to be laid out in South Sea Annuities . . . and whereas Richard Boddicot has also delivered the pieces of plate . . . weighing together 128 ozs., to Daniel Mathew . . . and whereas Daniel Mathew and Mary have agreed with John Lyons, as well in consideration of his releasing all claims to the proper fortune of Mary as for the other considerations hereinbefore and after mentioned . . . to accept of the £3000 sterling . . . with interest at 6 per cent. from the 9th Oct. 1749, being one year after the death of Joseph Lyons . . . in lieu of all claims . . . which they either have or might have had to any part of the personal estate of Joseph Lyons . . . and to release all right to dower . . . to John Lyons upon his making the £300 per annum chargeable on all the plantations, etc., etc. . . . and also on his paying the £3000 . . . as mentioned . . . and whereas John Lyons, Robert Christian, Thomas Elmes, and Samuel Redhead have in consideration of Daniel Mathew and Mary accepting . . . agreed to waive all questions agitated in the cause . . . touching all sums claimed by Daniel Mathew and Mary as due to her from the estates of her father and grandfather . . . and to release to them the two negroes . . . and whereas there will be due for interest on the £3000, to the 20th Jan. now next ensuing, £1125, making together £4125 . . . and whereas all arrears of the annuity have been paid by John Lyons or by the said Ex'ors . . . Now this Indenture witnesseth that for the considerations aforesaid and in consideration of £4125 sterling . . . Daniel Mathew and Mary his wife release to John Lyons and also to the Ex'ors of Joseph Lyons, deceased, all that the dower . . . of Mary Mathew . . . and further witnesseth that John Lyons grants and confirms to Daniel Mathew and Mary the annuity of £300 sterling, for the life of Mary, charged on all his plantations and slaves . . . and Richard Boddicot shall pay £4000 into the Bank of England . . . to be invested in South Sea Annuities . . . as part of the legacy of £10,000 to Henrietta Amelia Lyons . . . the residue to be paid as soon as it can be conveniently collected . . . with interest . . . and the maintenance and education of Henrietta Amelia Lyons to be paid out of the interest of her legacy . . . and the £10,000 to remain in the name of the Accountant General until her death or marriage . . . and all questions are thus settled . . . until a failure of payment be made of the annuity . . . or of the residue of the £10,000 . . . and Daniel Mathew and Mary his wife constitute Stephen Blizard, John Banister, and Daniel Warner of Antigua, Esquires, and Edward Warner and William Warner of Antigua, merchants, their Attornies . . . OBITUARY NOTICES OF LORD LYONS.

It was reported a few days ago that Lord Lyons had been received into the Roman Catholic Church. We have received the following statement as to the circumstances attending this event:—"He spoke about the change of his religion six weeks ago. Since then, and even before he went regularly to attend daily mass, he was engaged in serious religious studies. He intended, as soon as he felt he was prepared, to be received into the Church of Rome, but up to the time of his illness, which occurred on Monday, November 28, he had not taken the final step. After his seizure it is extremely doubtful to what extent he retained consciousness; but the Bishop of Southwark (Dr. Butt), with whom for some time he had had consultations, felt so convinced of his disposition and intention that he received him into the Church and administered to him extreme unction." ('The Times,' 6 Dec. 1887.)

The news of the death of Lord Lyons will be received with very great regret on both sides of the Channel, although it can hardly be said to be unexpected after the bulletins which have been published during the last few days. He died, peacefully and calmly, at the residence of his nephew, Norfolk House, St. James's Square, yesterday morning, at half-past eight o'clock, in the 71st year of his age. It was arranged last evening that the interment should take place on Saturday at Arundel in the family vault of the Dukes of Norfolk, and the remains will be removed from Norfolk House to Arundel Castle on Friday evening. On the day of the funeral a special service will be held at the Brompton Oratory.

The Right Hon. Richard Bickerton Pemell Lyons, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., etc., was born at Lymington, Hants, on the 26th of April 1817; he was the elder son of the late Admiral Lord Lyons, G.C.B. (better known, perhaps, by his former name of Sir Edmund Lyons), who was for some time representative of England at Athens, and who held the chief command of the Mediterranean Fleet during the Crimean War, and who was raised to the peerage as Baron Lyons, of Christ Church, Hampshire, at its close. He was a member of a family that was seated in the King's County, Ireland, as far back as the reign of James I., but afterwards settled in the Island of Antigua, in the West Indies, for four or five generations. Admiral Lyons married, in July 1814, Augusta Louisa, daughter of the late Captain Josias Rogers, R.N., by whom he had a family of two sons and two daughters. Of this marriage the distinguished nobleman who has just died was the eldest child. His younger brother, Captain Edmund Mowbray Lyons, a gallant naval officer, was killed in action on the shores of the Crimea; his younger sister, Augusta Mary, widow of the late and mother of the present Duke of Norfolk, died about two years ago; his elder sister, who survives, is married to the Baron von Wurtzburg of Bavaria.

Lord Lyons was named after the late Admiral Sir Richard Bickerton, who was also, we believe, his godfather. He received his early education at Winchester School, under Dr. Williams; and he passed thence to Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his bachelor's degree in 1838. Though he did not offer himself as a candidate for honours in the classical or mathematical schools, he was awarded the distinction of "an honorary fourth" in literis humanioribus. On leaving the university Mr. Lyons was appointed a clerk in the Foreign Office, and in 1839 he was appointed an unpaid Attaché at Athens. He was placed on the paid staff there in October 1844, and was transferred to Dresden in April 1852, and thence, again, early in the following year, to Florence. He was appointed Secretary of Legation at Florence in 1856, and was promoted to the rank of Envoy in the following year, so that he went through a long apprenticeship for his future ambassadorial career. He was sent as British Envoy to the United States in December 1858, and gained golden opinions from our brethren across the Atlantic by his uniform courtesy and straightforwardness during the difficult period of the war. He was Minister at New York when the Prince of Wales made his first tour to Canada and the States; and, though his Royal Highness was actually the guest of the President at the White House, yet it was mainly in accordance with Lord Lyons's advice and counsel that he shaped the course of his travels, and from that time forth a personal friendship arose between the Prince and Lord Lyons which has been terminated only by the death of the latter.

Returning to England after a stay in America longer than usual with the representatives of this country, Lord Lyons—for he had succeeded to his father's peerage and baronetcy in 1858—was sent in 1865 as Ambassador to Constantinople in succession to Sir Henry Lytton Bulwer, afterwards Lord Dalling. There his ability was fully acknowledged, and his courtesy appreciated by the Sultan and by all those of his Ministers with whom he was brought into contact; but the year or year and a half of his stay in that great city of the East was uneventful, or, at all events, comparatively so. It was in June 1867 that Lord Lyons was chosen for the great distinction of the diplomatic profession, that of the representative of the Court of St. James at Paris, a post of which one modern statesman and Premier has declared that it was far more difficult to fill satisfactorily than even that of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The Emperor Louis Napoleon was then on the throne; the friendship between France and this country, which had once or twice been rudely shaken, had been recently renewed, or rather cemented, and at first it seemed as if Lord Lyons would have an easy post. But difficulties gradually arose, and with the year 1870 those troubles began in which the Empire sank behind a dark cloud. Lord Lyons was a cordial friend to M. Emile Ollivier, and was much trusted by the Emperor; but he kept himself and his country free from all complications and entanglements; and when the crash came, and the Government of France was removed from Paris to the South of France, Lord Lyons accompanied it to its new head-quarters, and there continued to act in such a manner as to gain the approval of the real representatives of opinion on both sides of the Channel. Throughout the changes and chances of that troubled period Lord Lyons remained true and loyal to each successive Minister who was called to the head of affairs by the French nation; and though doubtless his personal sympathies were rather on the side of monarchy than of democracy, he was esteemed and honoured by the leading members of all the Cabinets of the French Republic. The Prince of Wales has frequently enjoyed his hospitality in the French capital, and the Queen occasionally has seen him in passing through Paris on her way to or from Switzerland and North Italy, recognizing in him not only her Ambassador, but her personal friend. It was little more than a month ago that Lord Lyons gave up the Ambassadorship at Paris, resigning that position into the hands of Lord Lytton as his successor. He had been already promoted to a viscountcy by the Queen, in recognition of his services, in 1881; and many years before that he had been sworn a member of her Majesty's Privy Council. He was made a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, Civil Division, in 1862, and received the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1879. It was announced that he was about to be raised to an earldom on his retirement from his diplomatic labours, but he has died too soon to allow of that intention on the part of the Crown to be carried into effect.

Lord Lyons was singularly quiet, retiring, and even reticent, though always courteous and dignified, but he was cordial with intimate friends and those whom he thoroughly trusted. In fact he realized in many ways the idea of a pattern and ideal diplomatist. He was a great reader of history; knew the contents of almost every modern despatch, so to say, by heart; and had in him many of the elements of a great statesman. Had he taken an active part in the debates of the Upper House he would have "made his mark," but he was very diffident of his own powers, and particularly disliked the necessity of having to speak in public. It is no secret among his friends that he was once, if not twice, offered the portfolio of the Foreign Office at home, but he had found his own métier, and did not care to change. As Ambassador at Paris he was hospitable in the extreme. The care of the ambassadorial ménage he allowed to devolve on his private secretary, Mr. George Sheffield, who was to him all that Lord Rowton was to Lord Beaconsfield.

As Lord Lyons was never married, his honours have died with him, and both viscountcy, barony, and baronetcy have become extinct. It will be long, however, before the name of Lord Lyons passes out of the memory of his countrymen. ('Morning Post,' 6 Dec. 1887.)

The funeral of the late Viscount Lyons took place at Arundel on Saturday. The body was conveyed from Norfolk House, St. James's, on the evening previously, and was at once taken to the Fitzalan Chapel, the burial-place of the Dukes of Norfolk, which, with the Lady Chapel, is within the precincts of the castle. The chapel had been previously prepared for the ceremony. The altar and east end had been railed off for the sanctuary, within which were seats for the officiating clergy. The floor was covered and the walls hung with black cloth. The Lady Chapel, in which the choristers were placed, was curtained off, and at the west end of the chapel seats were provided for the chief mourners and congregation. In the centre of the chapel on the bier rested the coffin, which was covered by a black velvet pall with a Latin cross embroidered in gold. The late lord's coronet, with the ribbon and Order of the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath and the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, were on the coffin. A special train started from Victoria Station at half-past nine o'clock with many of the distinguished friends who attended the funeral, and on arrival at Arundel they drove to the castle, where they were received by the Duke of Norfolk and family, and just before noon they walked in procession to the Fitzalan Chapel. The chief mourners and general congregation having occupied their places, the clergy entered in procession. The Bishop of Southwark celebrated the Requiem Mass, assisted by the Rev. W. Cunningham, as deacon; the Rev. F. McMahon, as sub-deacon; Canon Lalor, assistant priest; and the Rev. J. Haynes and Rev. J. Connelly were masters of the ceremonies. The chief mourners were the Rev. Father von Wurtzburg, the Duke of Norfolk, and Lord Edmund Talbot, and among the relatives of the late peer present were the Ladies Mary, Philippa, and Margaret Fitzalan-Howard, Lady Edmund Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Ward, and Mr. J. Hope. The general mourners included Sir Edward Malet, his Excellency Count de Bylandt (Netherlands Minister), his Excellency M. Montt (Chilian Minister), the Earl of Limerick (Lord in Waiting to the Queen), representing her Majesty, Major-General Sir Christopher Teesdale, representing the Prince of Wales; Count de Florian (French Chargé d'Affaires), in the unavoidable absence of M. Waddington; Sir James Fergusson, M.P., representing the Government; Sir Julian Pauncefote, representing the Foreign Office; the Hon. Eric Barrington, representing the Marquis of Salisbury; Sir E. Thornton, Sir Arthur J. Otway, Sir E. Monson, Hon. Gilbert Abney-Hastings, Sir E. Henderson, Admiral Sir G. and Lady Hornby, Mr. George Sheffield, Mr. B. Coles, Mr. J. Hankey, Sir F. Adams, Sir P. Anderson, Hon. Sir F. Plunkett, Mr. M. Gosselin, Major-General Brackenbury, Mr. F. Elliott, Viscount Molyneux and Mr. F. Carew, secretaries and attaché of the British Embassy in Paris, Lord Foley, the Mayor and Corporation of Arundel, Mr. Austin Lee, Mr. G. Jenner, Mr. Stewart, the Rev. Dr. Redmond, Father Antrobus, Father Otley, Father Fletcher, Captain Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bunsen, and Miss Bunsen, Mr. Learmonth, Mr. Manners, Mr. Cleave, Mr. Haskett Smith, Mr. E. Haskett Smith, and Mr. F. Ware. After the Requiem Service, the Burial Service was said round the bier, and the corpse was deposited in the family vault, which is underneath the centre of the chapel. A great number of wreaths were sent, and had been placed temporarily against one of the tombs in the chapel, and they included a wreath from the Queen, with the inscription, "A mark of the highest regard and true friendship from Victoria R.I.," and one from the Prince of Wales, with the inscription, "As a last token of endearing friendship and sincere regret from Albert Edward." There were also floral tributes of respect from the Duchess of Cleveland, the Earl and Countess of Effingham, the members of the British Embassy, Paris, Sir Julian and Lady Pauncefote, Princess Fredrica and Baron von Pawel Rammingen, Mrs. Cavendish Bentinck, Baron Gustave, Baron Alphonse, and Baron Edmond de Rothschild of Paris, Sir F. Adams, and others. The British community in Paris sent an enormous wreath of roses. At the head of the coffin were the armorial bearings of Lord Lyons, and a plate, with the inscription, "Richard Bickerton Pemell, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., first Viscount Lyons, born 26 April 1817; died 5th December 1887. May he rest in peace." A special train took the majority of those attending the funeral back to London.

The case of Daniel Mackinen, a Protestant of Antegoa, reciting that William Bridges, Esq., being seised in fee of a plantation in Antigua in trust for Mr. Thomas Trant, a Roman Catholic, deceased, William Bridges by his letter of attorney dated Nov. 1698 appointed Mr. Gerret Trant of Montserrat, Mr. David Rice, and Mr. Thomas Trant the younger of London his attornies to sell or let the same; thereupon two of them, Papists, in June 1702 leased Golden Grove to petitioner for 99 years at £100 a year, and petitioner has spent £300 on it. By an Act passed at Nevis April 1702 no Papists can act as attornies. Ill designing people threaten to turn out petitioner. Read 16 March 1702-3. Their lordships order that petitioner be confirmed in his estate. (B. T. Leeward Islands, vol. 47, p. 143.)

Governor Parke writes on 3 Nov. 1708: "There is one Daniel Mackenin, that twenty years ago was chyrurgeon to A Little Merchant ship, has drove off the Island neer a hundred Men; all the Land where he lives was inhabited by poor people that lived upon some three, some five, & some ten Acres of land." (B. T. Leeward Islands, vol. 11.)

1712, Sep. 5. The Governor has sent Dr. McKenin and Colonel Watkins over to England to answer their accusations in spite of the pardon published.

George French, in his 'Answer to a Libel,' etc., published in 1718, says: "Daniel Mackennen, a Scots Apothecary, who laid the Foundation of a large Fortune he acquired on a corrupt unwarrantable Practice in Physick, whereby he became Heir, Executor, and Administrator, to the unfortunate Wretches fall'n into his Hands; and afterwards eminent for depopulating the Island, by driving off a great many poor Families, to enlarge his ill got Possessions, in Revenge for his not being admitted of the Council, and resentment of Thomas's Disappointment, who was his Brother-in-Law, combines with the Disaffected, and makes himself a Leader of the Faction. This man was violently suspected to have poison'd Sir William Mathews, Colonel Parke's Predecessor, (with whom they began to quarrel) who dy'd in the operation of a Dose of Physick of his Prescription and Preparation." Governor Douglas sent him home prisoner with Samuel Watkins, for participation in Governor Parke's murder, and on their arrival they were imprisoned in Newgate, but subsequently obtained their discharge pleading the general pardon.

1724, Aug. 3. William Mackinen is given six months leave of absence to go to Boston for his health. He had on the previous 23rd Jan. 1723 been elected Member of Assembly for Dickenson's Bay.

By Indenture (circa 1725), Elizabeth McKenin, widow of Daniel McKenin, Gent., gives two negroes to her son Samuel McKenin, now of St. Christopher's, planter.

On fo. 158 is his appointment, 18 April 1739, vice John Dner, Esq., who resigned.

1765, Dec. 5. The unanimous thanks of the House were voted to William Mackinen for his long and faithful services and condolence on account of his ill-health. He had been a Member of the Assembly for 40 years, having years ago refused to join the Council. (Minutes of Assembly, B. T., 27.)

In a letter dated 7 Aug. 1787 William Mackinnen complains that Sir Thomas Shirley has wished to remove him from his seat in the Council, which post he has held for thirteen years, because the Degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him in America, voted by the Corporation of the University, without his solicitation or knowledge. Petitioner had been away two years without licence. (Colonial Correspondence, vol. 21.)

Kenneth Mackinnon.

Callaghan McCarthy, Esq., in his will dated 2 June 1792 mentions his plantation called Golden Grove purchased of William Mackinuen, Esq.

1792, Aug. At Chiswick, Major John McKinnon, of the 63d regiment, to Lady Margaret Affleck, widow of the late Admiral Affleck. ('Gent. Mag.,' p. 765.)

William Mackinnen, jun., Esq., was appointed by President Stanley to a seat in the Council, and took the oath 9 Oct. 1793.

In a list of the Council in 1794 Hon. William Mackinnen, jun., was stated to be dead.

President J. Stanley wrote in 1794: "Mr Mackinen, a Member of the Council of this Island, died upon his passage to England, in June last."

William Mackinnon wrote from Exeter 14 March 1798 saying that he did not intend to return to Antigua, and vacated his seat.

Miss Penelope Tomlinson by her will dated 18 July 1802 bequeathed £800 to be divided among Samuel McKinnen, Charles Mackinuen, Thomas Mackinnen, and Lydia Hanen, children of Charles Mackinnen.

On 8 March 1811 the following arms, etc., were confirmed and assigned to William Alexander Mackinnon, and duly recorded in the Lyon Office, viz.:—Quarterly: 1, A boar's head erased argent, holding in its mouth the shank-bone of a deer proper (McKINNON); 2, Azure, a castle triple-towered and embattled argent, masoned sable, windows and portcullis gules (McLEOD); 3, Or, a lymphad or galley her oars saltilyways sable (McDONALD); 4, Argent, a dexter hand couped proper fessways, holding a cross-crosslet fitchée sable (McDONALD).

Crest: A boar's head erased, holding in its mouth the shank of a deer, all proper; and as CHIEF OF McKINNON for supporters, on the dexter side a lion and on the sinister a leopard, both proper.

1812, Jan. 19. Fell gloriously on the breach of Ciudad Rodrigo Major-gen. McKinnon. He was descended from one of the most antient families in Scotland; being a younger son of the late W. McKinnon, esq. who was the representative of the younger branch of the Lairds of McKinnon, which branch became the elder about two years ago, by the extinction of the other. At an early age he entered the Coldstream guards; and served his first campaign under the Duke of York in Holland. During the rebellion in Ireland, he was Brigade-major to Gen. Sir G. Nugent, where he was remarkable for his courage, humanity, and good conduct. The Gazette of that time particularly notices him. He served in the expedition to Egypt. In the year 1805, he served with his regiment in Germany, under Lord Cathcart; as well as at the taking of Copenhagen, in 1807. He again embarked at the end of 1808 for the Peninsula; where an action was fought under Lord Wellington, in which his name was mentioned with the highest praise in the dispatches. The General married in 1804, the youngest daughter of the late Sir J. Colt, bart. who is left with two infants. After the fall of Ciudad Rodrigo, the body of Major-gen. McKinnon was found, and with difficulty recognized; and his regiment shewed all the respect possible to the remains of so brave and meritorious an officer. ('Gent. Mag.,' p. 190.)

1812, June. Lately At Bath, the widow of Major-gen. Mackinnon (who was killed on the breach of Ciudad Rodrigo) a son. (Ibid., p. 588.)

1814, March 17. A. R. Prior, esq. (nephew of Lord Frankfort) to Catharine, dan. of the late Sir J. Call, bart. and widow of the late Major-gen. McKinnon. (Ibid., p. 406.)

1816, Nov. 22. At Binfield, Berks, at a very advanced age, Louisa, widow of W. MacKinnon, esq. She was the daughter of Henry Vernon, esq. of Hilton Castle, co. Stafford, and was married in 1757. (Ibid., p. 567.)

1819, July 14. At Portwood-house, Hants, the wife of W. A. Mackinnon, esq. M.P. a daughter. ('Gent. Mag.,' p. 86.)

1824, Nov. 19. In Hyde Park-place, the wife of Wm. Alexander Mackinnon, esq. of Portwood-house, Hants, a son. (Ibid., p. 559.)

1832, May 31. At Ham Common, aged 76, Elizabeth, widow of the late Joseph Palmer, esq. F.S.A. (formerly Capt. Budworth), of whom memoirs will be found in our vol. 85, ii. 388. She was the sister and heiress of Roger Palmer, esq. of Rnsh and Palmerstown, co. Mayo, who died in 1811; and was left a widow in 1815 by her setting her clothes on fire from a candle. She has left an only daughter, the wife of W. A. Mackinnon, esq. M.P. for Lymington, but her valuable estate in the county of Mayo, worth 30,000*l.* a-year, and a large estate in the county of Dublin, have devolved on Sir William H. Palmer, Bart. of Castle Lackin, co. Mayo. (Ibid., p. 574.)

1835, Nov. 15. Aged 43, Emma-Mary, wife of W. A. Mackinnon, esq. of Newtown Park, M.P. for Lymington. She was the only dan. and sole heiress of Joseph Budworth Palmer, esq. of Rushhome (?), co. Dublin, and Palmerston, co. Mayo; was married in 1812, and was the mother of six children. At the time of her marriage she was considered one of the handsomest women and one of the greatest heiresses in the Kingdom. A biographical account of her father is given in the Gentleman's Magazine for Dec. 1815. (Ibid., p. 663.)

1836, June 22. In Hertford-street, May Fair, aged 46, Colonel Daniel Mackinnon, Lieut.-Colonel in command of the Coldstream Guards. Colonel Mackinnon was the second son of the late Wm. Mackinnon, the Chief of a very old and numerous clan in the Highlands of Scotland; and nephew to General Mackinnon who lost his life in storming Ciudad Rodrigo, and who was also in the Coldstream Guards. . . . About ten years ago, Colonel Mackinnon married Miss Dent, the daughter of John Dent, Esq. M.P. for Poole. He has left no family except his widow. Colonel Mackinnon's mother is now living, and resides with the Colonel's only brother, Mr W. Mackinnon, M.P. for Lymington. He has left one sister, Mrs. Molesworth, the wife of the Rev. Nassau Molesworth, Prebendary of Canterbury. (Ibid., p. 208.)

1842, Aug. 9. At Roehdale, Lieut. L. B. Mackinnon, R.N. second son of W. A. Mackinnon, esq. M.P. to Augusta dan. of the late John Entwisle, esq. M.P. of Foxholes. (Ibid., p. 421.)

1846, Feb. 13. In Hyde Park-pl. at an advanced age, Mrs. Mackinnon, widow of William Mackinnon, esq. and mother of William Alexander Mackinnon, esq. M.P. (Ibid., p. 439.)

1846, April 26. At St Mary's, Bryanston-sq. Alexander Mackinnon, eldest son of William Alexander Mackinnon, esq. M.P. for Lymington, to Miss Willes, only dan. of Francis Willes, esq. (Ibid., p. 86.)

1846, Nov. 22. At Boulogne, Mrs. Daniel Mackinnon, relict of Daniel Mackinnon esq. of Binfield, Berks. Mr. Mackinnon who died in Jan. 1829 (leaving two sons, now officers in H.M. 16th Lancers), was the second son of William Mackinnon, esq. of the Island of Antigua and Binfield, Chief of the Clan Mackinnon, who died in 1809, and brother of Major-Gen. Mackinnon, a most gallant and distinguished officer, who fell at Ciudad Rodrigo, 19th Feb. 1812; to whom a tablet has been erected in St. Paul's Cathedral. (Ibid., p. 111.)

1847, Aug. 12. At Lyme Regis, D. Lionel Mackinnon, esq. M.P. for Lymington, to Charlotte-Lavinia, third dan. of Major-Gen. Sir Dudley Hill C.B. of High Cliff House, Lyme, Dorset. (Ibid., p. 534.)

and late M.P. for Rye, died on the 30th ult. He was born Aug. 2, 1789, the elder son of William Mackinnon, Esq., and brother of Colonel Daniel Mackinnon, the historian of the Coldstream Guards. He first entered Parliament, for Dunwich, in 1830, and sat subsequently for Lymington for about twenty years, and for Rye nearly twelve. During this long Parliamentary career, Mr. Mackinnon was an active and painstaking member, and was instrumental in carrying several useful measures.

He was also known as an author, having published a work on 'Public Opinion,' 'Thoughts on the Currency Question,' and 'The History of Civilisation.' He married Aug. 3, 1812, Emma Mary, sole daughter and heiress of Joseph Palmer, Esq., of Rush House, in the county of Dublin, and Palmerstown, in the county of Mayo, through whom he derived a great personal fortune, and by whom (who died in 1835) he had three sons and three daughters. Of the latter, the eldest Emma Mary, is married to the Duc de Grammont; and the second, Louisa Harriet is the present Countess of Dunsdonald. The sons were William Alexander, late M.P. for Lymington; Lauchlan-Bellingham, Captain R.N.; and Daniel Lionel, Colonel, Coldstream Guards, who was killed at Inkerman. The late Mr. Mackinnon became, by purchase, the possessor of Belvidere near Broadstairs; and of Acrise Place, near Maidstone, previously the seat of the family of Papillon. ('Illustrated London News,' p. 539, 21 May 1870.)

MARRIAGE OF MR. F. F. RAMSDEN AND MISS MACKINNON.—Mr. Frederick F. Ramsden, only son of the Rev. F. J. Ramsden, of Conisboro Priory, Rotherham, was last week married to Miss Selina Mackinnon, daughter of the late Captain Edmund Mackinnon (2nd Life Guards), of Binfield, Berks, at All Saints, Margaret Street. Mr. Philip Herringham attended the bridegroom as best man, and there were five bridesmaids in attendance on the bride, who was attired in rich white satin, trimmed with old Brussels lace, and a tulle veil fastened with a pearl star. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Trebeck, Canon of Southall, Notts, assisted by the Rev. Donald D. Mackinnon, Rector of Speldhurst. A reception was afterwards held at Grant's Hotel, Manchester Street, and early in the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left en route for Paris. The wedding presents included:—From the bridegroom to the bride, diamond and ruby ring; bride to bridegroom, diamond horseshoe pin; Earl and Countess of Lindsey, clock; Mrs. Ramsden, carriage; Mr. Frank Ramsden, silver tea caddy; Mr. R. Mackinnon, silver plated soup tureen; Miss R. Mackinnon, silver and glass claret jug; Miss M. Mackinnon, diamond ring; Misses Ramsden, breakfast service; Captain Boulton, silver candlesticks; Captain and Mrs. Henniker, silver egg boiler; Miss Henrietta Boulton, dinner service, Crown Derby tea service, and mother of pearl and silver card case; Mrs. Doyle, coffee and liqueur service; Miss Hawkins, tea and coffee service; Mr. Alan Mackinnon, antique silver tea spoons; Mr. and Mrs. West, silver and gold dessert spoons; Rev. V. and Mrs. Fortesque, silver salt cellars; General Mackinnon, opera glasses. ('Reading Mercury,' 7 Oct. 1893.)

In the 'Memoirs of Clan Fingon,' by Rev. Donald D. Mackinnon, M.A., it is claimed (but not proved) that Dr. Daniel Mackinen of Antigua was identical with Donald the 2nd son of Lachlan Mhore the 28th Chief. The author therein states that Donald was an infant in 1651, when the Battle of Worcester was fought. Dr. Daniel Mackinen on the other hand died 26 March 1720, aged 62, and was therefore born about 1658. It is also stated that Dr. Daniel Mackinen emigrated to Antigua between 1678 and 1688 and perhaps received grants of estates called Dropes, Golden Grove, and Dickenson's Bay from Charles II. I have in my possession an original deed by which it appears that Golden Grove Plantation was held in 1687-8 by Colonel Edward Powell, Governor of Antigua, and from him it descended and was confirmed in 1716 to his nephew and heir-at-law Henry Powell. It was leased in 1702 to Dr. Daniel Mackinen for 99 years. The record of Government grants shews that in 1695 Mackinen received his patent for various purchases of land he had previously made. Again the tomb of Daniel Mackinen the Surgeon is in perfect order, and on the ledger is cut his coat of arms: on a bend three mullets These are not the arms of the Clan Fingon, and I have not been able to trace their origin. It would perhaps be possible to clear up these doubts if it were known where Daniel McKinen the Surgeon was educated and received his diploma.

DEATH OF CARDINAL MANNING.

We regret to announce that Cardinal Manning died at his residence, the Archbishop's House, Westminster, at twenty minutes past eight o'clock this morning. The Cardinal had been confined to his house by an attack of bronchitis since Thursday of last week. It was not, however, until four days ago that he took to his bed. After this his Eminence grew gradually weaker, and the bulletins issued last night had prepared the public for the worst news. In the early hours of this morning his strength began to fail rapidly, but he was able to join in the prayers that were said for him until he became unconscious at half-past seven. He passed away without any pain.

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

His Eminence, Henry Edward, Cardinal Manning, was a son of the late Mr. William Manning, M.P., merchant, of London, and was born at Totteridge, Hertfordshire, July 15, 1808. He was educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford, where he graduated in first-class honours in 1830, and became Fellow of Merton College. He was for some time one of the select preachers in the University of Oxford, was appointed rector of Lavington and Graffham, Sussex, 1834, and Archdeacon of Chichester in 1840. In 1851, three years after the decision in the famous Gorham case, the result of which was highly repugnant to him, he joined the Roman Catholic Church, in which he entered the priesthood, and in 1857 founded an ecclesiastical congregation at Bayswater, entitled the Oblates of St. Charles Borromeo. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him at Rome, and the office of Provost of the Catholic Archdiocese of Westminster, Prothonotary Apostolic, and Domestic Prelate to the Pope. After the death of Cardinal Wiseman, Monsignor Manning was consecrated Archbishop of Westminster, June 8, 1865. Pope Pius IX. created him a Cardinal Priest, March 15, 1875, the title assigned to him being that of SS. Andrew and Gregory on the Cœlian Hill. Dr. Manning wrote four volumes of sermons and other works before 1850; since that date a large number of works have proceeded from his pen, chiefly upon doctrinal questions or subjects relating to the position of the Roman Catholic Church in England. Cardinal Manning was a member of the Royal Commission on the Housing of the Working Classes which sat in 1884—85 under the presidency of the Prince of Wales. The Cardinal was also a member of the Education Commission of 1886. He was a member of two famous Mansion House Committees—one connected with the proceedings of Mr. Stead, the other being that which sat in 1889 for the purpose of settling the great dock strike. The celebration of the Cardinal's episcopal jubilee took place on Sunday, the 8th of June 1890. ('The St. James's Gazette,' 14 Jan. 1892.)

VOL. II.

No. 4.

Indenture made the 1st Oct. 1823 between the same. Whereas by virtue of the will of Charles Spooner, late of Harley Street, Cavendish Square, Esq., deceased, dated the 14th June 1785, the plantations and slaves in St. Kitts, hereinafter described and granted, stand limited in trust for Peter Theodore Shaw for life, with remainder to Peter Spooner Shaw as first son, with remainders over, and Peter Theodore Shaw is entitled for life, and Peter Spooner Shaw absolutely in remainder expectant on the decease of his father to all the stock and effects of a personal nature belonging to the said plantations, and by virtue of the said will a plantation in Antigna called Blubber Valley and Pearne's Point, and the messuages and slaves, etc., belonging thereto, and all other lands, etc., if any, of Charles Spooner in Antigna, stand limited in trust for Peter Theodore Shaw for life with remainder (as above); and whereas Peter Theodore Shaw is indebted to William and Frederick Manning and John Laviconnt Anderdon in the sum of £2599 7s. 10d. sterling for money advanced from time to time at his request or for his benefit up to the 30th April last past, and as part security they are entitled to a charge or lien upon certain Policies of Insurance effected by him on his own life with the Equitable Insurance Office; and whereas Peter Spooner Shaw has attained to 21, and his father and he lately agreed that his estate tail and reversions expectant in the plantations, etc., should be barred and destroyed, and that the estates in St. Kitts should be charged with an annuity of £200 sterling to him during the life of his father, and that subject to the annuity the estates should be made a security for the said debt . . . and any further advances with interest, provided that the estates, on the death of Peter Theodore Shaw, should not be charged against Peter Spooner Shaw with any larger principal sum than £5000, and subject thereto that the estates should be settled and assured to Peter Theodore Shaw for life, with remainder to Peter Spooner Shaw in fee . . . and that Peter Theodore Shaw should release all right his Ex'ors or adm'ors might otherwise have, and that the plantation, etc., in Antigna should be conveyed to Peter Theodore Shaw in fee, William Manning and his partners have agreed to accept the security proposed . . . and whereas in pursuance of the agreement and in consideration of £200 sterling a year to be secured to Peter Spooner Shaw and the release of all rights, etc. . . . and whereas by release to bear even date between Peter Theodore Shaw and Peter Spooner Shaw, the remainder to which the latter is or lately was entitled in the plantation and slaves, etc., in Antigna, is intended to be forthwith granted and released by him to Peter Theodore Shaw and his heirs for their own absolute use and benefit . . . Now this Indenture witnesseth that in pursuance of the recited agreement, and in order to dock and destroy the estate tail in the plantations and slaves, etc., in St. Kitts, and in consideration of £2599 7s. 10d., and of the release to be made by Peter Spooner Shaw of the Antigua estates, Peter Theodore Shaw and Peter Spooner Shaw grant to William and Frederick Manning and John Lavieount Anderdon, now in their actual possession being, all those plantations and slaves, etc., in St. Kitts in trust that Peter Spooner Shaw, during his father's life, shall receive £200 sterling a year, and so charged to William Manning and his partners and their heirs for ever, with provision of redemption on payment of the principal on the 30th April 1824. Lastly Peter Theodore Shaw and Peter Spooner Shaw nominate John Woodley of Basseterre and John Browne of Cayon, both of St. Kitts, Esquires, their Attornies.

Close Roll, 4 Geo. IV., Part 16, No. 3.

Indenture made the 1st Oct. 1823 between Peter Spooner Shaw, eldest son, of the one part, and Peter Theodore Shaw, of the other part. Whereas by virtue of the will of Charles Spooner, and whereas William Manning, as acting trustee of the said will, has in his hands £1754 8s. 8d., the amount of certain reappraisements of slaves on the plantations in St. Kitts and Antigna, and Peter Spooner Shaw has attained to 21, and his father and he have lately agreed that the estate tail shall be destroyed, and that William Manning shall be released from all claims for the said sum in part discharge of a debt of £4353 16s. 6d. due from Peter Theodore Shaw, and that Peter Spooner Shaw shall receive £200 sterling a year during his father's life from the plantations and slaves, etc., in St. Kitts. Now this Indenture witnesseth that in order to barr and destroy the estate tail vested in Peter Spooner Shaw in the plantation called Blubber Valley and Pearne's Point in Antigna, and in the slaves, Peter Spooner Shaw grants, etc., to Peter Theodore Shaw all that his reversionary interest to the intent that Peter Theodore Shaw may henceforth be seised of the said plantation for an estate of inheritance in fee simple and for his heirs for ever. Lastly they constitute William Bertie Wolseley and Daniel Burr Garling of Antigua their true and lawful Attornies. Schednle of slaves: 7 men, 11 women, 9 children. T. Shaw, Brimpton, Berks, John Blackwell, clerk to Messrs. Smith and Rickards, Basinghall Street.

Pedigree of Anderdon.

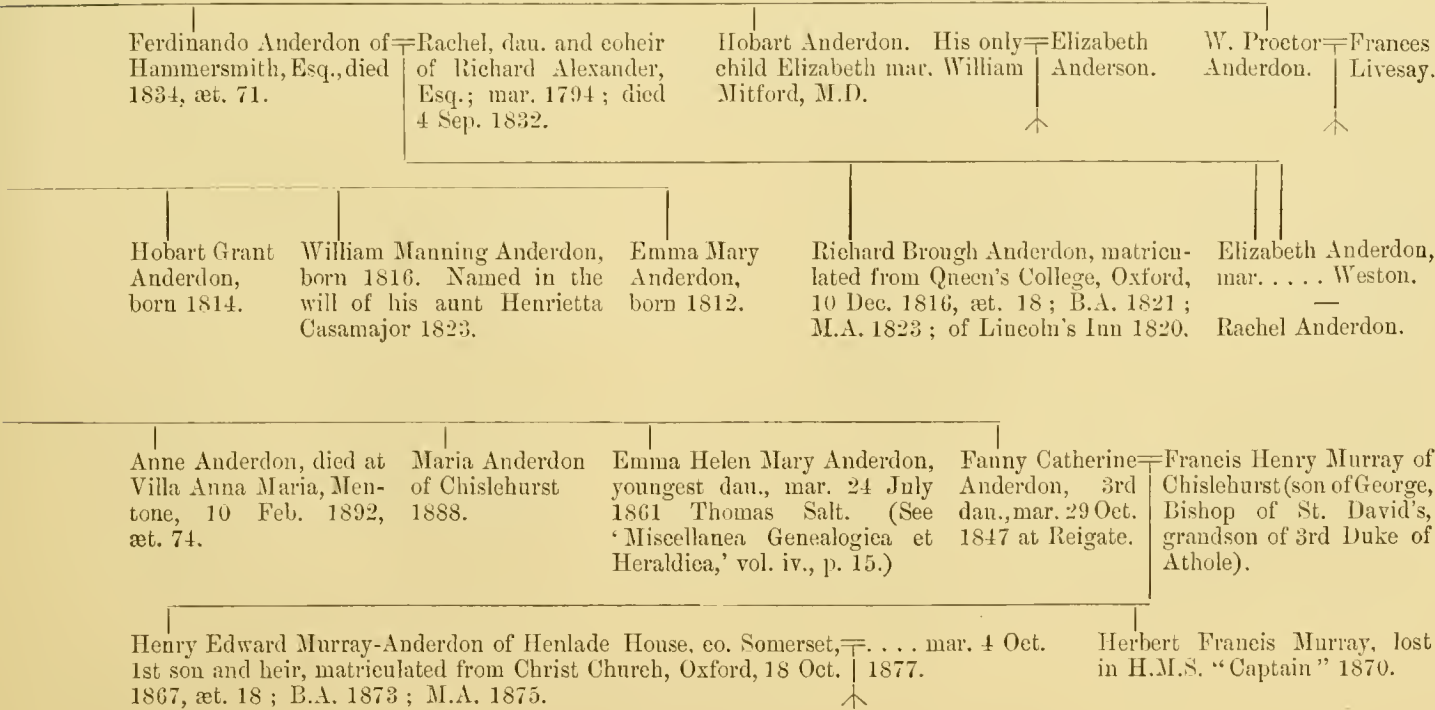

The above pedigree has been drawn up from a very doubtful one lent me in 1888 by Miss Anderdon, also from the Vassall and Oliver Papers.

Close Roll, 2 Will. IV., Part 17, No. 3.

Indenture made the 21st Sep. 1831 between Charles Cutten of Quality Court, Chancery Lane, Gentleman, of the 1st part, Robert George Cecil Fane, Robert Belt, and William Brent Brent, Esquires (the major part of the Commissioners named in a Commission of Bankruptcy issued forth against William Manning, Frederick Manning, and John Lavieount Anderdon of New Bank Buildings in the city of London, West India merchants and partners), of the 2nd part, and Nevill Reid of Suffolk Lane and John Dixon of Fenchureh Street in the city of London, merchants, and Richard Wrangham of New Bank Buildings, Gentleman, of the 3rd part. Whereas H.M.'s Commission under the Great Seal of Great Britain, grounded upon the Statute made and now in force concerning bankrupts, bearing date at Westminster the 5th of this instant month of September, hath been issued against the said William Manning, Frederick Manning, and John Lavieount Anderdon, directed to George Daniel Harvey and George Roots, Esquires, and the said Robert George Cecil Fane, Robert Belt, and William Brent Brent, Commissioners; and whereas it appeared . . . that the said William Manning, Frederick Manning, and John Lavieount Anderdon had carried on the trade and business of a West India merchant in partnership together, and became indebted to Edward Bedwell Kemble and Thomas Nash Kemble of Mincing Lane, London, brokers and partners, in the sum of £100 and upwards; and whereas the said William and Frederick Manning and John Lavieount Anderdon did, in the judgment of the major part of the said Commissioners, become bankrupts and were adjudged bankrupts accordingly; and whereas by an Indenture bearing date the 6th day of this instant month of September and made between the said George Daniel Harvey, Robert Belt, and William Brent Brent, of the one part, and Charles Cutten, of the other part, after reciting as hereinbefore is recited, and that the said Commissioners, parties thereto, in further execution of the Commission and of the Statute therein mentioned, had also found out and discovered that William and Frederick Manning and John Lavieount Anderdon were possessed of sundry goods, merchandizes, household stuff, plate, linen, and other things, and that there were also divers debts due to them from several persons, and therefore the said Commissioners thought it necessary for the better preserving the said estate . . . to appoint provisionally Charles Cutten assignee of the estate and effects . . . and Charles Cutten did thereby covenant with the said Commissioners that he and his Ex'ors . . . would, as soon as the assignee should be duly appointed, join with the major part of the Commissioners in assigning all the goods, chattels, and all other the premises in the said recited Indenture assigned to him unto them. And whereas at a meeting of the major part of the Commissioners held at their Court in Basinghall Street, on the day of the date of these presents, pursuant to notice in the London Gazette, the major part in value of the creditors present chose the said several persons, parties hereto, of the 3rd part, to be assignees of the estate and effects, and desired an assignment thereof to be made to them accordingly by Charles Cutten and the Commissioners; and whereas the Commissioners, parties to these presents, in further execution do find that William and Frederick Manning and John Lavieount Anderdon or some of them, at the time they became bankrupts, were possessed of certain freehold and leasehold plantations in the several islands of Antigua, Montserrat, St. Christopher's, Nevis, Trinidad, and St. Croix or elsewhere in the West Indies, and also certain negro and other slaves, cattle, live and dead stock, and other chattels and effects of a personal nature, or estates, and also certain debts due to them by persons residing in the West Indies, subject as to the plantations, slaves, and cattle, to certain mortgages, etc., thereon. Now this Indenture witnesseth that in pursuance and part performance of the covenant of Charles Cutten, and in consideration of 10s. each, paid to him and the Commissioners by the said several persons, parties hereto, of the 3rd part, Charles Cutten, with the consent of the Commissioners, doth assign, and the said Commissioners do ratify, all such and so many and such parts of the plantations of which William and Frederick Manning and John Lavieount Anderdon were possessed in the said several islands . . . to have and to hold, etc., to the said persons of the 3rd part, parties hereto; and it is hereby expressly declared that the said several persons of the 3rd part shall stand seised of . . . the said personal and real estates for the benefit of the said persons of the 3rd part and all such other creditors, all monies to be paid into the hands of Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smith of George Street, Mansion House, Bankers, and the said persons, parties hereto, have authorized and empowered David Cranston and John Freeland, both of Antigua, Esquires, Duncan Robertson and the Hon. James Davoren, both of St. Kitts, Esquires, Duncan McBean and Alexander Gray, both of Trinidad, Esquires, and Isaac Henry Dewhirst of St. Croix, Esq. . . . jointly and severally to appear before all proper officers . . . in the said islands of Antigua, St. Kitts, Trinidad, and St. Croix or elsewhere in the West Indies . . . and particularly before the Secretary or Registrar of the town of Port of Spain in Trinidad . . . Indenture made the 7th May 1806 between Samuel Martin of Upper Norton Street, Marylebone, Esq., and Grace his wife, of the one part, and Patrick Lenaghan of Antigua, merchant, of the other part. Whereas George Savage, late of Antigua, merchant, but now deceased, duly made his last will dated the 2nd April 1785, and after devising several pecuniary legacies gave all residue real and personal to George Savage and Grace Martin, party hereto, his children, as tenants in common and not joint tenants as by the will . . . more fully appears; and whereas George Savage the son afterwards died intestate and without issue, whereby his moiety . . . became vested in Grace Martin . . . and whereas Ronald Campbell of Antigua, taylor, on the 6th Feb. 1798 purchased from Samuel Martin and Grace his wife a certain piece of land in the town of St. John with the buildings thereon erected, part of the residue of George Savage, deceased, hereinafter more particularly mentioned, for the price of £800 gold and silver currency, and Ronald Campbell having paid to Samuel and Grace Martin £400 currency in part satisfaction . . . was let into possession of the land and premises and continued in possession till the 8th Aug.

1801; and whereas all the right and title of Ronald Campbell . . . having been levied upon by virtue of sundry writs of execution obtained against him was exposed to public sale by the Deputy Provost-Marshal of Antigua and purchased by Bryan Blake then of Antigua, merchant, but now deceased for £800 currency . . . and whereas Bryan Blake duly made his last will dated the 4th June 1800, and among other things willed and directed all his property both real and personal in Antigua to be sold, and did authorize his friend Patrick Lenaghan, merchant, party hereto, to dispose of it and to remit the proceeds to his Ex'ors Valentine O'Connor and Malachi O'Connor of the city of Dublin as by the will . . . and whereas Bryan Blake departed this life the 28th Aug. 1801, and the £800 so bidden by him for the purchase of the right and title of Ronald Campbell . . . has been duly paid by Patrick Lenaghan out of the personal assets of Bryan Blake . . . and Patrick Lenaghan has also paid to Samuel Martin and Grace his wife £254 12s. being the balance due for principal and interest from Ronald Campbell, but no formal conveyance has as yet been made . . . and Patrick Lenaghan has therefore required Samuel Martin and Grace to convey the said land and premises in the manner hereinafter mentioned. Now therefore this Indenture witnesseth that in consideration of the premises and of £254 12s. . . in full satisfaction of the £800 agreed to be paid by Ronald Campbell . . . Samuel Martin and Grace his wife grant and confirm to Patrick Lenaghan and his heirs all that piece of land heretofore of George Savage, deceased, in the town of St. John in Antigua, bounded N. with Long Street, E. with land and tenement heretofore of Ann Boudinott, deceased, but now of William Collins, W. with lands and tenements of the heirs of Joseph Hawkins, and S. with High Street . . . together with the dwelling house . . . but on trust nevertheless to sell and dispose of, and to remit the monies to Valentine and Malachi O'Connor the Ex'ors of Bryan Blake . . . and Samuel Martin and Grace his wife nominate Daniel Hill the elder and Daniel Hill the younger of Antigua, Esquires, their Attorneys . . . James Doherty, Angel Court, Throgmorton Street, witness.

Samuel Martin did grant and confirm to Margaret Deer, a mulatto woman, Betsy Pearson and her infant mustee son Jeremiah, together with the future issue of Betsy . . . Now this Indenture witnesseth that for the better assuring and confirming the same and in consideration of 10s. . . . Chelsea. In the old burial-ground:—Near the centre is an obelisk, erected to the memory of Andrew Millar, an eminent bookseller in London, who died in 1768, aged 61 years. Andrew Millar was literally the artificer of his own fortune. By consummate industry, and a happy train of successive patronage and connection, he became one of the most eminent booksellers of the eighteenth century. He had little pretensions to learning, but had a thorough knowledge of mankind; and a nice discrimination in selecting his literary counsellors. He was not extravagant, but contented himself with an occasional regale of humble port, at an opposite Tavern, so that his wealth accumulated rapidly; he had three children, who all died in their infancy. On the north side is an inscription to the memory of his three children, viz., Andrew Millar, who died in 1730; Robert Millar, 1736; and Elizabeth Millar, 1740; likewise Dame Grant, who died 1788, widow of Andrew Millar, who afterwards married Sir Archibald Grant, Bart. Mr Millar purchased the vault in 1751. (Faulkner's 'History of Chelsea,' p. 38.)

1766, Sep. 8. Capt. Arch. Millar, of the Royal Navy. ('Gent. Mag.,' p. 439.)

1768, June 8. And. Millar, late an eminent Bookseller. (Ibid., p. 303.)

In Burke's 'Colonial Gentry,' vol. i., p. 137, it is stated that Mathew Miller of Millerstone, Paisley, Renfrewshire, had a son Mathew of the same place, who was father of Mathew of the same place, whose son Mathew of the same place married, 1780, Catherine Moir, and died 1820 leaving a son who died in New Zealand in 1885, aged 83.

verdict in the Court of Common Pleas against him for £10,375 17s. 9½*d.* currency and whereas Valentine Morris, by his Attorneys, entered into a rule of Court to pay, among other things, interest at six per cent. on the sum recorded upon James Gordon forbearing to execute judgment, and the said interest was to commence the 26th July 1765 and whereas by a Deed Poll of James Gordon, by Patrick Grant and Robert Christian, Esquires, his Attorneys, dated at Antigua the 12th March 1766, after reciting that there was then due on the said mortgage, and also for several additional buildings, etc., left on Crabbs and Martin's Plantations, £12,979 13s. currency, which, allowing £170 currency, made £7625 10s. sterling, for which Valentine Morris had drawn a set of Bills of Exchange, bearing even date, on Francis Whishaw, merchant in Crutched Friars, in favour of James Gordon and whereas Francis Whishaw failed in his credit and did not pay, etc., and the bills were returned to James Gordon to Antigua and whereas Valentine Morris by Bond of the 24th Dec. 1763 became bound to George Udny in the penal sum of £8000, with the condition for payment of £1350 the 29th Sep. 1765, £1150 the 29th Sep. 1766, £1150 the 29th Sep. 1767, and £1050 the 29th Sep. 1768 and whereas Valentine Morris for better securing, etc., did by a Warrant under his hand bearing even date with the Bond empower Thomas Warner, Edward Horne, and James Brebner, Attorneys of H.M.'s Court of Common Pleas, to enter up judgment at the suit of George and Robert Udny in an action for debt, for money lent, for £11,000 besides the costs of the suit and whereas judgment was duly entered against Valentine Morris and whereas there is now due to James Gordon for principal and interest, and for all costs of his suit, except such as may be due to the Provost-Marshal of Antigua, if any such there be, which are to be paid by Valentine Morris, from the 12th March 1766 to the 18th Feb. last past, £7991 6s. 2*d.* sterling and whereas Valentine Morris and James Gordon have come to an agreement that Valentine Morris shall convey to James Gordon Martin's Plantation and the negros, etc., for £11,500 sterling, and that James Gordon shall deduct the £7991 6s. 2*d.*, and pay the remainder to Robert Udny, who, in consideration thereof, agrees to release the plantation and Mary Morrice has agreed to join in the conveyance, so that Martin's Plantation may be discharged of her £400 a year, and of all dower, etc. Now this Indenture witnesseth that in consideration of £7991 6s. 2*d.* to be retained by James Gordon, and £3508 13s. 10*d.* to be paid to Robert Udny by James Gordon, and of 5s., Valentine Morris and Mary his wife grant, etc., and George Udny, by the direction of Robert Udny, ratifies and confirms, etc., to James Gordon, in his actual possession now being all that plantation called Martin's Plantation, etc., to have and to hold to James Gordon and his heirs for ever, and to no other use absolutely freed from the rent charge to Mary Morris and to hold and peaceably enjoy, free from all claims and Valentine Morris declares there are none except the term of 500 years to Henry Wilmot and a certain judgment only entered up, upon record in the Court of Common Pleas, against him at the suit of Alexander Houston, John Clerk, William MacDowall, and Alexander Millakin, merchants and co-partners, in an action for £6000 sterling, besides costs, for securing payment of £3000 and interest by equal payments to be made on the 29th Sep. next and the 29th Sep. 1768 and 1769 and this Indenture further witnesseth that in consideration of £3508 13s. 10*d.* Robert and George Udny discharge, etc., provided that if not paid the other plantations are to become security and whereas Elizabeth Morris departed this life the 23rd Sep. 1761, having by her will appointed Valentine Morris her sole Ex'or who proved it and the said annuities of £400 and £100 were duly paid to the time of her death and whereas Henry Wilmot being the only acting Ex'or of Valentine Morris, deceased, and almost all the legacies, etc., as were not paid by him have been since paid, or secured to be paid and the £2000 secured to James Gordon the 15th Jan. 1749 being fully satisfied in the manner aforesaid, and the £1000 due to Grace Morris being due to Valentine Morris as her surviving Ex'or, and the £1000 due to Francis Morris being now otherwise secured, and Mary Morris being willing her rent charge of £400 shall be secured from Crabbs Plantation only, and the further security of 1749 be discharged for the ease and convenience of her husband Now this Indenture further witnesseth that it is hereby declared and agreed between James Gordon and Valentine and Mary Morris that the said term of 500 years granted to Henry Wilmot shall continue vested in him, as to Martin's Plantation in trust for James Gordon to protect him from all mesne incumbrances if any and as to Crabbs Plantation for the better securing to Mary Morris the £400 a year and this Indenture further witnesseth that Henry Wilmot, in consideration of 5s., and by the direction of James Gordon and of Valentine Morris as surviving Ex'or of the said Valentine Morris, and of Valentine and Mary Morris, sells, etc., to Valentine Morris and his heirs, that the term of 500 years may be extinguished all those the said other plantations, etc.; and this Indenture moreover witnesseth that for the considerations aforesaid James Gordon appoints Samuel Martin, Thomas Warner, Arthur Freeman, William Warner, Valentine Morris Horne, Patrick Grant, Robert Christian, Samuel Redhead, James Brebner, and Robert Mallom, Esquires, all of Antigua, his Attorneys and whereas by an Indenture of Demise or Lease made the 9th April 1764 between Samuel Massett of Antigua, coppersmith, and Elizabeth Massett his wife, of the one part, and Valentine Morris, party hereto, of the other part, it was witnessed that for the considerations mentioned Samuel and Elizabeth Massett did demise to Valentine Morris all that plantation in the parish of St. Peter and division of Old North Sound, containing 75 acres, bounded E. with the lands of James Gordon, W. with the lands of Joseph (? Jonas) Langford, deceased, S. with the lands of John Dewar, deceased, and N. with those of Ann Freeman, a widow to hold from the 1st June for 99 years, in case Elizabeth Massett should so long live, under the yearly rent therein reserved Now this Indenture further witnesseth that in pursuance of the said agreement, and in consideration of 5s. . . . Valentine Morris has granted, etc., to James Gordon the residue of the 99 years James Gordon paying the rent reserved and they discharge each other of all claims, etc., and Valentine and Mary Morris convey to James Gordon Martin's Plantation, etc. (as above). In 1767 Valentine Morris was rated on 1004 acres and 284 slaves; in 1780 on 451 acres and 196 slaves. (St. Mary's Vestry Book.)

Valentine Morris, jun., inherited from his father a large fortune, which he dissipated in extravagant living, and becoming involved in debt his friends obtained for him in 1772 the post of Lieut.-Governor of St. Vincent, of which island he became Governor four years later. After the capture of that colony in 1779, by the French, with a vastly superior force, Governor Morris returned to England, where he prosecuted various claims against the Government for sums advanced by him for the public service. He languished six or seven years in the King's Bench prison, during which time his charming wife, a niece of the old Lord Peterborough, became insane from misery and distress. Some three years before his death his friends obtained his liberty, and he died 26 Aug. 1789 at the house of his brother-in-law Mr. Henry Wilnot in Bloomsbury Square. For further details see 'A Narrative of the Official Conduct of Valentine Morris, Esq., late Capt.-General and Governor-in-Chief of St. Vincent, written by himself 1787,' and a long obituary notice, p. 862, 1789, in the 'Gent. Mag.'

He wrote in his Narrative: "Two of my valuable estates in Antigua were taken possession of by the Assignees of a Mortgage for the whole nominal sum of the original mortgage. Another very considerable estate in that Island, the seat of my nativity & that of all my remaining family, has been forced to sale under every possible disadvantage for little more than £13,000, which on the most accurate estimates had frequently been valued at £22,000 st., & often at favourable epochs nearly to £30,000. My valuable & beautiful well known estate at Piercefield, in Monmouthshire, descending to me from my father, & for so many years the subject of my creative attention . . . was at length forced to sale for £26,100, for which at former periods . . . £46,000, £47,000, £48,000, & once £52,000 had been offered."

1796—1818. St. Peter's, Parham. The estate of Valentine Morris, deceased, rated.

1823, July 23. In Sloane-street, the wife of Valentine Morris, esq. a dau. ('Gent. Mag.,' p. 176.)

1842, Nov. 15. At Eling, Hants, Richard William Morris, esq. second son of Valentine Morris, esq. of Battersea, to Caroline Stratton, youngest dau. of the late John Saunders, esq. of Downs House. (Ibid., p. 86, 1843.)

"Another, and more interesting sitter to Sir Joshua, was the beautiful Miss Morris, who sat for one of his loveliest creations, 'Hope nursing Love' (see illustration, p. 19). It was exhibited at the first exhibition of the Royal Academy, 1769. The picture, which is in the Bowood Gallery, has kept its colour better than almost any of Sir Joshua's. It was exhibited at the collection of Old Masters two years ago, and charmed all who saw it. Three repetitions were made of it, one for Lord Lansdowne, another in the possession of Mr. Hope; the third was sold at Lady Thomond's sale for 220 guineas. The story of the young lady who sat for this beautiful picture is somewhat pathetic. She was the daughter of Mr. Valentine Morris, governor of one of the West Indian Islands. On his death his widow, with her four children, came to England in great poverty, and Sir Joshua, who had known them in better days, took the liveliest interest in the family. It was thought that if she adopted the stage as a profession her beauty and grace might ensure her success. When through Sir Joshua's interest she appeared at Covent Garden in November, 1768, as Juliet, her friends mustered in great force to support her through the ordeal. Sir Joshua was there, and Johnson and Goldsmith between the Jessamy Bride and Little Comedy, but even their friendly faces could not inspire the poor girl with any courage. She could not utter a word, and was obliged to retreat ignominiously. No entreaties could induce her to appear again. Her failure, however, preyed upon her, and she died soon after of rapid consumption." ('Art Journal,' 1892, p. 22.)

NIHELLS OF TRINIDAD.

In 1780 on the records of the Cabildo appears an Auto or Act empowering the Alcalde of the first Election to go to the French Islands and induce French and Irish settlers to come to Trinidad. The emigrants were chiefly French, with a few Irish. To each white person was granted 32 acres with 16 acres for each slave. In the records of Trinidad (in the Spanish language) there is an entry the substance of which is that on 25 April 1786 Don Juan Nihell, stated to be a native of Martinique, was admitted to citizenship at Trinidad. On 30 July 1789 he received a grant of land of 317 fannegas (1 fannega = 6 acres 3 r. 25 p.), proportionate to the number of persons free and slave which he brought with him. In 1796, on the 18th May, he was shot at by rioters whilst exercising magisterial functions as Alcalde of second Election. On 1 March 1797 he was appointed by Sir Ralph Abercrombie, Chief Magistrate, Chief Judge, and Auditor in and over the whole Island. In 1809 he was pensioned, and in 1810 signed a petition to the King asking that no change should be allowed in the Colony during the absence of General Hislop, then Governor. On 20 June 1815 he sold his pension to Dr. Lawrence Nihell. John Nihell's name occurs in very many commercial transactions, deeds of sale, etc., but I could not find his will, nor the date of his death. Dr. Lawrence Nihell owned two large estates styled "Coura" and "Eldorado," the latter close to the capital. In some official documents he is styled "The Hon^{ble}," being Member of Council. There is documentary evidence that the Rev. Edward Nihell of London was his brother, but no direct evidence that John was the brother of either; nevertheless, I think that they were all three brothers, and identical with John, Edward, and Lawrence of Antigua. Dr. Lawrence Nihell of Trinidad had 3 sons: John, Lawrence, and Robert. He left Trinidad about 1818, and died at Toulouse in 1822. In his will he is stated to be a native of St. John (? Antigua), and late of Trinidad. His son John predeceased him. Lawrence remained in Trinidad, and was buried at "El Dorado," which was sold to a man named O'Brien. I got no information about Robert. There were several others of the name, which is sometimes spelt "Niel." (Extracted from Joseph's 'History' by Surgeon-General O'Nial.)

Sir Oliver Nugent, formerly President of the Federal Council of the Leeward Islands, whose death is announced from Antigua, in the West Indies, as having occurred there on the 28th ult., in his 80th year, belonged to one of the oldest of the West Indian families, a branch of the Irish family of Nugent, his father being the late Hon. Nicholas Nugent, M.D., who married Eliza, daughter of Mr. Boyce Ledwell, of Antigua. Sir Oliver was born at Antigua in 1815, and was educated at Edinburgh University, being appointed private secretary to the Governor of Antigua in 1836. For 26 years, from 1846 to 1866, he was Speaker of the House of Assembly of Antigua, Vice-President of the Legislative Council from 1866 to 1868, and President from 1868 to 1872, being reappointed to the office in 1875. Sir Oliver married, in 1845, Lucretia Louisa, daughter of the Hon. George Weatherill-Ottley, of Antigua, his wife predeceasing him in the course of the present year. ('Morning Post,' 26 Sep. 1894.)

The following is a copy of a letter, written 18 and 27 Dec. 1844 by Major Nugent-Dunbar to his son Arthur, about the Nugent Pedigree :—

Robert Nugent, whose Irish property was principally in the County Clare always looked upon my grandfather, Walter as a near relation and treated his widow Antoinetta as such whenever I saw them together, which frequently took place in Queen Square Westminster where she kept open house every Sunday for such friends as chose to come uninvited either to dinner or for the evening and we generally sat down about 12 at dinner and 20 at supper.

His lordship's only sister Mrs. Margaret Nugent,* a spinster, who lived to 90 years of age was frequently of these parties as well do I remember as she frequently gave me half a crown and was kind to me in every other respect.

Robert Nugent when a young man thought proper to visit England in the hope of advancing himself in life, but finding the Religion he had been bred up in (the Roman Catholic) a complete bar to success read his Recantation, and published a very pretty copy of verses on the occasion acknowledging the fact of his conversion.

I never saw this publication, though I have often heard my father quote small parts of it at different times.

I think it possible that it might be found among Dodsley's miscellanies.

Robert having thus qualified himself became a member of Parliament* made some very clever speeches and shortly married Miss Craggs† the only child of one of the then Secretaries of State adopted her name in addition to his own, and soon inherited her father's property by the Secretary's demise.

Having by that interest obtained the title of Baron Clare‡ and my father having about this time built a house on his estate in Antigua obtained his lordship's consent to call it Clare Hall by which name I always heard it called while I had connection with a hope from it.

By Miss Craggs Lord Clare, had two children. The boy's Christian name I never heard. He was only known as Col. Nugent† I suppose of the guards but more of him bye and bye.

The daughter Mary married Mr George Grenville, the nephew and heir of Earl Temple and soon became his successor in the Title and in the estates in Buckinghamshire and elsewhere and before many years had passed was created Marquis of Buckingham.

* She was buried at Gosfield, co. Essex.

† Edmund, Lieut.-Colonel of the Guards, only son, was by the first match; he died 1771 at Bath, s.p. legit.

This couple had a son named Richard who became the first Duke of Buckingham at the urgent request of Louis 18th to George the fourth and was the father of the present Duke of Buckingham.

Fourteen or fifteen years after the birth of Richard, his mother produced in quick succession a son and a daughter, the present Baron Nugent, and Mary married to the late

* M.P. for St. Mawes in 1747.

† Anna, daughter of James Craggs, Esq., whom he married 1736 as his second wife. He married firstly, in 1730, Lady E. Plunket, and thirdly, in 1757, Elizabeth, Countess of Berkeley.

‡ Created 1767.

Lord Arundel whose widow she now is—with two or more children.

Lord Nugent has been married many years but is without children.

I was introduced to the late Marchioness of Buckingham as her relative, when I was only 8 years of age, upon which occasion she acknowledged the relationship by giving me 2 guineas and which donation she constantly repeated whenever we met until her husband the Marquis had given me an ensigncy in the Twentieth Regiment and I have never seen her since, though I received a very kind letter from her inviting me to call upon her at Temple House Pall Mall some years after I was married and sending a very kind message to your Mother whom she styled M^{rs} Nugent and this letter she sent by Sir George Nugent to insure its safe arrival with me.

Mrs. Margaret Nugent the aged spinster who was in the habit of giving me half crowns, was her Aunt and was familiarly known in both families as "Aunt Peg." Biddy Lynch mentioned in my former family sketch was very intimate with both these ladies and received a situation as Housekeeper or something of the sort in the Custom House in Dublin, from the Marquis when he was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland—but as she could not serve in that office the Marquis allowed her to sell it by which she obtained 6 or £800—about the time I was introduced to the Marchioness of Buckingham the lady Temple, her father Lord Clare was created Earl Nugent* both being Irish titles he had not any seat in the House of Lords but took care to obtain seats in the Commons so as always to have some influence with the existing Ministry.

The Title of Lord Clare has now for many years been borne by one of the Irish Judges I believe Fitz Gibbon not from any family connection with Lord Nugent but probably from property in that county.

Colonel Nugent mentioned in the foregoing pages never married at least not publicly but had two sons by a lady of good family whose name I am not quite certain of. These two sons George and Charles Edmund were always (word omitted) as the grandsons of Lord Nugent, and no questions asked. The youngest Edmund† was a constant playfellow of my cousin Kitt Parker at Queen Square and being destined for the Navy lived constantly with Sir Peter Parker at Jamaica and elsewhere until Sir Peter made him a post captain in the Navy and he was after that very much with our family.

The senior brother George I first saw the evening of the day that he had been at the Queen's drawing room to take leave on going to join the 57th Regiment as a Captain the Reg^t then being in America during the wars with those provinces. George was about 19 years of age—6 feet in height dressed in the Regimentals he had on at Court and looked remarkably well and very fit for a captain of grenadiers.

Upon the demise of Lord Nugent‡ I have understood that George had some idea of asserting his claim to his grandfather's Titles—but whether he found it impossible to prove the legal marriage of his parents or whether dissuaded by his Aunt, and Lord Buckingham from the attempt I know not but contented himself with their getting him a Baronetcy and his Aunt was created Baroness Nugent, in her own right, with remainder to her second and youngest son now Lord Nugent.

The long intimacy which subsisted between these brothers and the Parker family may account to you for my cousin Mrs. George Ellis going to keep house for Sir George in these his latter days, as I presume his married daughters Lady Freemantle and I believe a Mrs. Clayton, are too much engaged with their own families to absent themselves from home.

The Marquis of Buckingham had lent Louis the 18th for many years an excellent house rent free and done him many other kindnesses during his expulsion from France, which I suppose was the reason he interested himself with George the fourth to obtain the dukedom for the son from gratitude to the Father.

So many Nugents fought at the Battle of the Boyne in 1690 against William the third and his General Schomberg that 16 were killed in action, but my grandfather, Walter Nugent of Drumree, in the County of Westmeath, escaped the slaughter and made his way to Liverpool where he became a ship husband or supercargo, by freighting a vessel with his own merchandise and going himself in the ship to dispose of her cargo at Antigua.

Shortly after the battle, King William published an amnesty by which all those proprietors who swore allegiance to him were allowed to retain their possessions. But my Grandfather being in the West Indies did not know of the favourable proclamation soon enough to make his submission in the time proscribed and consequently forfeited his estate of Drumree, which was given to a Mr. Smyth who with his heirs ever since possessed it.

My Grandfather I believe made 3 successive & successful voyages to Antigua and there became acquainted with a Mr. Leroux a gentleman of landed property there, and no doubt of French extraction from the name, and who seems to have recognised a countryman in M^r Nugent which is only a mis-spelling of Nogent of which name there are three towns in France (viz.) Nogent sur Seine a little to the Eastward of Paris & Nogent le Roi and Nogent le Rotron, both in the district of Maine near Normandy, from one or other of these latter towns our ancestors came to England with William the Conqueror.

How we were translated to Ireland I don't know, probably by grant from the Crown for meritorious services in the subjugation of England.

M^r Leroux had but one daughter named Antoinetta a fine well grown girl of 12 years of age and comely looking, whom he consented to give in marriage to my grandfather upon his waiting a little time, until he had made another voyage to England. And before my grandfather left the Island upon this last voyage he asked his juvenile intended what present he should bring her from England? to which she replied "a handsome doll & a large plum cake." Shortly after his return to the island the marriage was celebrated and the first child was born when she was only 14 years of age. This I believe died, but there were six others who came to maturity and who shall be accounted for bye & bye.

M^r Leroux's estate descended to his child Antoinetta & from her to her eldest son Oliver my father.

The children of Walter Nugent & Antoinetta were:—

- (1) Mary who married M^r Lynch an Irishman and a widower.
- (2) Antoinetta married M^r Robert Skerrett an Irishman.
- (3) Oliver who married Elizabeth Dunbar.
- (4) Margaret who married Sir Peter Parker an Irishman.
- (5) Eleanor who died unmarried at the age of 94.
- (6) Nicholas who died unmarried at the age of 63.

Having been created Baronet which title died with him.

Stephen Lynch by his first wife left 3 sons who died without any existing progeny, and one daughter Bridget who became Oliver Nugent's second wife after the demise of

Joseph a celebrated surgeon in London for many years lived 35 Hatton St Holborn left issue.

A sister whose Christian name I do not recollect married a Mr Kerby & left issue.

Barbara married William Dunbar of Machermore. There were others I believe but who left no now existing issue.

Joseph Warner's children:—

A daughter married Mr Robert but left no issue.

Edward married but I forget to whom, left children I know not how many nor how disposed of.

Joseph married a Miss Ottley of Richmond York^{sh} left issue I know not how disposed of.

Mrs. Kerby had one child married to a Mr Potts a vinegar merchant of London. She herself lived at Eltham in Kent.

Barbara Dunbar left issue Charles Warner Dunbar of Machermore to whom I succeeded in that estate, and Elizabeth married to Oliver Nugent leaving three surviving children:—Robert. Barbara married Mr. Broome an American, left no issue, and Mary still unmarried who has for several years been living in Yorkshire.

Margaret Nugent married to Admiral Sir Peter Parker left three children.

Christopher died an admiral leaving issue as below.

Antoinetta married to John Ellis leaving issue as below.

Anne married to George Ellis, no issue.

Christopher Parker died before his father and of course did not succeed to the title but left issue.

Peter killed as a Cap^t in the Navy on the coast of America.

John died I believe of smallpox.

Julia married to Charles Ellis—no issue.

Charles now the baronet married to a daughter of Lord Seaford who was the younger brother of Lord Seaford who was the younger brother of John Ellis.

Antoinetta married to John Ellis left issue—

Charles married to Julia Parker mentioned in the other column.

Antoinetta married to the Count de Chabaunes leaving 2 or 3 children.

Memoranda on the Baronetage of Sir Nicholas Nugent.—He was required by his commanding officer in the Guards to give particulars of a private conversation, to which he objected; some unpleasant or unsatisfactory conversation arose, upon which N. Nugent resigned his Commission in the Reg^t, & having left the Regiment, challenged his former commanding officer.

Absent from Court & its circles, George the 3^d asked for & about him, & on hearing the story sent for him, thinking him hardly used, asked what he could do for him? He begged to have his commission returned to him, but this request being contrary to the rules of the service, was declined. Upon which George 3^d made him a Baronet. He died without issue & as in the case of a new Baronetcy the title died with him.

8 James St, Westbourne Terrace.
5 April 1848.

Sir,

I return with many thanks the letters you were kind enough to lend me, & beg to apologise for having so long detained them. But I waited for the arrival of my records & manuscripts that I might carefully compare Major N. Dunbar's narrative with the official documents. The result is, that the main fact, your family's direct descent from Drumcree seems clearly established, everything else is perfectly erroneous. I feel indebted to you therefore for enabling me in your instance to accomplish the chief object of the pedigree the ascertaining the true claimants of forfeited lands in Ireland. Every man who has a just claim should now be prepared to assert it. I am satisfied that before many years pass over the wrongs of ancient Irish families will be investigated & redressed. None have suffered more severely for their allegiance & religion than your own. The book of forfeitures is a record of robbery. Could you let me know the baptismal name of Mr Leroux?

I am Sir very truly Yours

W^m SKEY.

Whereas Richard and Thomas Oliver were seised as tenants in common of the estates hereinafter mentioned, and Richard Oliver, by his last will dated the 6th April 1779, gave all residue real and personal, plantations, etc., negros, etc., to William Smith, therein called his friend William Smith of Manchester Square, Esq., and to his heirs for ever, and appointed him Ex'or who duly proved the will; and whereas Richard Oliver died the 16th April 1784, and since his decease the accounts depending with Thomas Oliver as surviving partner of Michael Lovell, deceased, have been balanced, etc., to the 24th June last past between William Smith and Thomas Oliver, and the estate of Richard Oliver was found to be indebted in a large sum of money . . . and it was agreed that towards part payment of the balance due to Thomas Oliver the undivided moieties of Richard Oliver, deceased, and now of William Smith, of all plantations, etc., all negros, etc., should be conveyed . . . in trust for Thomas Oliver and his heirs for ever, and accepted by him at the several prices hereinafter mentioned . . . Now therefore this Indenture witnesses that in consideration of £1750, being the consideration mentioned in an Indenture already prepared and intended to be made, bearing even date, between William Smith and Thomas Oliver, and of 10s. . . . William Smith grants, etc., to Thomas Oliver, in his actual possession being . . . all that moiety in Parson's and Daniel's Plantation in Bugby Hole, containing 200 acres, and in John Daly Fitz Denny's Plantation at Bugby Hole, containing 100 acres of arable land . . . and all that other plantation, all which are now held . . . as one plantation and called Bugby Hole Estate, and all deeds for the only proper use of Thomas Oliver and his heirs for ever; and further witnesses that for the consideration aforesaid and the further sum of 10s. . . . deceased, and now of William Smith, in all the negros and other slaves following (names given), being the slaves or issue of some which were heretofore conveyed with the lands hereby released to John Lyons and Langford Lovell, in whom the said premises now are, or lately were, vested in trust for William Smith as devisee, etc., Thomas Oliver and their heirs as tenants in common, and of all other negros, etc., now belonging to the plantations, and of all horses, mules, horned cattle, carts, etc., to have and to hold to Thomas Oliver and his heirs for ever; and further witnesses that in consideration of the further sum of £4500, being the consideration mentioned and part of the beforementioned balance, and of 10s. paid by Thomas Oliver and Randle Ford, William Smith grants, etc., to them, in their actual possession being, all that moiety of Needsmost Estate, late Roberts's, containing [blank] acres, as the same lately were in the possession or occupation of Richard and Thomas Oliver, etc., and all deeds, to have and to hold to Thomas Oliver and Randle Ford, to the only proper use of Randle Ford during the life of Thomas Oliver in trust for him and his assigns, and immediately after the determination of that estate, and in the meantime subject thereto, to the only proper use of Thomas Oliver and his heirs for ever; and further witnesses that for the considerations last hereinbefore mentioned and the further sum of 10s. William Smith grants, etc., to Thomas Oliver all that moiety of Richard Oliver, deceased, and now of William Smith, of all the negros, etc., mentioned in the first schedule annexed hereto, being the negros and slaves which formerly belonged to the estate or plantation of Richard and Thomas Oliver called Bugby Hole Estate, and which negros, about the year 1778, were removed to Needsmost Estate and were then 132 in number, and of all other negros added to Needsmost Estate in or since 1778, and now on the said plantation, all which negros, etc., were, on the 1st Oct. 1784, 124 in number, and of all horses, etc., to have and to hold to Thomas Oliver, his Ex'ors, etc., for ever; and further witnesses that in consideration of the further sum of £1547 mentioned to be the consideration money in an Indenture, and being other part of the said balance, and the further sum of 10s. Now this Indenture further witnesses that as well for barring, etc., all estates tail and remainders, etc., as also for barring, etc., all dower and thirds, etc., of Elizabeth Smith, William and Elizabeth Smith grant, etc., to Randle Ford in trust for Thomas Oliver, and William Smith agrees to deliver within 12 months a full true schedule of all the plantations and negros, etc., with the exact quantity of acres and the boundaries thereof, and of all horses, etc., which is to be properly recorded in the Register's Office; and lastly William Smith and Elizabeth his wife appoint, etc., Charles Chambers of Montserrat, Esq., George Chalmers of ditto, Gent., Langford Lovell, and Joseph Lyons Athill, Esquires, of Antigua, their Attorneys. 1st schedule: 126 negros (names given), 40 head of cattle, 14 mules, and 1 horse. 2nd schedule: 44 negros (names given). RICHARD OLIVER, JUN., ALDERMAN AND M.P. FOR LONDON.

In 1768 Richard Oliver, Jun., was an active supporter of Wilkes, as appears by an advertisement which was published this year in the City, a copy of which is inserted in vol. iii. of Almon's 'Life of Wilkes.'

"Mr Wilkes' friends undertook to receive subscriptions for satisfying his creditors, as some reparation to him, and justice due to them: his being now returned member of parliament for the county of Middlesex adds additional weight to their solicitude and application to the public. Mr Wilkes' cause being that of liberty and the constitution, with which the welfare of every Briton is inseparable connected, it is hoped the lovers of their country will testify their gratitude upon this occasion to their common benefactor; as it may be presumed he will make it the uniform ambition of his life to defend constitutional liberty.

"It is therefore earnestly requested, that all who are friends to this cause, in which he has been so great a sufferer, and who are desirous that he should be through life as independent in his circumstances as he is in his spirit, and are willing to promote this generous design, will immediately send in their subscriptions, to enable the gentlemen who have undertaken this trust to perfect their generous endeavours. No part of the money subscribed under this trust has been, or ever will be applied towards defraying any electioneering expences.

"Subscriptions are taken in by John Mills, Samuel Vaughan, Richard Oliver, Lewis Mendez and George Hayley esqs trustees; as also at Messrs Lee and Aytous bankers, in Lombard Street; and at Mr Almon's, in Piccadilly." (April 23, 1768.)

The Society of Supporters of the Bill of Rights was formed 20 Feb. 1769 in the first instance with the object of collecting subscriptions for the payment of debts incurred by John Wilkes in his opposition to the Ministry.

They held their meetings at the London Tavern, and Thomas Oliver, Esq., brother-in-law of Alderman Richard Oliver, acted as Treasurer. Up to 13 March 1770 they had paid £7400 on his behalf and £6000 still remained then owing. At a meeting on 9 April 1771, a violent altercation ensuing between Mr. Wilkes and Mr. Horne, produced a motion from the latter for a dissolution of the Society, which was however lost by 26 against 24. For dissolving the Society there appeared Mr. Alderman John Sawbridge, Sir Robert Bernard, Sir Francis Delaval, Messrs. Bellas, William Tooke, Horne, Thomas Oliver, Twogood, etc., and against it R. Jones, Ellis, Frederick Bull, Baldy, Adair, Dr. Wilson, John Wilkes, Churchill, etc.

Those who were for the dissolution proceeded to strike their names off the books, and formed themselves into a new association called the Constitutional Society. The chief cause of this secession was because many of the members did not wish to be further saddled with Mr. Wilkes' debts, but desired to open public subscriptions towards the furtherance of constitutional agitation for reform of various abuses in the government. (Noorthonck's 'London'.)

1770, Feb. 7. The supporters of the Bill of rights met at the London Tavern, when Serjeant Glynn, the chairman, acquainted the society, that a remittance of 1500*l*. had been paid into the hands of

Sir Thomas Hankey and Co. bankers in Fenchurch street, for the use of the society, by order of the assembly of South Carolina, who had voted that sum. ('Gent. Mag.', p. 94.)

Letter sent by a Committee of the Supporters of the Bill of Rights to the Hon. the Commons House of Assembly of South Carolina.

"To the Hon. the Commons House of Assembly of South Carolina.

"GENTLEMEN,

"We are directed by the society, Supporters of the Bill of Rights, to transmit to you their thanks for the very honourable testimony you have at once given of your own sentiments, and of your approbation of their conduct. The same spirit of union and mutual assistance, which dictated your vote in our favour, animates this society. We shall ever consider the rights of all our fellow-subjects throughout the British Empire in England, Scotland, Ireland, and America, as stones of one arch on which the happiness and security of the whole are founded. Such would have been our principle of action, if the system of despotism, which has been adopted, had been more artfully conducted; and we should as readily have associated in the defence of your rights as our own, had they been separately attacked.

"But providence has mercifully allotted to depraved hearts weak understandings: the attack has been made by the same men, at the same time, on both together, and will serve only to draw us closer in one great band of mutual friendship and support.

"Whilst the Norman troops of the first William kept the English in subjection, his English soldiers were employed to secure the obedience of the Normans. This management has been too often repeated now to succeed.

"There was a time when Scotland, though then a separate and divided nation, could avoid the snare, and refused, even under their own Stuarts, to enslave their ancient enemies. The chains which England and Scotland disdained to forge for each other, England and America shall never consent to furnish.

"Property is the natural right of mankind; the connection between taxation and representation is its necessary consequence. This connection is now broken, and taxes are attempted to be levied both on England and America, by men who are not their respective representatives. Our cause is one—our enemies the same.

"We trust our constancy and conduct will not differ. Demands, which are made without authority should be heard without obedience.

"In this, and in every other constitutional struggle on either side of the Atlantic, we wish to be united with you, and are as ready to give, as to receive assistance.

"We desire you, Gentlemen, to be persuaded, that, under all our domestic grievances and apprehensions, the freedom of America is our particular attention; and these your public act, and solemn engagement, afford us a pleasing presage, and confirm our hopes, that when luxury, misrule, and corruption shall at length, in spite of all resistance, have destroyed this noble constitution here, our posterity will not, like your gallant ancestors, be driven to an inhospitable shore, but will find a welcome refuge, where they may still enjoy the rights of Englishmen amongst their fellow-subjects, the descendants and brothers of Englishmen.

"We are Gentlemen, With the greatest respect,
Your most obedient servants, and Affectionate fellow-subjects,

"Signed	JOHN GLYNN	Chairman

[For signing the above letter, it has been said, that the Chairman ought to be h—g'd.]

1770, John Wilkes wrote to his daughter on 22 June:—

"Mr Thomas Oliver is candidate to succeed the late lord-mayor; both as representative of the city, and alderman. I believe he will succeed in both."

On 26 June:—

"I dined on Sunday at Putney, half a mile only from Fulham, with Mr Oliver, and a large party; and I prophesy that you will have a most agreeable neighbour in Mr Oliver, and all that family . . . Mr Thomas Oliver will be chosen, I believe without opposition; both as member for the city and alderman. George Bellas was first proposed, but he resigned in the handsomest manner in favour of Mr Oliver. The Olivers, Lovell, etc., always inquire after you, and desire their compliments."

On 29 June:—

"Mr Thomas Oliver is taken so very ill, that he has been obliged to keep his bed; and has given up his canvass, both as representative for the city and alderman. Mr Richard Oliver succeeds him in both, to the great joy of all our friends."

On 6 July:—

"Mr Richard Oliver has no opposition hitherto as member; and the election will be next Wednesday or Thursday."

(Almon's 'Wilkes's Correspondence,' vol. vi.)

1770, June 29. After the business of the Court was over, Mr. Richard Oliver, at the request of some gentlemen on the Hustings addressed the Livery in the following manner:

"GENTLEMEN OF THE LIVERY,

"It is with the greatest concern I must inform you, that my brother,* Mr Thomas Oliver, the late candidate for your favour as Representative of this city, lies dangerously ill of a violent fever, which for two days past has deprived him of his senses. In an interval of his reason yesterday, expecting his death, he expressed great anxiety lest the Livery of London should be left without a candidate whom they might rely upon for his fidelity, — he desired me to make his excuses to the public, for whose service only he had consented to become a candidate, and to represent to you, that his severe illness must prevent him from completing his freedom, and being your member at present; he therefore humbly begs leave to decline, and returns you his most sincere thanks for the very great encouragement he has received on his canvass.

"Having said thus much, Gentlemen, for my brother, your late Candidate, I must intreat your permission to speak a few words for myself. It was very far from my wish or intention ever to have taken an active part in any public affairs; but the present situation of this country calls aloud on every honest man to relinquish his own ease, his own peaceful retirement, and to stand up in the defence of those rights, which whoever knows the value of them, will never abandon but with his life; I therefore now solicit your votes and interest for myself. I am actuated by the same motives, and possess the same zeal for your service; and I hope by your vigorous support to prevent the opportunity, which my brother's illness might otherwise have given to your Adversaries, to impose upon you some associate of their own, to assist them in the prosecution of those schemes which have called down upon them the curses of their injured country. It is for this reason only, I now offer myself a candidate for your votes and interest, to be elected one of your Representatives in Parliament.

"It will be my constant study to represent you faithfully, and to have no object in view but your welfare, happiness, honour, and security; for I never could imagine that any power was ever bestowed upon a Representative for any other purpose but the advantage of the constituents." (Gent. Mag., p. 340.)

1770. At the common-hall on July 11th . . . when the name of Richard Oliver, Esq.; citizen and draper* was proposed, every hand in the hall was held up to signify the general approbation, with loud acclamations. He was therefore declared by the sheriffs duly elected a representative for the city of London. Then stepping forward he returned thanks in a genteel speech for their as yet unmerited confidence in him; told them he should consider himself as deputed for their benefit; and not for his own advantage; that he would be obedient to those instructions they had a right to give to their servants; that he would contribute his share in any manner, to render justice to the freeholders of Middlesex, and in them to all the other counties and boroughs in Great Britain, for the injury they had received in being deprived of a representative in parliament, who had been duly and repeatedly elected by those who alone have and ought to have the right of election. He added that as he never had or desired, so he never would either directly or indirectly accept, either place, pension, emolument, contract, or gratification, of any kind whatever, from the crown or its ministers. . . . "I will endeavour, Gentlemen, to the utmost of my abilities, to act up to the station in which you have placed me. My life will be happily employed, if I shall ever be able to render you services in any measure equal to those of your late much lamented representative, whose memory will be dear to me, as it is to every good citizen: but though I should fail in these wishes, I can at least promise you in full confidence, that I will equal him in the integrity of his heart and in the independence of his spirit."

On July 14, a wardmote was held in Butcher's-hall, Pudding-lane, for the election of an alderman for Billingsgate-ward, in the room of the late lord-mayor, when Richard Oliver, Esq; merchant in Fenchurch-street, and one of the Supporters of the Bill of Rights, was chosen without opposition.

(Noorthouck's 'History of London,' p. 485.)

"Mr Alderman Oliver presents his respects to Mr Alderman Wilkes and informs him that Major M^cLean called yesterday in Fenchurch Street to desire a declaration or assurance that Mr Wilkes's notes to Mr M^cLean should be paid by the Society of the London Tavern and on Mr Oliver's not being able to give any other answer to the application than that he believed the Society had not means for discharging them the Major said they must be delivered to L^d Verney.

"This Mr Oliver thinks proper to mention to Mr Wilkes that he may not be surprised by any measures which may be taken in consequence of L^d Verney's possessing the notes.

ORIGIN OF THE FREE PUBLICATION OF PARLIAMENTARY DEBATES.

Previous to the year 1771 it was "highly criminal" for any person to print a report of the debates of the House of Commons, except by order of the Speaker. In Feb. complaints having been made against several printers for having contravened this rule, the serjeant of arms was instructed to take them into custody, & a royal proclamation was issued on 8 March offering a reward of £50 each for their apprehension. On 15 March Wheble, one of the offending printers, was brought before Wilkes, the sitting alderman at the Guildhall, who, finding that the prisoner had been illegally taken into custody, without a warrant signed by a city magistrate, discharged him. Thompson another printer was carried before Mr Alderman Oliver, at the Mansion House, as being the person described in his majesty's proclamation; but not being accused of having committed any crime, he was in like manner set at liberty. J. Miller, another, was seized in virtue of a warrant from the Speaker & carried to the Mansion House, where he was examined before the Lord-Mayor, Brass Crosby, & Aldermen Wilkes & Oliver. These 3 magistrates proceeded to order Miller's release & signed the commitment of the messenger for assault.

The ministerial party in the House of Commons were greatly enraged at this opposition to their authority, and ordered the Lord Mayor to attend in his place, who pleaded that by the City Charters citizens were exempted from any law process being served but by their own officers.

On 20 March the minutes of the proceedings against the messenger at the Lord Mayor's Court were read in the House & they were ordered to be expunged.*

On 21 March the Court of Common Council voted the thanks of the Court to the Lord Mayor & Aldermen Wilkes & Oliver, for supporting the privileges & franchises of the city, & a committee of 12 was selected to assist them in their defence, & £500 voted for legal expences.

Mr Wilkes had received 2 orders to attend the House which disregarding, a 3^d was sent to him directing him to attend on 8 April but the House adjourned over that day to evade the difficulty.

"Mr Oliver's conduct came next under consideration; who being asked what he had to say in his defence, answered, that he owned and gloried in the fact laid to his charge: that he knew no justification could avert the punishment that was intended for him; that he was conscious of having done his duty, was indifferent as to the consequences; and as he thought it in vain to appeal to justice, so he defied the threats of power. It was then moved that he should be sent to the Tower, but great heats arose upon this question; the severest censures, not without threats were thrown out; and above thirty gentlemen quitted the house in a body, with declarations of the utmost asperity. Some of those who cultivated an interest in the city, declared, that they would, in the same situation, act the part that Mr Oliver did, and therefore they should all be sent to the Tower together. Several attempts were made from the other side, to bring Mr Oliver to a submission, or at least an acknowledgment of error; that they might terminate the contest on their parts decently; but he continued inflexible, declaring that he had acted from law and principle; and therefore would never submit to an imputation of guilt. The question for his being sent to the Tower was at length put, and carried by 170 to 38, most of the minority having before quitted the house. This was on the 26th at three o'clock in the morning. He was indulged to lie at his own house in Fenchurch-street where the serjeant-at-arms attended at 8 o'clock & conducted him thence in a coach to the Tower. He was visited during his confinement by great numbers of both Houses."

On the 27th the Lord Mayor attended the House when a like motion as to him was carried by 202 against 39.

"Motions were made and carried in the court of common council to provide tables for the lord-mayor and alderman Oliver in the Tower, at the city expence; the acceptance of which however both these gentlemen politely declined."

April 3. The Committee of the Common Council of the City of London unanimously resolved, "That Mr Solicitor do immediately apply to Mr Serjeant Glynn, Mr Dunning, and Mr Lee, or such of them as are in town, and under their directions to move for Habeas Corpora for the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor and Mr Alderman Oliver, now detained in the Tower of London."

April 5. The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor was brought, in a private manner, to Lord Chief Justice De Grey's, in Lincoln's inn fields, by virtue of a Writ of Habeas Corpus; when, after hearing Counsel, the Lord Chief Justice was of opinion that he should be re-committed, as the Parliament was not prorogued. The Counsel were, Mr Serjeant Glynn and Mr Lee, of Lincoln's-inn. Mr Alderman Oliver was carried before Lord Mansfield, at his Chambers in Serjeant's-inn. The Counsel, as also his Lordship's opinion, were the same as that of Lord Chief Justice De Grey. After these decisions, the Lord Mayor and Mr Oliver were re-conveyed by the Major to the Tower. (P. 188.)

Another attempt to procure their enlargement was made in the law courts on the 30th April, but the Judges decided adversely.

"On 8 May the King prorogued parliament & at 2 o'clock by previous arrangement part of the court of aldermen, and almost the whole common-council, preceded by the city marshal and his deputy, went from Guildhall to the Tower. There were fifty-three carriages in the train. The members of the Artillery company accompanied the procession in their uniform, which made a very fine appearance. On the lord-mayor and Mr Oliver's being brought to the Tower gate by the proper officers of that fortress, they were saluted by twenty-one pieces of cannon belonging to the artillery company, and received by the people with the greatest acclamations, which were continued all the way to the Mansion-house. The city was grandly illuminated in the evening; and the populace as turbulent as they usually are on public occasions of rejoicing. It may be added that since this affair the daily news-papers have continued to inform the public of parliamentary proceedings without reserve and without obstruction."

(Noorthouck's 'History of London,' 'Gent. Mag.,' Highmore's 'History of the Hon. Artillery Co.,' etc.)

* A facsimile of this erasure is to be seen in the 'Memoir of Alderman Brass Crosby,' 1829.

1771, April 12. Mr. Wilkes waited on Mr. Oliver in the Tower, and told him the resolution he had taken to be Sheriff next year with him, Mr. Oliver gave many strong reasons why Mr. Wilkes ought not to attempt it, but finding his arguments ineffectual, he afterwards sent him the following letter :

SIR,

That I may be explicit as early as possible after your desire that I should explain myself concerning the Shrievalty, I must inform you that I am determined not to serve the office of Sheriff with you; because I really do not think from your own declarations that your political aims are similar to mine. This resolution I must communicate to the livery, if you join me in your nomination.

I am Sir

your most humble Servant
RICHD. OLIVER.
(Add. MS. 30871, fo. 74.)

Tower, 11 April 1771.

To which Wilkes replied :

To Richard Oliver, Esq.

Princes Court, Friday April 12.

SIR,

I did not receive your letter till nine last night, when I was in the City with my Common Council. When we were alone a few days ago, you ask'd me, if I meant to be Sheriff the ensuing year. I answered with the frankness of my nature to a friend, that if I had the honour of being chosen, I wou'd not decline that troublesome and expensive office, and that, in the actual crisis of affairs, I really wished it for various reasons of great public utility, which I am persuaded live still in your memory.

Yesterday morning I put the same question to you. Your verbal answer was not explicit: your letter is. You say "I am determined not to serve the office of Sheriff with you." The propriety of such a declaration does not strike me. I consider it as the duty of every gentleman to submit to the Livery the choice of his Colleague, and not to refuse an office, because he disapproves another person, of whom his own Constituents entertain a favourable opinion. I am ready to serve the office of Sheriff with you, Sir, or any other gentleman given me by the Livery as a colleague, should they think proper to elect me. You add "because I really do not think from your own declaration that your political aims are similar to mine."

My declarations have always been very explicit: my aims fair and honourable. I am satisfied that yours are no less upright. I started much earlier than you in political life. I gave my public creed on several occasions. You have done the same. Our sentiments have always coincided, altho' our expressions have varied. How then can our political aims not be similar? I wish to know in what they differ. I will at any time yield to the conviction of superior reason. You conclude "this resolution I must communicate to the livery if you join me in your nomination." I never entertained the idea of any nomination proceeding from myself. If I am called upon, I will serve, but I shall never dictate to the Livery what they should do. I shall likewise not fail to communicate to so respectable a body every transaction of a public nature, respecting their rights or interests, and I will obey their commands.

I am, Sir

your most humble servant,
JOHN WILKES.
(Ibid., fo. 75.)

The following address was printed and circulated* :—

"To the Worthy Liverymen of the City of London.

"Fenchurch Street. June 21st 1771.

"GENTLEMEN,

"As the time approaches in which you are to make your election of Sheriffs, for the year ensuing, I hold it my duty to lay before you, some of the reasons which have determined me not to serve that office with Mr Wilkes and I submit them to the candour and good sense of the Livery, under the full persuasion that they would justly esteem me unworthy of past or future confidence, if I could be induced by any consideration, deliberately to engage in a measure which I sincerely believe to be wrong. Were the office of Sheriff for the County of Middlesex to be served by a single person as in other counties, I should consider it highly improper that Mr Wilkes should be the Sheriff; however in that case should have contented myself with having no part in placing him in so responsible an office, inconsistent with his situation, and the duties, which in my opinion he owes to the freeholders of Middlesex. But when it becomes a question not only whether Mr. Wilkes is to be the Sheriff, but whether I am to be his colleague, you will in this case permit me to say, that though I shall not refuse to serve with any proper person yet I cannot consent to be united with him. The peculiar circumstances which at present attend the County of Middlesex render it not impossible that Mr Lutterell's seat may be vacated if Mr Wilkes should be elected Sheriff. If that event shall take place I shall consider it my duty to pursue the same method respecting the writ, as would have been pursued, if the question concerning Mr Wilkes had never taken place. I never will consent to make a special return to the writ. I do not consider it as being in the power of the Sheriff to determine for the Freeholders, whether they shall or shall not go to election. Nay, supposing such conduct in the Sheriff, even in some measure defensible in the present instance, I should consider it as the greatest infelicity of my life, to have at all contributed towards establishing such a dangerous precedent; for as the Court appointed the Sheriffs in general, it may eventually prove the source of much greater encroachments on the freedom of election, than those of which we now so justly proclaim. But were it possible for me to adopt this measure of making a special return, I apprehend it would be as ineffectual, as it is illegal; for the Coroner may execute the writ, if the Sheriff will not, and the Ministry may send two or three hundred electors to re-elect the present possessor of the seat for Middlesex. If these are not opposed by a greater number, and Mr Lutterell is elected, his title to his seat will be improved. If they are opposed by a majority, the question remains precisely as at present. As every Sheriff is under a legal incapacity of returning himself a Member of the County in which he serves the office, I am fully convinced that Mr. Wilkes' election at this time can tend only to perplex the question; and that the best service he can do his country, is to keep himself in such a situation as shall deprive the Ministry of alledging against him any just and legal objection to his being seated as the Member for Middlesex. Mr Wilkes' opinions and mine being so essentially different on this point, it is impossible for us to serve this office together; such an important though temporary connection should be entered into with mutual confidence and conducted with unanimity; but as this cannot be the case, the interest of the public must suffer. If the reasons I have offered do not appear to you Gentlemen with the same force as they do to me and if it is in your opinion that the interest of the Freeholders of Middlesex, will be best served by making a special return, you will evidently perceive that the most effectual method of bringing this question to an issue, would be to appoint someone to this office with Mr Wilkes, who will readily imbibed his opinions, and who is prepared to stand all the consequences which may attend implicitly following them. I will not shrink at any danger to which I may be exposed in supporting the Law and the Constitution, but if our political principles were different only in this instance, I am confident your candour will never suffer you to elect one to your office in which I must either act contrary to your judgment or my own.

"I am Gentlemen with the greatest respect

Your faithful and obedient Servant

RICHARD OLIVER."

The poll for sheriffs closed on the 2nd of July, when the numbers polled were as under:—

For Mr. Wilkes 2315, Bull 2194, Kirkman 1949, Plumbe 1875, Oliver 119.

Though Mr. Oliver stood so very low on the poll books, his merit was known and acknowledged; but as it was more than probable that Mr. Wilkes would be chosen, Mr. Oliver's prior declaration withheld his own friends from voting for him, and it was unpardonable in the eyes of Mr. Wilkes's friends for any man to differ in opinion with him. (Noorthouck, p. 511.)

1771, June 24. At a meeting of the Livery this day a silver cup of £200 in value was voted to the Lord Mayor and cups of £100 each to Aldermen Wilkes and Oliver.

The Crosby cup was in 1829 an heirloom in the possession of William Brooks, nephew of Brass Crosby. The author of the latter's Memoir thus describes it :

"This capacious drinking vessel contains seven quarts, and weighs 270 ounces. It is of the vase form; the handles are satyrs of exquisite workmanship, supporting garlands of husks, which are disposed with great elegance and chaste simplicity. On the cover is a young Bacchus kneeling, and holding a bunch of grapes. On the rim are disposed three medallions, bearing the effigies of the Lord Mayor, Alderman Wilkes, and Alderman Oliver, with the inscription, 'United in the cause of liberty.'"

The Wilkes cup is now in the possession of Sir George Sherston Baker, Bart., who is descended from Alderman George Hayley, M.P., who married Mr. Wilkes's sister. An engraving of it appeared in the 'Gent. Mag.'

The Oliver cup forms part of the Corporation plate at the Mansion House. It is silver gilt, about 1 foot 10 inches in height, and weighs 162 ounces. Its two handles are ornamented with the City supporters. The cover is fluted and surmounted by a figure of Liberty. On the front are two shields with the arms of the City, and of Richard Oliver (Ermine, on a chief sable three lions rampant argent), with this inscription:—

This Cup Prefetend by the City for joining with Other Magistrates in the Release of a Freeman and in a Warrant for imprisoning the Mefsender who had arrested the Citizen,

At the base: "William Nash, Lord Mayor."

1771, July 24. Junius writes :

"I beg Mr Horne, you will hereafter believe that I measure the integrity of men by their conduct, not by their professions. Such tales may entertain Mr Oliver, or your grandmother, but trust me they are thrown away upon Junius . . . In my opinion your credit is irrecoverably ruined. Mr Townsend, I think, is nearly in the same predicament. Poor Oliver has been shamefully duped by you. You have made him sacrifice all the honour he got by his imprisonment."

1771, July 31. John Horne replies :

"He (Junius) very properly produces a young lady to prove that I am not a man: and a good old woman, my grandmother, to prove Mr Oliver a fool . . . I understand the two great leaders of opposition to be Lord Rockingham and Lord Chatham; under one of whose banners all the opposing members of both Houses, who desire to get places, enlist. I can place no confidence in either of them, or in any others, unless they will now engage, whilst they are Out, to grant certain essential advantages for the security of the public when they shall be In administration. These points they refuse to stipulate, because they are fearful lest they should prevent any future overtures from the court. To force them to these stipulations has been the uniform endeavour of Mr Sawbridge, Mr Townsend, Mr Oliver etc. and Therefore they are abused by Junius."

1771, Aug. 15. Junius writes:

"I comprehend the policy of endeavouring to communicate to Mr Oliver and Mr Sawbridge a share in the reproaches, with which he supposes me to have loaded him (Horne). My memory fails me, if I have mentioned their names with disrespect; unless it be reproachful to acknowledge a sincere respect for the character of Mr Sawbridge, and not to have questioned the innocence of Mr Oliver's intentions."

1772. On July 1 Alderman Richard Oliver was returned as one of the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex.

1772, Sunday, Aug. 23. "On Thursday I reached Weymouth, in the evening. I sent my compliments to Mr Oliver, who was too ill to see company." (Wilkes 'Memoirs'.)

"A Copy of the Letter sent by Mr Oliver in Answer to the Request of his Friends, to stand for the Mayoralty for the ensuing Year."

"GENTLEMEN,

"I am extremely sorry that the situation to which extreme misconduct and extreme infatuation have at length reduced this country, constrains me to return your obliging compliment an absolute and firm refusal of the honour you propose by your intended nomination of me at Michaelmas.

"Instead of taking upon me any further trust, I must propose to resign back into the hands of my fellow citizens those trusts with which they have already honoured me;—I mean my gown as an alderman of London, and my delegation as one of their representatives in Parliament.

"The greatest part of my property is vested in the once flourishing West-India Islands, a part of the remaining colonies, which still I hope continue to belong to the crown of Great Britain. But in whatever possession they may now or hereafter be, the precarious state of that much-injured property will speedily demand my presence, and it never was my intention to hold an office, and neglect the duties by absence. My case in this respect is only similar to that of many persons more, whose property is situated as mine is, and those who seem least willing to admit it, will find at last that there is a reciprocal duty, and that allegiance will always go together with protection and justice.

"In every part of the world I shall always carry with me a grateful remembrance of the honour conferred me by the good opinion and confidence of my fellow-citizens, and shall quit a country in which I have been so honoured, with the deepest regret—a regret which receives no alleviation, but what is furnished by those who have caused the necessity of quitting it.

"I am, Gentlemen, with the greatest esteem and gratitude,

Your much obliged, and faithful humble servant,

RICHARD OLIVER.

Margate, 6 Sept. 1778."

(Annual Register, p. 200.)

1778, Nov. 19. At a Court of Common Council held at Guildhall—

Resolved: "That the thanks of this Court be given to Frederick Bull, John Sawbridge, Richard Oliver, and George Hayley, Esqrs., our present worthy representatives, for their upright and steady conduct in parliament, for their strenuous endeavours to prevent the loss of our colonies, and the shame and distress of this unhappy country."

1778, Nov. 25. At a court of Aldermen held at Guildhall—

At this court Mr Alderman Oliver resigned his gown, and received the thanks of the Court unanimously. He withdrew from public life with a name esteemed for firmness and integrity.

1778, Dec. 4. Yesterday a court of common-council was held at Guildhall, when the court agreed that thanks be given to Richard Oliver, Esq., for his uniform conduct in the administration of justice, etc.

1779, Dec. 22. By Indenture of this date Jonas Langford Brooke appointed as his attorney "Richard Oliver the Younger Esq late an Alderman & now one of the representatives in Parliament of the city of London at present residing at Antigua."

The King dissolved Parliament in 1780 and Richard Oliver did not offer himself for re-election.

His death is thus notified in the 'Gent. Mag.':

1784, April 16. "On board the Sandwich packet in his passage from Nevis Rich^d Oliver Esq formerly an alderman and M.P. for London."

"He was returning to England for the recovery of his health. He married his cousin, by whom he had no issue, & his property in Antigua would consequently have descended to his nephew Richard Oliver, Esq., the son of his brother Thomas; but having formed a solemn engagement with a Mr Smith* that the longest liver should have all the other died possessed of, he bequeathed to him the whole of his property." Close Roll, 54 Geo. III., Part 40, No. 21.

Indenture made the 4th April 1814 between Harriett Watkins Oliver of Bristol, spinster, of the one part, and John Cave of Bristol, Esq., of the other. Whereas Byam Freeman, late of Antigua, Esq., by his last will, dated 1770, gave all residue real and personal charged with his legacies, debts, and funeral expenses all long since paid, to Thomas Jarvis, Stephen Blizard, Richard Maitland, Arthur Freeman, and Francis Eyre in trust to permit his only child Harriett Freeman to receive the rents, etc., for life, and to preserve the contingent remainders to the 1st son of his daughter and his heirs male, and in default to other sons, and in default to the 1st daughter of his daughter and her heirs, and gave to each younger child of his daughter £5000 sterling at 21 or marriage; and in default of all issue gave the said real and personal estate to Arthur Freeman his brother and his heirs for ever; and whereas Byam Freeman died without revoking his will which was duly proved in 1771; and whereas Harriett Freeman his daughter intermarried with Thomas Oliver, late of Antigua, but now resident in Bristol, Esq., by whom she had two daughters only, Harriett Watkins Oliver the eldest and Emily Oliver the youngest, and Harriett Oliver is since dead; and whereas part of the real estate of Byam Freeman consists of the plantation, etc., hereinafter mentioned to be conveyed, and Harriett Watkins Oliver has attained her age of 21, and is desirous of enlarging the estate tail, now vested in her as first daughter, into an estate in fee simple, subject nevertheless to the payment of £5000 to Emily Oliver as only younger daughter. Now this Indenture witnesseth that for carrying the desire of Harriett Watkins Oliver into effect, and for docking and destroying the said estate tail vested in her and all other estates tail, and for settling and assuring the plantation, etc., to the use of her and her heirs for ever, and in consideration of 10s. Harriett Watkins Oliver grants, etc., to John Cave all that plantation in the division of Dickenson's Bay and parish of St. John in Antigua, formerly called Watkins's, and afterwards and now Freeman's Plantation, with the dwelling house and all the slaves, which said plantation and slaves are now in the possession of Samuel Warner, Esq., as Attorney of Harriett Watkins Oliver, and were formerly the freehold estate and inheritance of Byam Freeman, and part of the residuary estate devised by his will and now vested in Harriett Watkins Oliver as tenant in tail to the only proper use of Harriett Watkins Oliver and her heirs and assigns for ever, subject to the payment of £5000 sterling to Emily Oliver, and Harriett Watkins Oliver appoints, etc., Samuel Warner now residing in Antigua, Esq., to be her true and lawful Attorney. Isaac Cooke, Attorney-at-Law, Bristol, N. Sherard, clerk to Mr. Cooke, witnesses.

1738, Nov. 18. Isaac Royall of Antigua and Charlestown (born 1672; died 1739) with his wife Elizabeth sold to Robert Oliver of Dorchester, Mass., for £2516 very considerable real estate in Dorchester.

1738. Jacob Royall and Rebecca his wife sold to Robert Oliver $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres with buildings in Dorchester.

1747, Feb. 12. Isaac Royall (born 1719; died 1781) with Henry Vassall of Cambridge hired for seven years of Robert Oliver of Dorchester a plantation of 148 acres at Popeshead, Antigua.

Mrs. Elizabeth Royall died at Medford 21 April 1747, and was buried from the house of Dr. Oliver at Dorchester.

(‘The New England Royalls,’ by E. D. Harris, Boston, 1885.)

Elizabeth Vassall, born at Cambridge, Sept. 12, 1739; married Thomas Oliver of Dorchester, June 11, 1760. She died in England previous to 1808. He died Nov. 29, 1815, aged 82. Lt. Gov. Phips was appointed her guardian Sept. 16, 1747, and Edw. Davis, Sep. 11, 1759. Thomas Oliver was the last royal lieutenant governor and president of the Council appointed in 1774. Sept. 2 of same year, he was compelled by a mob of 4000 persons, to resign his office, and he almost immediately vacated his beautiful estate in Cambridge (afterwards occupied by Gov. Gerry, and lately by Rev. Chas. Lowell, D.D.) and removed to Boston. Here he resided until '76, when, at the evacuation, he accompanied the royal army to Halifax, and from there to England. He was exiled by the Act of 1778, and his estate confiscated. The farmhouse in connection with his Cambridge mansion is standing distant a few hundred rods from the present estate in a S.E. direction upon the slope of a hill overlooking Charles River. Lt. Gov. Oliver was a quiet reserved man, but little known in public life, though ever distinguished by his amiable and gentlemanly graces.

The following baptisms of children are found upon the records of Christ church, Cambridge :

Anne, bapt. March 4, 1764.

Elizabeth, bapt. Aug. 17, 1766.

Penelope, bapt. Oct. 2, 1768.

John Vassall, born at Cambridge, Mass., June 12, 1738; H.C. 1757; married Elizabeth, sister of Lt Gov. Thomas Oliver, Jan. 12, 1761; he died Oct. 2, 1797, at Clifton, Eng.; she died at Clifton in her 32d year (sic) March 31, 1807.

On Oct. 2, 1762 he sold in company with Thomas and Elizabeth Oliver, for £726, 45 acres on Cambridge neck being the share of the estate of Lt Gov. Phips, set off to their mother Eliz. Vassall. Nov. 30, 1763 he purchased of Thomas Oliver for £1000 his undivided share in his father's estate consisting mainly of lands in the western part of the state.

In ‘Our Colonial Homes,’* by Samuel Adams Drake of Boston, Mass., is an illustration of the old house at Dorchester, formerly the home of the Olivers, later of the Everetts. It is situated at “the point where the old road coming from Roxbury burying-ground is crossed by that leading from Upham's Corner in Dorchester, over the old causeway to South Boston, locally known as ‘The Five Corners.’ The house, standing as we see it in the angle formed by two streets, has both a south and west front, with entrances in each. Its high gambrel roof, topped by ornamental balustrades, aids in lifting the whole structure into one harmonious effect; still, they knew in colonial times, as well as we now do, how to keep up appearances, so that the mansion has little depth compared with its height and frontage, and, though destitute of any particular feature of ornament, there is something decidedly pleasing about its appearance. It is, moreover, in excellent preservation. This house belongs to a class of which we find so many examples dating back to between 1740 and 1760, as to confirm the opinion that such houses had become the prevailing fashion. At any rate they announce an era of better taste; and they almost invariably signal to us the residence of one of the colonial gentry, in whom all the aristocratic traditions of his English prototype were most loyally cherished.

“Should we elect to enter the house, we must first raise and let fall the big brazen knocker, which almost frights the quiet neighborhood with its clangor. You next enter a broad hall, which opens at either hand into large parlors, and these in turn have chambers above. Edward Everett was born in the east chamber, on the right of the picture. Nathan Hale, so distinguished in New England journalism, and some time Everett's instructor at Exeter Academy, was married in the apartment beneath.

“It is supposed that Colonel Robert Oliver built this house about 1740, and that his son, Thomas Oliver,* the last Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts under the crown, was either born here or on the estate, which reckoned in his time some forty acres of pasture and marsh.

“Colonel Oliver, a descendant of the Huguenot Oliviers,† a name renowned in French chivalry, was engaged in trade with the West Indies, and is reported to have brought the first negro slaves to Dorchester. It is said that he employed them at first in removing a hillock of earth, each laborer carrying his load in a wooden tray upon his head. The colonel being advised to substitute barrows for a process so tedious, furnished his slaves with them, but was at his wits' end at seeing the negroes returning, each with a well-filled barrow on his head! It is not many years since the writer saw negroes at work coaling a huge Atlantic steamship in a West-Indian port, by carrying the coal on board in tubs on their heads. Cambridge, Betty, and Mimbo, three of Colonel Oliver's slaves, have stones erected to their memory in the old burial-place, a short distance from the mansion-house.

“The son, afterwards lieutenant-governor, had a fortune, much exceeding that of his father, left him by a grandfather and great-uncle, so that Oliver père did not feel called upon to make any provision for Oliver fils in his will, beyond the usual mourning-suit and ring. The younger Oliver removed to Cambridge before the Revolution, where he lived in great state in the elegant seat now known as Elmwood—the late residence of the lamented James Russell Lowell. These late Dorchester Olivers, by the by, were of a different family from Andrew, the stamp-master, and Peter, the Chief-Justice of Massachusetts.

“Thomas Oliver, a dapper little man, pleasant of speech and courtly of manner, was in no public office previous to his appointment as Hutchinson's deputy—a choice which occasioned so much surprise that it was currently believed that Thomas had been inserted by accident in the commission instead of that of Peter. But Hutchinson, who managed the affair, knew what he was about. Popular agitation was fast leading up to open hostilities. To hold office in those stormy times was not a bed of roses, as Oliver soon found out to his cost. To hold high one's head, drink the King's health, talk flippantly of the rabble, and boastfully of the might of Britain, signalled the true Tory of the Revolution. Oliver was no more unpopular than the rest, or any better judge of the signs of the coming political tempest than about to sweep him and them into oblivion. One fine morning in September 1774, the men of Middlesex appeared in the lieutenant-governor's grounds at Cambridge, and wrung from him a resignation, after which he consulted his safety by a flight into Boston.”

† This is incorrect.

Mr. Samuel Adams Drake wrote me on 21 May 1894:—
 “The notice of Col. Robert’s death, taken from the ‘Boston Evening Post’ of 20 Dec., 1762 is as follows: ‘On Thursday morning last (16 Dec. 1762) died at his seat in Dorchester, Col. Robert Oliver, in the 63d year of his age. A gentleman of an extensive Acquaintance, great Hospitality to all, kind to the poor, & in his Military character beloved and esteemed.’”

OLIVER, THOMAS. Of Cambridge, Massachusetts. Was born in Dorchester, and graduated at Harvard University in 1753. He lived in great retirement, and mingled but little in public affairs. But after the decease of Lieutenant Governor Andrew Oliver, of a different family, in 1774, he was appointed his successor, and was the last royal Lieutenant Governor, and President of the Council of Massachusetts. As his appointment as Councillor was by the King’s writ of mandamus, and contrary to the charter, which provided for the election of members of the Council, he became an object of popular resentment. He detailed the course pursued against him, in consequence of being sworn into office, in the following narrative, dated September 7, 1774, which, as giving his version, and as throwing light on the transactions of the times, is inserted entire. It is an answer to the Whig account of the occurrences at Cambridge on the 2d of September, and, as will be seen, is very full and explicit. “Early in the morning” (of September 2d), said he, “a number of the inhabitants of Charlestown called at my house to acquaint me that a large body of people from several towns in the County were on their way coming down to Cambridge; that they were afraid some bad consequences might ensue, and begged I would go out to meet them, and endeavor to prevail on them to return. In a very short time, before I could prepare myself to go, they appeared in sight. I went out to them, and asked the reasons of their appearance in that manner; they respectfully answered, they ‘came peaceably to inquire into their grievances, not with design to hurt any man.’ I perceived they were landholders of the neighboring towns, and was thoroughly persuaded that they would do no harm. I was desired to speak to them; I accordingly did, in such a manner as I thought best calculated to quiet their minds. They thanked me for my advice, said they were no mob, but sober, orderly people, who would commit no disorders; and then proceeded on their way. I returned to my house. Soon after they had arrived on the Common at Cambridge, a report arose that the troops were on their march from Boston; I was desired to go and intercede with his Excellency to prevent their coming. From principles of humanity to the country, from a general love of mankind, and from persuasions that they were orderly people, I readily undertook it; and is there a man on earth, who, placed in my circumstances, could have refused it? I am informed I am censured for having advised the General to a measure which may reflect on the troops, as being too inactive upon such a disturbance; but sure such a reflection on a military man can never arise but in the minds of such as are entirely ignorant of these circumstances.

“Wherever this affair is known, it must also be known it was my request the troops should not be sent, but to return; as I passed the people I told them, of my own accord, I would return and let them know the event of my application (not, as was related in the papers, to confer with them on my own circumstances as President of the Council).

“On my return I went to the Committee, I told them no troops had been ordered, and from the account I had given his Excellency, none would be ordered. I was then thanked for the trouble I had taken in the affair, and was just about to leave them to their own business, when one of the Committee observed, that as I was present, it might be proper to mention a matter they had to propose to me. It was, that although they had a respect for me as Lieutenant Governor of the Province, they could wish I would resign my seat. I told them I took it very unkind that they should mention anything on that subject; and among other reasons I urged, that, as Lieutenant Governor, I stood in a particular relation to the Province in general, and therefore could not hear anything upon that matter from a particular County. I was then pushed to know, if I would resign when it appeared to be the sense of the Province in general; I answered, that when all the other Councillors had resigned, if it appeared to be the sense of the Province I should resign, I would submit. They then called for a vote upon the subject, and, by a very great majority, voted my reasons satisfactory. I inquired whether they had full power to act for the people, and being answered in the affirmative, I desired they would take care to acquaint them of their votes, that I should have no further application made to me on that head. I was promised by the Chairman, and a general assent, it should be so. This left me entirely clear and free from any apprehensions of a further application upon this matter, and perhaps will account for that confidence which I had in the people, and for which I may be censured. Indeed, it is true, the event proves I had too much, but reasoning from events yet to come, is a kind of reasoning I have not been used to. In the afternoon I observed large companies pouring in from different parts; I then began to apprehend they would become unmanageable, and that it was expedient to go out of their way. I was just going into my carriage when a great crowd advanced, and in a short time my house was surrounded by three or four thousand people, and one quarter part in arms. I went to the front door, where I was met by five persons, who acquainted me they were a Committee from the people to demand a resignation of my seat at the Board. I was shocked at their ingratitude and false dealings, and reproached them with it. They excused themselves by saying the people were dissatisfied with the vote of the Committee, and insisted on my signing a paper they had prepared for that purpose. I found I had been ensnared, and endeavored to reason them out of such ungrateful behavior. They gave such answers, that I found it was in vain to reason longer with them; I told them my first considerations were for my honor, the next for my life; that they might put me to death or destroy my property, but I would not submit. They began then to reason in their turn, urging the power of the people, and the danger of opposing them. All this occasioned a delay, which enraged part of the multitude, who, pressing into my back-yard, denounced vengeance to the foes of their liberties.

“The Committee endeavored to moderate them, and desired them to keep back, for they pressed up to my windows, which then were open; I could from thence hear them at a distance calling out for a determination, and, with their arms in their hands, swearing they would have my blood if I refused. The Committee appeared to be anxious for me, still I refused to sign; part of the populace growing furious, and the distress of my family who heard their threats, and supposed them just about to be executed, called up feelings which I could not suppress; and nature, ready to find new excuses, suggested a thought of the calamities I should occasion if I did not comply; I found myself giving way, and began to cast about to contrive means to come off with honor. I proposed they should call in the people to take me out by force, but they said the people were enraged, and they would not answer for the consequences; I told them I would take the risk, but they refused to do it. Reduced to this extremity, I cast my eyes over the paper, with a hurry of mind and conflict of passion which rendered me unable to remark the contents, and wrote underneath the following words: ‘My house at Cambridge being surrounded by four thousand people, in compliance with their commands, I sign my name, THOMAS OLIVER.' The five persons took it, carried it to the people, and, I believe, used their endeavors to get it accepted. I had several messages that the people would not accept it with those additions, upon which I walked into the court-yard, and declared I would do no more, though they should put me to death. I perceived that those persons who formed the first body which came down in the morning, consisted of the landholders of the neighboring towns, used their utmost endeavors to get the paper received with my additions; and I must, in justice to them, observe, that during the whole transaction, they had never invaded my enclosures, but still were not able to protect me from other insults which I received from those who were in arms. From this consideration I am induced to quit the country, and seek protection in the town."

The document presented to Mr Oliver on the 2d of September, and which he signed, was as follows: "I, Thomas Oliver, being appointed by his Majesty to a seat at the Council Board, upon, and in conformity to the late Act of Parliament, entitled an 'Act for the better regulation of the Province of Massachusetts Bay,' which being a manifest infringement of the Charter rights and privileges of this people, I do hereby, in conformity to the commands of the body of this County now convened, most solemnly renounce and resign my seat at said unconstitutional Board, and hereby firmly promise and engage, as a man of honor and a Christian, that I never will hereafter, upon any terms whatsoever, accept a seat at said Board on the present novel and oppressive plan of Government." To this, the original form, he added the words above recited. Judge Danforth and Judge Lee, who were also Mandamus Councillors, and Mr Phipps, the sheriff, and Mr Mason, clerk of the County, were compelled to submit to the same body, and make written resignations.

Governor Oliver, as stated by himself, went into Boston, and made assurances both to General Gage and to the Admiral on the station, which prevented a body of troops from being sent to disperse the large body of people who assembled at Cambridge on this occasion; and to these assurances it was owing, undoubtedly, that the day passed without bloodshed. But for the peaceable demeanor of those whom he met in the morning,—the landholders of the neighboring towns,—the first collision between the King's troops and the inhabitants of Massachusetts, would have occurred, very likely, at Cambridge, and not at Lexington. A detachment was sent to the former town the day before, to bring off some pieces of cannon, and from this circumstance arose, principally, the proceedings related by Governor Oliver. Indignant because the "redcoats" had been sent upon such an errand, thousands from the surrounding country assembled in the course of the day, (September 2,) armed with guns, sticks, and other weapons, and when the Lieutenant Governor's promise on his return from Boston, rendered it certain that they would not be opposed by the troops, they exacted from every official who lived at Cambridge full compliance with their demands, as has been stated.

From this period Governor Oliver lived in Boston, until March, 1776, when at the evacuation he accompanied the royal army to Halifax, and took passage thence to England.

In 1778 he was proscribed and banished; and the year following was included in the conspiracy act. His estate was confiscated. While in England he lived in retirement. He died at Bristol, England, November 29, 1815, aged eighty-two. Harriet,* his wife, a daughter of Colonel John Vassall, of Cambridge, died at the same place in 1808. His elegant mansion at Cambridge was occupied by Governor Gerry* for many years. It is said that he was a gentleman of great mildness of temper, and politeness of manners.

EXTRACTS FROM THE DIARY AND LETTERS OF GOVERNOR HUTCHINSON OF MASS.

1774, July. At an audience in London:

King George III. Is the present L. Governor [Thomas Oliver] a relation to the late Mr Oliver? [The last Lient.-Governor, Andrew Oliver, born 29 March 1706, died 23 March 1774.]

Gov^r Hutchinson. No, Sir, not of the same family, I have no connection with him, nor did I ever let him know that I had mentioned him as one of the persons I thought might be proper for a L^t Governor.

The King. . . . The present Gentleman, upon enquiry, appeared under all circumstances the most proper.

1774, Dec. 10. Mr Welbore Ellis made me a long visit; and gave me an opportunity of explaining several parts of General Gage's conduct: for his not laying the L^t Gov^r under Arrest, when he came to him from the Mob. I shewed him Judge Oliver's letter, which says the General told him the L^t Gov^r never let him know that they had made him promise to return to them.

The new Lient.-Governor was in jeopardy. The letter of Judge Oliver has not been saved. It seems that the Lient.-Governor also called Oliver, though no relation, as before explained, endangered the integrity of his allegiance by his indecisive conduct with the Liberty men. He may have prevaricated, or he may have lost nerve before them, under fear of personal ill-usage, and it may have been accidental his not telling General Gage every particular that he might have detailed. On this subject Governor Hutchinson wrote to him very candidly from England, in a letter bearing date Nov. 24, which is entered in the marble paper Letter Book. He says:—"I should not treat you as a friend if I represented the manner in which people express themselves upon the subject of your resignation, different from the whole truth. In general it is said, a man is excusable who, when he is in the hands of 4000 people, and threatened with death, submits to the terms which are imposed upon him. Some have got it here, I know not how, that before you went to y^e Governor, more had been said to you by the mob (for I call them mob, tho' freeholders,) about your resigning, than you communicated, and that if the Governor had known the whole, he would have laid you under Arrest. Others say that unless our mobs differ from those in England, no man is in danger of his life in open day. It is impossible for people here to know all the circumstances of y^e case. A succession of other great and important events, some come and others coming, will probably put an end to further speculation, and I fancy the Answer you have already received, will be all you will receive. I thought it best to take no notice of your motion for an express order from the King, because, if circumstances so alter as to make it advisable to re-assume your seat, you may do it without such an order, as well as with; and if they should not so alter, it will be best you should not have the order." He appears to have retained his seat for the present.

1776, Feb. 14. Letters from Boston by the "Julius Caesar," a returned store-ship, at Plymouth: came out 19 Jan. Mrs Oliver, the L^t Gov's lady, with her family, arrived in her.

1776, June 7. The L^t Gov., Col. Vassall . . . are arrived at Dartmouth.

* Sabine is wrong here. Harriet was the Governor's 2^d wife, sole daughter and heiress of the Hon. Byam Freeman of the Island of Antigua; Eliz. Vassall was his 1st wife.

* L^t Governour Oliver's house passed from Gov^r Gerry to the late Rev. Chas. Lowell, D.D. & from the latter to his son the late James Russell Lowell the U.S. Minister at the Court of St James.

1776, June 12. Lt Gov. Oliver etc. called upon me : all from Halifax. Col^o Jn^o Vassall came to town yesterday. Advertisement in a Watertown paper, notifying the sale of Tho. Oliver Jun^r, and other estates in Cambridge, at the house of Jn^o Vassall. Frothingham, p. 194, says :— "The house of Governor Oliver in Cambridge, known as the Gerry estate, was occupied as a hospital. Many of the soldiers who died of their wounds were buried in a field in front of this house."

1776, June 13. Went with Lt Gov. Oliver to Lord Dartmouth's.

1776, July 21. Lieutenant Gov. Oliver called to acquaint me with his intention to apply to Lord North for his salary. It seems, as I had it from M^r Knox, that when Gen. Gage was superceded in the command of the army, he was promised, the whole of his salary as Governor should be continued ; otherwise I should have thought the Lt Gov. might have stood a chance for half, but now he can have no more than his £300 as L. G.

Peter Oliver Jun. writes 17 May, 1784 Lient^t Gov. [Thomas] Oliver, and family are going to live in Ireland.* His eldest daughter Mary is to be married ere long.

Letter from the late James Russell Lowell to Captain E. Spencer Vassall Henslowe of Colchester.

31 Loundes Square,
S.W.
11th August, 1884.

Sir,

I was born in the house built by Lieut. Governor Thomas Oliver in Cambridge & still own it. I do not know how I can describe it but by saying that it is a square house built by wood & filled-in with bricks between the timbers, though these bricks do not show on the outside the house being sheathed with boards. It was built about 1764. The house stands about half a mile West of that built by Col. John Vassall & afterwards owned by my friend the late M^r Longfellow. Near that is an older house built by John's brother Henry Vassall & known as the Vassall House. My father's uncle on the mother's side married a daughter of Henry Vassall many of whose letters to my grandfather are in my possession. These refer mainly to property in America which had been confiscated.

Two large European elms standing in front of my house were probably planted by Governor Oliver. My father saw him about eighty years ago in Bath or Bristol & found him regretting his old home.

I shall take pleasure in writing home for a photograph of the house & will send it you when I receive it.

I remain

Faithfully yours,
J. R. LOWELL.

EXTRACTS FROM THE 'GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE.'

1774. Gazette. Thomas Oliver esq. to be Lieut. Governor of Massachusetts Bay in America in the room of Andrew Oliver esq. deceased.

1797, Oct. 2. At Clifton, almost instantaneously after eating a hearty dinner, John Vassall, esq. of the Crescent, Bath. He had considerable property in America, where he lived in a princely style. Some time after the disturbances took place, having taken a very active part, and spared no expence to support the royal cause, he left his possessions there to the ravagers ; and having fortunately, very large estates in Jamaica, he came, with his family, to England. He carried his loyalty so far as not to use the family motto, "Sœpe pro Rege, semper pro Republicâ." He has left four sons to inherit a very fine fortune (p. 898).

* He appears to have purchased a property at Charleville, co. Cork, still enjoyed by his descendants.

1805, June 20. At his son's house at Cowslip-green, in his 80th year, Charles Partridge, esq. of Cotham, near Bristol (p. 681).

1807, April. At Clifton, in her 62nd year, M^{rs} Vassall, relict of John Vassall esq. of the Crescent, Bath, and of Charley-lodge, Somerset. Lieut.-col. Vassall who fell gloriously at Monte Video, was her son, and first cousin to Lady Holland. Her daughter M^{rs} Archer, died in M^{rs} Vassall's house a few weeks before ; and the only child of M^{rs} Archer died in the beginning of the spring.

1808, July 16. After a few hours severe indisposition, from an apoplectic stroke, Harriet, wife of Thomas Oliver, esq. of Park-street, Bristol, formerly governor of Massachusetts-bay, North America, and daughter and sole heiress of . . . Freeman, esq. of Antigua ; a lady of superior understanding, accomplishments, and manners (p. 662).

1811, Jan. 8. In New-street, Spring Gardens, the wife of John Proctor Anderdon, esq. (p. 89).

1815, Nov. 29. At Bristol, aged 83, Thomas Oliver, esq. He was lieutenant-governor of the province of Massachusetts, North America, till the people of that country shook off their allegiance to his present Majesty, when his loyalty induced him to sacrifice considerable estates, and repair to this country. Here he has honourably filled the character of a private gentleman, dispensing his bounties to the poor with a liberal hand (p. 641).

Oliver v. Oliver.

14 July 1663. Humbly complaining yo^r Oratrix Elizabeth Oliver of the City of Bristoll, Spinster (an Infant under the age of 21), by Gerard Lane, her Guardian, that whereas Robert Olliver, late of Bristoll, Haberdasher, yo^r Oratrix's late Father, beinge in his lifetime possessed of a personal estate of £1000 and upwards, did on the 12th Oct. 1650 make his last Will, and did bequeathe to yo^r Oratrix, beinge his Daughter by his form^r Wife Elizabeth, £100, to bee paid unto her by his Ex'or when shee should accomlishe her full age of 16 yeares, to bee disposed after his decease by his Ex'or, at interest, for her best advantage, for which his Will was, his Ex'or should render to yo^r Oratrix a true accompt at her said age of 16, and pay the same with the principle accordingly. And of the same Will yo^r Oratrix her father made his Brother Richard Olliver of the City of Bristoll, Lynndraper, sole Ex'or, and shortly after dyed. By and after whose decease Richard Olliver possessed himselfe of all yo^r Oratrix her Father's goods, ready money, wares, and m^cchandizes; and yo^r Oratrix further sheweth that shee hath lately accomplished her age of 16 yeares, and Richard Oliver now refuseth to pay the £100 to yo^r Oratrix, or to give her any accompt of the interest, altho' hee cannot but acknowledge that he did never put the £100 at interest, but kepte the same alwayes in his owne hands, and imployed it wholly in his trade of a Lynndraper, and thereby hath gotten much more then after the rate of six pounds p. centu' p. ann., yo^r Oratrix her Father left noe other Child but yo^r Oratrix, and yo^r Oratrix her Father received a greate por'cion of money, with yo^r Oratrix her Mother, in marriage. Now for that yo^r Oratrix is utterly remedlesse in the premises by the strict rules of the Com'on Law of this Realme. Neith. can yo^r Oratrix make appeare what goods have come to the hands of Richard Olliver, for that hee hath not exhibited any Inventory of her Father's estate into the saide p'rogative Cou^t To the end that Richard Olliver may upon his oath answer all the premises, and discover and sett forth whether Robert Olliver did not make his Will in the man' aforesaide, and that Richard Olliver may be ordered to pay her, she desires that a Writt of Subpoena bee directed to him.

Chancery Proceedings before 1714, Reynardson 57.

Oliver v. Oliver.

2nd Dec. 1672. Humbly complaining yo^r Orator Edward Oliver of the City of Bristoll, Lynndraper, that he and Richard Oliver of the said City, Lynndraper, his Brother, being both educated and brought up in the said trade and profession of a Lynndraper and Merchandize, were both well contented to enter into a Copartnership in the said Trade of a Lynndraper and Merchandizing, upon the Trust and confidence in each other nothing should be acted but with the privity and consent of each other. In pursuance whereof, according to an Agreement between them, Richard Oliver and yo^r Orator did bringe in a joynt stocke of £1500 apiece in moneys, goods, and wares, and did thereupon execute an Indenture dated the 26th Dec. 1667, whereby they did covenant to continue Copartners in the said Trade during the terme of 5 yeares (if they should by mutual consent both agree soe long together), and they were to keepe in the Warehouse or Shopp of the Messnage wherein Richard Oliver then dwelt, books of Accompt, which were alwaies to be at such place of the said Messnage or Shopp where both parties might from tyme to tyme, and at all tymes, viewe and peruse the same, and yo^r Orator hoped and believed Richard Oliver would faithfully have performed all the said Agreements, and in that confidence, during all the partnership, left the management of the whole Trade to him till aboute 3 months since, at which tyme, finding just cause to suspect Richard Oliver's dealings, yo^r Orator dissolved the partnership. But now see it is That Richard Oliver having soe managed the joynt stocke, privately and indirectly converting it to his owne profit, that noe profit at all will redound to yo^r Orator, as Richard Oliver pretendeth, and he refuseth therefore to give yo^r Orator any accompt, and Richard Oliver, since the com'encement of the Copartnership, removed himselfe and all the portable Stocke unto another house in a Streete or place called the Castle Green, within the City of Bristoll, and hath also caused to be taken in his owne name, and not in the names of the Copartners, all or the greatest part of the Contracts, bargains, bonds, etc., whatsoever for all goods deliv'd forth upon credit, and hath also kepte the Bookes of Accompt of all Trade doings from the vewe and perusall of yo^r Orator untill yo^r Orator, having found the frowardnes and averseenes of Richard Oliver from giving any accompt at all, did aboute 3 months since give unto him publicke and lawfull warning to breake off the Copartnership, and within 30 daies after to give a true, just, and generall accompt, accordinge to the Agrcement, but Richard Oliver, combiuing with severall of the debtors and other persons to yo^r Orator as yet unknowne, they doe now seeke to set aside the recited Indenture, and all the Covenants therein, that they may defraud yo^r Orator, not onely of his part but of the profitts thereof, prays they may be subpœnaed.

Answer of Richard Oliver. (Corner scorched.)

It is true they were both educated and brought up as Lynendrapers . . . and Complainant being then owte of . . . and having little or nothing to doe, and Defendant, having a very considerable trade, and a very good shopp of goods, and a lardge stocke of his owne, aboute December 1667, was solicited to become Copartner with Complainant, and being somewhat unwilling thereto, Plaintiff's Wife very much solicited Defendant to yield thereto, whereupon, Defendant being willing to help the Plaintiff his Brother, he consented, and agreed to bring in £1500 as his halfe parte, and Defendant agreed to make his parte equall, and Articles of Agreement were drawne up, and Complainant desired this Defendant to meete him to seale and execute the same, and on Defendant observing it was saide Plaintiff had brought in £1500, which was not true, Defendant refused to complete the Articles, and Complainant promised it should soone be brought in, and desired it should be noe obstruction to the sealinge, and Defendant relying on his promise was prevailed on by Plaintiff to seale the said Articles, as in the Bill recited. Defendant had large quantities of goods, much more than his share, and kept them in the stocke, hoping Complainant would bringe in his money, but he never brought in £1500, but after he had brought in aboute £578 he soone after tooke oute of the Stocke £453 to his owne private use, and att another tyme having brought in £156 more he did take it oute within 10 dayes after, and severall other sumes of money, and severall great quantities of goods, and Defendant, to carry on the Trade, was necessitated not only to keepe much more then his share but also to take more of his owne money rather than suffer the Trade to fall. Defendant denieth that Complainant left the whole management to him for such reasons as in the Bill given, but saith Complainant was not only remiss in bringinge in his money but was also negligent and wilfull, and contrary to the Defendant's desire, and to the Agreement, neglected the management, to Defendant's great damage and trouble, who was forced to take the management. Complainant (as Defendant humbly conceiveth), out of a desire to get what money he could, did sometimes act therein, and received severall sumes of money belonging to the Trade, and severall goods, and converted the same to his owne particular use, and yet Defendant did beare with Complainant, being his Brother, for severall yeares, till finding Complainant had really taken more money owte than hee brought in, Defendant began a little more neerelie to looke into his affaires, and Plaintiff, perceiving hee had got as much as was likely to be gotten by Defendant, did breake off the partnership aboute the tyme menc'oned, because hee had an intention to defraud Defendant. Defendant denyeth all the charges, but saith Complainant hath been very ungratefull to him, he having taken Complainant to be partner upon noe other grounds than to help and advance his Brother, being then owte of trade and having a wife and many children.

Chancery Proceedings, Collins 205.

Oliver v. Oliver.

3rd Feb. 1672. Richard Oliver of Bristol, Lynendrapers, complaining that in 1667 one Edward Oliver of Bristol, Lynendrapers, yo^r Orator's Brother, solicited yo^r Orator to become a partner with him in the Trade, whereupon, by order of Edward Oliver, Articles of Agreement indented were drawn up dated the 26th Dec. 1667, and it was recited that each had brought in £1500, and it was agreed they should be partners for 5 yeares, if they should soe long agree together (as in the previous Suit), and they met at a Scrivener's house, when yo^r Orator upon perusall that Edward Oliver had brought in £1500, whereas he had then brought in little or nothing, refused to seale until the £1500 should be brought in, and Edward declared the money was then ready and should be speedily brought in, whereupon yo^r Orator believing him signed, sealed, and delivered the Articles, not thinking that Edward Oliver would take any advantage, but soe it is that yo^r Orator having brought in about £2000 he and Edward continued Joynt Traders for about 4½ yeares, during which tyme Edward brought in but £500, and the greatest part was soone taken out againe by him, and yo^r Orator was enforced to drawe monies from several persons wherewith to carry on the Trade, to his greate damage and prejudice, yet notwithstanding suffered the Trade to go on till about six months past, at which tyme Edward Oliver, supposing that there was good profit made, pretended that he disliked to manage the trade any longer with yo^r Orator, and demanded an Accompt from the beginning of the Copartnership, and an allowance of the moiety of the Stock and profitts, insisting that it appeared by the said Indenture he had brought in £1500, which unjust demand yo^r Orator refusing to comply with, Edward Oliver hath lately preferred his Bill against him, designing to enforce yo^r Orator to a satisfaction of his unreasonable demands. Edward Oliver, tho' bound to improve the trade, has neglected it, and did by himselfe and his Agents sell severall goods and wares, and take severall sums of money, and converted them to his owne private use, and he hath caused to be made many false entries in the Bookes, by which he hath reaped greate profit to his owne particular and sole use, prays that he may be subpœnaed.

Answer of Edward Oliver . . . (as in former Suit) . . . the Articles were not drawn by Defendant alone, as in the Bill mentioned. Complainant gave notice to Defendant to meete him at his owne house, where the Articles were sealed, and at the reading Complainant did not at all scruple to signe, or soe much as questioned Defendant about the £1500, nor had hee reason soe to doe, for Defendant did then, or in very short tyme after, bring in money and goods to the value of £800, and offered to call in soe much more of his money (then placed out upon some good securities as he acquainted Complainant with) as should make up the just sum, but Complainant desired Defendant not to bring in to the Joynt Stock noe more money than he had then brought, affirminge they had then more money than they could imploy to any advantage, and advised Defendant to continue the residue of the £1500 att Interest, upon their Joynt Accompt, which Defendant agreed to doe, and Complainant having severall tymes affirmed to Defendant that if he should happen to have Children of his owne, yet that he intended to give one halfe of his Estate among Defendant's Children, and thereupon alleged that there needed not any Exact or Wary dealinges betweene them, and likewise affirmed the Articles were signed for Defendant's security, if Complainant should dye. Defendant denieth he ever made any promises of bringing in any more moneys or goods, in regard Complainant often told him they had Stock enough, and refused to have any more . . . the Trade went on for $4\frac{1}{2}$ yeares because Defendant was unwilling to contend with his Brother, altho' he had greate cause given to breake off sooner, but now at length being denyed the Custody or use of the bookes of Accompt, and Complainant in many particulars acting contrary to the Articles of Agreement, Defendant was enforced to demand an Accompt from the beginning, and an allowance of the moiety of the Stock and profits, Defendant having paide in part, and agreed to answer the residue of his full porc'on of £1500, and Defendant being denyed by Complainant, did lately preferre his Bill against him. Defendant did put forth the residue of the £1500 at interest and is ready to answer one moyety thereof during the tyme the partnership continued. Defendant did use his ntmost endeavours to manage and improve the Trade untill he was hindred and enforced by Complainant to leave the management thereof to him more then he was willing, hoping thereby to Continue and preserve Love and Friendship betweene them. Defendant believeth Complainant never brought in his full porc'on. Defendant denieth he ever willfully neglected the management. He says it is true some few months after the Copartnership began he did, with Complainant's consent, drawe out about £80, and afterwards some small pettie sumes, but the exact sumes and tymes he doth not remember, and referreth himselfe to the Bookes, by which it will appeare that Complainant had likewise drawn out severall sumes of money for his owne private use, and particularly at one tyme £70 apiece were drawne by them, by Joynt consent, computed betweene them to be the profit and proceeds of one particular Voyage of a Ship. He denieth he sold goods or took money, but confesseth that since the partnership was broken and the bookes kepte from him he hath sold some small parcells of goods belonginge to the Trade of the value of £30 or thereabouts with the intention to be accomptable for the same.

Joynt and severall Answers and Answeres of Thomas Oliver and John Napper, 2 of the Defendants to the Bill of Complaint of Susanna Oliver, Widow, and Susanna Oliver and Richard Oliver, Infants, by the said Susanna Oliver, their mother and next freind. The Defendants believe it to be true that Richard Oliver, linnendraper, did make his last Will, and made these Defendants and John Hulbert and Thomas Speed his Ex'ors, and dyed on the 26th Nov. 1681, and not in Dec. 1679 as in the Bill suggested, which said John Hulbert dyed in the lifytyme of Testator, and Thomas Speed refused to joyne in the execuc'on and renounced probate, wherenpon these Defendants at the earnest request of Susanna the relict, proved the Will in the Pre-rogative Court of Canterbury, and tooke upon them the burden of the execuc'on, and tooke and duely exhibited an Inventory of all goods, chattles, etc., etc., which were then before any wayes come to their hands, each speakinge for himselfe, a true copy of which Defendants have annexed to their Answer, as 1st Schedule, and pray the same may be received as parte thereof, and Thomas Oliver saith that the Testator having willed that all his vessells of Plate and household stuffe (all which are comprised and appraised) should bee divided (as in Will), and Susanna Oliver the Mother being desirous to have the use and enjoyment of all the saide Plate and household stuffe and affirming that the household stuffe were overpraised, shee desired that shee might buy the halfe parte appointed to be kept for the Daughter at the price of £66 8s., to be paid the 25th March 1683, and Thomas Oliver conceiving it more for the advantage of Susanna the Daughter to convert her halfe parte into money then to keepe it in kinde, shee being of tender yeeres, hee sold it to Susannah the Mother at the saide price, and tooke bonde of her of £132, dated . . . with condic'on subscribed for payment as aforesaide, to the use and benefit of Susanna the Daughter, but Susanna the Mother hath not paid any parte or any interest for the forbearance thereof, and Thomas Oliver is ready to produce the Bond, and John Napper saith the Ship Victory and the adventure in her beinge ready to saile on a voyage to Sea at the tyme of Testator's decease, and after her proceeding on the saide voyage it being very doubtfull whether the same Shipp and adventure in her were lost or safe, hee with Thomas Oliver caused £300 to be insured on her, and afterwards it appeared that the Shipp and adventure were lost, whereupon John Napper recovered upon the Insurance £234 and no more, and hee also received £160, parte of the £170 which the Shipp Diligence was appraised at and sold for and no more, and the £10 residue thereof Thomas

Oliver saith that hee received, and John Napper saith that the Shipp George feared to have been lost, being disabled in Virginia and haled up there, hee sold for the most hee could get, which was £50 and no more, and both Defendants say as to the cash in the house mentioned to have been but £250, it was indeed £290 in ready money as afterwards appeared, and no more, each speakinge for himselfe, of which £290 John Napper received £275 10s., and Thomas Oliver received the £14 10s. residue thereof, and both say as to the Tobacco in the Cellar, appraised at £49 10s., Thomas Oliver tooke 2 Caskes which hee saith hee made use of himselfe, one of which weighed neere aboute 69 lbs. sound Tobacco for which hee is willing to allowe 12^d p. lb., and the other weighed aboute 70 lbs. of unsound and defunct Tobacco for which hee is willing to allow 6^d p. lb. which price hee conceiveth is the full worth thereof or more, and John Napper saith that all the residue in the Cellar and the weights and Scales and an old fornace belonging to Testator's Dwelling house hee sold for £47 6s. and no more. Thomas Oliver saith as to the £6 19s., a booke debt from Richard Collins, it was for a p'cell of Tobacco or other Merchandise sold him in Testator's life, and Thomas Oliver abated him 19s. for errors which appeared in the account and received £6 in full thereof, and as to £25 12s. 9^d., a Bond debt from George Branch, John Napper saith it was for Tobacco sold him in Testator's life, and John Napper abated him 17s. 9^d. for dampnified Tobacco in the parcell and received £24 15s. in full, and as to the £3 due by John Webb, both Defendants say that John Webb became insolvent and dyed, and the debt was irrecoverably lost, and as to the £6 14s. charged as a booke debt upon Thomas Pope, both say it was for an adventure sent to Sea for him by Testator and was wholly lost, and Defendants, each speaking for himselfe, never received any satisfacc'on, and as to all the other debts John Napper saith hee hath received them, as in the Schedule expressed, save only that hee abated to Edward Dowting and James Pope £10 a peece, as is usual in such cases, and Thomas Oliver saith the particuler sums of £10, £14 10s., and £6, and the Tobacco amounting to £5 4s. is all that ever came to his hands of the estate of Testator, and Thomas Oliver saith at the tyme of Testator's death hee was Tenant to him of the Copyhold tenement in the Will mentioned, and at the tyme Defendant had severall Cattle feeding thereon, and the Lord of the Mannour whereof the Copyhold tenement is parcell tooke 3 of them to his owne use for 3 Heriotts due to him upon the decease of Richard Oliver, his imediate tenant, which 3 Cattle were worth at the tyme £10 in money, or more, and hee also saith that soone after the decease of Testator hee laid out at severall times £5 in housekeeping and other necessities for the Complainants, the Mother, and the Children, for both which sums, amounting to £15, and also for the £5 Legacy given to him, and for the other necessary expences by him at severall times disbursed in journeys from his dwelling house at Lee neere Malmesbury to the City of Bristoll, being aboute 20 miles distance, and in and about the Administration of Testator's estate, and for his paines taken therein, for which hee reasonably demands £15, hee hopes hee shall bee satisfied out of the Estate, and John Napper saith hee paid for the funeral charges £98 4s. 6^d., as in 2nd Schedule, and £89 13s. 4^d., as in 3rd Schedule, and Susanna Oliver the Mother tooke all the wearing apparell, and he hath paid to her and by her order £100 and 2^d., being in all £110 and 2^d., in parte of her Legacy of £300, as in 4th Schedule, and £837 7s. 5^d., besides his care and paines, as in 5th Schedule and in 6th Schedule hee hath truly set down, and as to the chattle Lease appraised at £250 hee hath dnlly paid the yearly rent of £10, as in the 5th Schedule, and Susanna Oliver lived in the said Mansion house untill June 1682, and then it was lett unto the Lady Lloyd for 3 yeeres from the saide 24th June, and hee saith in the 6th Schedule hee hath truly set downe, and hee hath put to interest, as in the 7th Schedule, and hee exhibits all the Schedules as partes of his Answers, and both Defendants, each speakinge for himselfe, doe deny that Richard Oliver was possessed of a personal estate, as in the Bill mentioned, or of any more than in their Answers expressed, to any knowledge or beliefe of theirs, and they deny they pretend to any other right than as Ex'ors in Trust. Neither hath either the originall Will in his custody, but they beleve it remains in the P.C.C., the probate whereof John Napper hath in his keeping, ready to bee produced, and they never called in money, or received any sums other than expressed, and they deny that they have converted the Testator's estate to their owne use, or have caused it to bee spent or imbeazelled in needlesse Suites, or otherwise, and Thomas Oliver saith hee hath kept noe other account then hee hath sett forth, for that he intermedled noe further in the Administration, save only in coming to Bristoll from time to time to advise and assist therein, and John Napper saith he hath truly putt downe, and will be ready to produce the bookes, and the Defendants say that betweene the making of his Will and his death Testator suffered very great losses and was much impoverished in his estate, wherefore they could not pay Susanna the Mother her Legacy of £300, but they are ready to come to a just account, and to dispose of the remainder of the estate as the Court shall direct, and they say there are severall debts demanded of them, as due by Testator, the particulars of which are not yet delivered to them, and they are now sued by William Crabb of Bristoll, Esq., for a great sum of money, as due to him by Testator, and they will bring the same to a Tryall at Law at the next Bristoll Assizes, and make the best defence they can, and they say they have great cause to beleve Susanna Oliver the Mother and her Sister Lidia Hersent, now Wife of John Gregory of Bristoll, or one of them, hath taken and concealed some of the moneys and other things belonging to the Estate of Testator, for that they were living with him in the Mansion house before and at the time of his decease, and they, or one of them, tooke and kept the keys of Testator's Closetts, Scriptors, Truneks, chests, boxes, and drawers for some considerable time after his decease, and they further say they have been lately disturbed in the possession of the house and premises demised by the aforesaide Lease by one James Motley, which they believe hee hath so done by the instigation of Susanna Oliver the Mother.

Sworn by Thomas Oliver and John Napper at Bristoll 22nd Jan^y 1 Jas. II. William Meridith, Jos. Dorney, John Selwood.

Oliver v. Goning.

23rd Oct. 1680. John Oliver of Bristol, Ironmonger, and Hannah his Wife, Elizabeth Lander, and Mary Lander, by the said John Oliver their Guardian, humbly complaining that in 1658 Edward Lander of Bristol, Ironmonger, Father of yo^r Oratrixes Hannah, Elizabeth, and Mary, and one Joseph Collins became indebted to John Goning of the said City, Esq., in the sum of £1900 upon their own security, as yo^r Orator has been informed, in some short time after which Collins dyed, and immediately after John Goning, for his better security, made Edward Lander acknowledge a Judgment in one of H.M.'s Courts at Westminster, and shortly after John Goning dyed, after whose decease the interest in the Judgment did come to Mary Goning his Widow and Executrix, to whom Edward Lander did from time to time pay all interest, and Edward Lander dyed intestate in 1668 possessed of a considerable estate, sufficient to discharge the Judgment and leave a considerable overplus, after whose death divers meetings were held between Mary Goning the Mother and Robert her Son, afterwards Sir Robert Goning, on behalf of his Mother, and Hannah Lander, Relict of Edward and Mother of yo^r Oratrixes, on their behalf, and among other matters, it was agreed that Hannah Lander should take out Letters of Adm^{on} in her own name of Edward Lander's Estate, and assign them to Mary Goning, and deliver to her all goods, etc., of Edward Lander in payment of the debt, in consideration whereof Mary Goning should pay to yo^r Oratrixes Hannah, Elizabeth, and Mary £400, to be equally divided, to continue in her hands till Security should be given by them to save her and heirs harmless, or till they should attain to 21, or be married, Mary Goning in the meantime to pay the interest for their maintenance, and Hannah Lander did assign the Adm^{on} and deliver the goods, and the debt was paid with all interest, and during the life of Mary Goning the interest of the £400 was paid, but she, having made her Will and appointed Sir Robert her Ex'or, dyed, and he took on him Execution, and did pay some part of the interest due, and did promise to pay the principal and the residue of the interest, and said the money was safe in his hands and should be paid to a farthing, and did often in the presence of Dame Anne his wife acknowledge the debt, and but a little before his death did likewise in her presence offer to pay the £400, yo^r Oratrixes giving security not being of age, but they thought the money secure, and were not willing to receive it till they had opportunity to dispose of it, and Sir Robert Goning dyed intestate in Oct. 1679, and Dame Anne hath taken Adm^{on} of his Estate amounting to £20,000 and upwards, and hath acknowledged the debt, but nevertheless confederates with divers other persons to oppress yo^r Orators and evade payment.

9th July 1687. Answer of Dame Anne Goning, Widow.

She hath heard that Edward Lander had dealings with John Goning, but doth not know that Elizabeth Goning or Sir Robert were concerned therein. Both Elizabeth Goning and Sir Robert were moneyed persons, and had generally moneys lying dead by them, therefore she knows no reason why they should not have paid the Complainants if indebted.

Chancery Proceedings, Hamilton 251, No. 19.

Oliver v. Poulter.

5th May 1694. Humbly complaining yo^r Orators John Olliver, Richard Gibbons, and Richard Taylor, all of Bristoll, Ironmongers, that John Poulter, late of the Burrough of Truro, Ironmonger, being indebted to John Olliver in the sum of £50, did on the 10th June 1691 execute a penal Bond of £100, for payment on the 25th July next ensuing. He was also indebted to the other Complainants. At his death he was seised of a considerable estate in Lands in the Parish of Cambron, Cornwall, and of a Messnage in Truro. He made his Will and appointed Katharine Poulter his then Wife and Jane Poulter his only Daughter and Heir Executrixes, and shortly after in 169- dyed. Jane was then 17; and Katharine and Jane, combining with Peter Courtney of Truro, and Peter Courtney of Lyons Inn, London, his Nephew, refuse to pay. (Very long.)
